Finance Committee Voted $500 for General Help

At the meeting of the Finance Committee held last Monday evening, a difference of opinion which has been in existence since previous to the March Town Meeting as to the amount of money necessary for the collection of the Town's taxes before the Tax Collector, Nathaniel

M. Nichols and the Finance Committee.

At that time Mr. Nichols asked for an appropriation of $1500, to include his salary, $1000, to be paid in equal installments throughout the year and for current expenses of operation.

The Finance Committee recommended that the Town appropriate $1250 for the Tax Collector's Department and this figure was ratified at the meeting. Mr. Nichols stated that he informed the committee that it would be impossible for him to carry on the work of collecting the Town's revenue with any amount less than that which he asked for, but the members of the body evidently felt that the smaller

The Finance Committee for the Tax Collector nothing to do except to go as far as he could with the money appropriated. This he did, and apparently with considerable thoroughness.

About the middle of September, the standing sheet in his office showed outbalance only one personal tax of $100, which is in the Bankruptcy

Court; one real tax of $402, for which the Town holds tax title recorded in Cambridge; $181 in poll tax, which only 20 are collectible;

and several assessments which cannot be collected until the bills for 1928 are issued.

On Sept. 15, after a conference with the secretary of the Finance Committee, Mr. Nichols submitted a statement to the committee in which he informed the members that he could not continue the work of his department without additional funds. Tax bills amounting to $80,500 are due yet to be gotten out, with $2000 more bills for the printing of which there was no money.

At a subsequent meeting of the Finance Committee the matter was referred to a sub-committee of three which met with the Tax Collector on Thursday evening, Sept. 29. Mr. Nichols repeated his story to which the committee is reported to have made no comment.

Later the same week Mr. Nichols was informed by the Town Auditor that there remained in his department only $12,111, against which there were two outstanding tax bills. There was no recourse for the Collector save to dismiss his clerk and to proceed with the tax bills unassisted.

The date of their delivery was set at an increase of $500 or in all the

quested last March.

ed as one of the first string ends on the eleven which is to represent Lake

Forest Academy at Chicago during the coming campaign. "Spillo" entered the western school this fall after four years of participation in football and basketball at the local high school. During the last two seasons

he was known as one of the best ends among the Mystic League circuit and has many friends ready for him to repeat his success with the Lake

Forest team. Lake Forest is to play both the Dartmouth and Princeton freshman teams this season so it will be comparatively easy to get a line on the local boy during a part of his season at least.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

This must be some lonesome world for the fellow who is a crab.

About every dollar made these days brings with it three ways of spending it.

When you lose your temper you're sure to lose a friend.

Ambition is the process of self development.

It isn't so much how much money people know as it is the use they make of their knowledge.

No person can long do good work unless the compensation therefor is money, plenty of it and a reasonable amount of fun.

With the ever growing interest in high school football it won't be long before some sort of scoreboard will be necessary on Manchester Field in order that spectators may be informed of downs, yardage and other information necessary to intelligently follow the game. Last Saturday while Winchester and Rehoboth were playing we heard many queries about technicalities which 10 years ago only players and officials would have appreciated or understood. The sports follower of today emphatically wants to know what's what.

We note with some alarm the increasing numbers of youngsters who are propelling themselves about the town's highways on the ever popular coaster carts, in the face of the apparent danger of which they must surely have been warned. Even in the press of Saturday night traffic in the square we have seen kiddies weaving in and out among the automobiles, pushing their little wagon with a skill which might arouse admiration were it not employed in a cause so entirely foolhardy. Their center is emphatically no place for a child on a coaster cart. Nor is it fair to ask automobile drivers to look out for children in a place where their entire attention is necessary to avoid collisions with other cars. The parents and the town should continue to keep the little folks out of the streets of the business section as much as possible and especially they should insist that coaster carts should not enter the lists with automobiles upon the highways, particularly after dark.

The Star was pleased to learn that on last Monday evening the Finance Committee voted to transfer $2,000 from the Town's reserve fund to the Tax Collector's Department. This addition brought the sum available for the department into conformity with the figures requested by the collector. Nathaniel M. Nichols, previous to the last Town Meeting, figures which Mr. Nichols informed the Finance Committee ought not to be shaved, if he was to be expected to carry on the work of his department successfully. At the time of the March meeting the Finance Committee apparently did not feel that the $1850 requested by Mr. Nichols was entirely necessary and recommended the sum of $1500.70 which was ratified. Substantially the difference of opinion between Mr. Nichols and the committee hinged upon the necessity for steady assistance in the administration of the collector's department. Subsequent events have proven that the smaller amount was insufficient. If Mr. Nichols was to have the clerk which he believes necessary. Seemingly the Finance Committee has changed its opinion. Last March and surely acted promptly to obviate a bad situation in voting the collector the money necessary to efficiently carry on his work. Chairman Henry K. Spencer of the Finance Committee stated to the Star that his committee had at first thought that the original request for steady assistance but that additional information and changing conditions had led the members to alter their views. He further stated that there had been no friction between the collector and the Finance Committee. There should not be. Mr. Nichols has done an excellent job. In asking for clerical assistance he is well within his rights. Many towns comparable to Winchester are paying four times the amount asked here for such help and in now of these places does the Tax Collector's Department issue water bills as is the case in Winchester. Commissioner of Local Taxation Albert T. Bates stated to the Star that he did not feel that Mr. Nichols' request for clerical assistance was unwarranted and further felt that the latter's record as Tax Collector of Winchester is worthy of high praise. It is hard to judge the present needs of this office by past standards. The town's valuation has increased. The increase in receipts from Jan. 1, 1926 to Jan. 1, 1927 is approximately 25 per cent. No collector can hope to spend his time in routine office work and at the same time collect the money due the town. The administration of the office is no trifling job, even with clerical assistance. The Star believes Mr. Nichols' record would be hard to equal and feels that Winchester is fortunate in having a collector of his caliber. It is glad that the Finance Committee has so promptly given him the help he asked. Such action increases the public's confidence in the committee's judgment.

ANNUAL REPORT OF COMMANDER OF WINCHESTER POST, 97.

On Feb. 17, District Attorney Robert Russell, spoke on the subject, "On the Trail of the Crook."

On March 25, we had as our speaker United States Marshall, Colonel William J. Smith.

At the April meeting, we varied the program by showing motion pictures, provided through the courtesy of the United Fruit Company, entitled "Craving the Caribbean."

At the May meeting, Colonel Stuart Washburn of Worcester presented his illustrated lecture on France "Then and Now."

At the June meeting, Mr. H. M. Borne of Lowell, through the co-operation of Post Commander Thummin, exhibited several reels of films showing the reception to Colonel Lindbergh, both in Washington and New York.

At our last Post meeting in September, Lieut. Sumner Sewall, Manager of the Boston office of the Colonial Air Transport, Inc., and a World War Ace, talked on the subject of "Commercial Aviation."

In addition to the regular activities of the Post, there was held on Feb. 19, in the Town Hall, a lecture by Commander Edward Ellsberg of the United States Navy, "Raising $5."

Commander Ellsberg was the officer in charge of the actual operation of raising the sunken submarine.

This lecture was arranged by a special committee which worked hard and faithfully in perfecting arrangements.

The proceeds, while not so large as might be hoped, added a fairly substantial sum to the Post Treasury.

During March, our Post, with the cooperation of the Post Band, took entire charge of an entertainment at the Veterans Hospital at West Roxbury, for the benefit of the ex-service men there. We also assisted in another entertainment at the same hospital on another occasion, and in June our Post Band went to the Veterans Hospital at Rehoboth to assist in a program for the tubercular patients there.

In May, the Post Band broadcasted from WNCB and brought the Post a credit of six hundred dollars. In all of these activities, Post Commander Thummin has been most interested and much credit is due him and Comdr. Jack Sanford, the leader of the Band.

The Welfare Committee, of which Comdr. Ramsdell was Chairman, has been most active in seeing to it that no one is left out of the Post's care.

At Christmas time, the families of several deceased ex-service men were remembered with needy gifts which were greatly appreciated.

During the year, the Committee arranged for and conducted military funerals for two Winchester men. Comdr. William H. Hargrove, residing at Woburn, at the time of his death, was a former member of the Post.

The Home for Aged People in Winchester

110 Mr. Vernon Street

Was established in 1894. For thirty-three years it has provided for the aged residents of this town a comfortable and attractive home in which the members have found an atmosphere of refinement, consideration and loving care that has rendered their later years among the happiest of their lives.

Every uncertainty as to their future welfare is banished from their minds. The home is now caring for seventeen, with an efficiency and tenderness that is exceptional.

Do you not want to have a share in this fine philanthropy? There are approximately six hundred of our citizens who are not contributing towards the maintenance of the home through two classes of membership.

Two dollars per year provides a contributing membership; Five dollars or more per year provides a sustaining membership.

The directors are very desirous of increasing both classes. Only those who have lived in Winchester for five years immediately preceding application or twenty years at some earlier date are eligible to enter the home.

Checks can be made payable to The Home for Aged People and sent to E. Nelson Hawley, Acting Treasurer.

Preston Pond, Edward H. Harrison, Arthur S. Harris, Finance Committee or member of the Post. A delegation from our Post was present at the funeral with a firing squad from the Navy Yard. On Aug. 28, occurred the tragic death of Arthur H. Loftus, a member of our Post for many years. A large delegation from the Post attended his funeral, accompanied by a Navy firing squad. Comdr. Wright assisted in the arrangements by securing from the National Guard a position on which the flag-draped casket was conveyed from the church to its final resting place in Calvary Cemetery.

The Memorial Day exercises were conducted by the town to our care for the second time. We have now filled our trust. On this day, the Memorial Room for which the Post owes a debt of gratitude to Comdr. Eendall and his committee, was dedicated at brief services in the company of the parents of many of the men whose pictures adorn the walls.

The attendance of Post members at all of the Memorial Day services was most refreshing.

The Post Bowling Team, captained by Comdr. Hamilton, was a great success. At appropriate exercises in the Belmont Town Hall the team was escorted with a cup emblematic of the championship of District No. 3, Middlesex County Council.

A Card Tournament, fostered by Comdr. White, proved to be an excellent means of providing entertainment in the Legion House and promoting acquaintance among the members.

On June 11, the Carnival Committee ran a carnival on the Legion-Town Hall grounds. Unlike previous carnivals, all games of chance were eliminated. As a result, the profits of the affair were considerably reduced, but were greater than the committee at first anticipated. Comdr. Clarke and his committee worked most tirelessly to make the carnival a success.

There are, of course, problems that confront the Post. One of them is to devise ways and means of insuring a regular income in addition to the income from dues. We have all agreed, I believe, that the carnival as a means of raising funds, is not successful under present conditions.

The Auxiliary is not aware of a very strong flourishing condition. It means can be devised for renewing this situation, they ought by all means to be adopted. I would also like to know the recommendation of last year's Commander, that the delegates to the State Convention be elected early in the year so that they may attend regularly the meetings of the Middlesex County Council. We were represented at the National Convention in Paris by one delegate, at the State Convention by two delegates, and two alternates, but our representation at County Council meetings has been rather irregular.

In summing up, I believe that the Post has enjoyed a successful year. Our property has been put in good order. Our membership has been greatly increased. There are no overdue bills. There is a small but workable balance in the treasury. The permanent welfare fund has been restored.

C. D. OF A NOTES

Mrs. Mollie Maguire entertained at bridge on Tuesday evening at her Waterloo street home, the number of her friends taxing the capacity of the house. The donations of these people amounted to a substantial sum for the ever-growing Christmas charity fund.

As the cold weather draws nearer, the demands on the charitable Committee last night were increased.

For the week between now and Christmas the attention of the Committee will be devoted to increasing this fund so that the Christmas season will find us, as usual, ready to give a helping hand wherever needed.

The members of the Committee are: P. G. for Charles McDonald, chairman; G. R. Minnie A. O'Connor and Mary McKenzie.

The social meeting on Oct. 20, will be a rummage and supper, followed by an entertainment.

This meeting will be restricted to members. As our rummage supper have always been most attractive and especially well attended, we expect this one to be no exception.

Trustee Katharine O'Connor heads the capable committee.

The committee in charge of the University Extension Course is receiving many applications for admission from both members and non-members so already the success of the course is assured.

We are now looking forward to our next home social which will be held some afternoon soon at the White street home of Sister Katharine E. O'Connor.

TO PARENTS OF PUPILS OF THE WADSWORTH SCHOOL

On Thursday evening, Oct. 12, at the Wadsworth School, the Wadsworth Parent-Teacher Association will hold its opening meeting. You are cordially invited to be present.

The purpose of the association is to help the school in its work, and to help the parents in their work.

It gives an opportunity for personal acquaintance between you and your children's teachers, and for the exchange of ideas and suggestions.

It is a most welcome opportunity for the parents to meet the teachers and to hear of the work of the school.

The speaker of the evening will be Mr. William T. Carleton, chairman of the Wadsworth committee, appointed at the last meeting.

AMERICANS LIVED ON A DRAGON'S BACK AT NANKING

Perils of the American business and educational classes at Nanking turned the focus of attention in the Far East from Shanghai to the old Ming capital, 240 miles away.

Lying on the humps of a "sleeping Chinese dragon," proved to be as hazardous for Americans at Nanking as it was for the Ming emperors who ruled China for a time from the same dragon's back, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Why the Site was Chosen

Cho Hung Wu, first Ming emperor and builder of Nanking, stood on a hill not far from the present University of Nanking and he looked along a line of low hills that indicate the path for five miles to the shore of the Yangtze River.

To him the hills looked like the sprawling body of the sacred dragon, the "Ming dragon."

He built his capital on the dragon's back and it will last forever.

Today the buildings of the University of Nanking, the National Sun Yat-sen University, and the National Central University, which four American Christian denominations joined forces to introduce Western education and Western ways to the Chinese, stand on the dragon's back.

DAVIS—FOGG

Among the early fall weddings in Winchester was that of Miss Alice Fogg, daughter of Mrs. Minnie H. Fogg of Brookside avenue, and Arthur Dover Davis, son of Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Davis of North Arlington, who were married Thursday evening, Oct. 6, at the home of Miss Fogg's mother by the father of the bridegroom, Rev. Mr. Davis.

The double ring ceremony was used, the bride being given in marriage by her brother, Warren M. Fogg of Winchester. The bridal march from "Longway" was played by Miss Marion Leibel Twombly of this town.

Miss Fogg wore a simple wedding gown of white satin with a dress of lace. Her veil of silk mill was with lace and orange blossoms, and arranged in coronet fashion, trimmed with lace and orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Isabel Parker of Woburn who wore a dainty frock of pale yellow georgette over yellow satin with rhinestones and carried Miss Twombly was a wedding pink chiffon. Mr. Davis's best man, Rev. William C. Farrington, N. H.

A reception was held immediately following, the young couple being assisted in receiving by the bride's mother and brother, Mr. Minnie H. Fogg and Warren M. Fogg and by the parents of the groom, Rev. and Mrs. R. J. Davis. Members of the Eureka Society of Winchester played the house for the occasion most effectively with yellow and white crepe paper and autumn leaves. The floral decorations, comprising masses of fall flowers, were from the gardens of Miss Hattie E. Snow and arranged by Miss Snow herself. A myriad of tiny lights were utilized to light the rose arbor in front of the Fogg residence, making a gleaming arch under which the wedding party passed.

Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Davis left upon an extended motor honeymoon trip which is to include Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and New York State. Upon their return they are to make their home in Vermont where Mr. Davis has a Baptist pastorate.

The bride is well known among the young people of the Highlands where she has been active in the work of the Second Congregational Church. She is a graduate of the Winchester High School and has attended Lowell Normal School. Mr. Davis is a graduate of the Salem schools and of Colgate University. He has been studying for the ministry at the Newton Theological Seminary.

Some fortunate motorists left Winchester last Saturday with the necessities for a fine Sunday dinner obtained without either expense or effort on his part. It seems a Winchester lady after purchasing her supplies at a well known market gave directions to have the packages taken by a clerk to her machine outside. He left so and if he happened to put the supplies in the wrong car his error was entirely unintentional. The housewife was given a duplicate of her order and the clerk mentioned fortunate motorist a Sunday dinner, grateful floral decorations, comprising

GRANADA THEATER

Lin-Tin-Tin, the favorite dog star of millions, is appearing at the Granada Theater in Malden the last three days of this week in his new seven hit, "Tracked by the Police." "Tracked by the Police" is a story of the Arizona desert country and of the banding of the Laguna Dam which has converted miles of arid country into arable land. The conflict comes from the rivalry of two construction companies who vie for the job. Jason Rolands is cast as the superintendent of the job, for old Tom Bradley, and the lover of old Tom's lively daughter, Marcella, played by Virginia Brown Fane. Tom Santini, the well known "heavy," is the leader of the opposing group. "Tracked by the Police" is a picture for people of all ages and all classes. It is a rousing melodrama and besides the entertainment value of the story, it truthfully portrays a phase in the making of the West. In addition to the feature picture the regular live act bill of selected burlesque vaudeville will be presented the last half of this week.

Clara Bow, "the modern of the screen" is coming to the Granada for three days starting next Monday in her latest film sensation, "Hula." And what a picture this one turns out to be. Happy, dashing, care-free, heart-breaking Clara dancing through life with a grass skirt. A word to the wise is sufficient and those who want to see the dynamic star in her biggest success will do well to get an early start as the Granada's 2700 seats are sure to be taken each night during the run. In "Hula" Miss Bow plays the part of a girl who has been deceived in which could almost be described as luxurious demureness. The joy life of the wealthy wife in a tropical, with its gambling, drinking, flirting and recklessness becomes her conviction almost from birth. How she overcomes this insidious effect to find regeneration and wholesome love is told in stark, stirring fashion. Clara Bow is the star's leading man.

Miss Ellen Anderson of the Kimball & Earle Company drove a party of young ladies in her automobile through the White Mountains over the past week end. Miss Ruth Matthews of the Arlington Gas Light Company was a member of the party.

EPHRAIM MEN HELD OPENING FALL MEETING

The Ephraim Men's Club held the opening of the new season last Monday evening at the Parish House. The affair was largely in the nature of a social gathering, although it did an opportunity for the men of the parish to meet and greet informally the new pastor, Rev. Truman Hemmaway.

About 65 sat down to the real Cape Cod fish chowder dinner conceived, engineered, and directed by the "Sage of the Cape," former Selectman George M. Byrne. The menu included clam juice, steamed clams in ample quantities with drawn butter, lastword fish chowder with a top-off of apple pie, cheese and coffee. The dinner was voted a huge success and "George" was obliged to respond from the kitchen to a most enthusiastic curtain call. He was assisted in the serving of the meal by several unannounced volunteer members of the club. Tables were set and flowers provided by ladies of the church, including Mrs. Winifred Barr, Mrs. Edward H. Sherman, Mrs. George M. Byrne, Mrs. Mary Carpenter, Mrs. Edward R. Smalley, Mrs. George M. Moreley and Mrs. Elmer P. Bartlett. John D. and George H. Byrne were tireless workers, assisting their father in the kitchen and adding the ladies with the tables. Mrs. A. B. Corbett, honorary member of the club, made a special trip to Winchester from New Hampshire to preside at the plans in her inimitable fashion for the community singing which was led by Dr. "Charlie" Kelley.

Following the supper a brief business meeting was held with President Edward S. Larned presiding. Rev. Mr. Hemmaway was the speaker, taking for the subject of his short address, "Christian Fellowship."

The officers of the Ephraim Men's Club for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Edward S. Larned; Vice-President, Fred M. Himmelford; Secretary, Theodore J. John; Treasurer, Commodore Boxer; Clerk, Thomas W. Brinslow; Lawrences G. Holton; Fredman, George W. Tibbo.

BOWDWIN SO. THEATER

The high quality of the programs at the Bowdoin South Theater, formerly known as the Bowdoin, has been highly commended upon everywhere and beginning Monday the management will provide another of its attractive features. "Tracked by the Police," the outstanding stars of the screen both in popularity and ability will be seen in this baffling picture. "Mockery," in which Barbara Bedford, one of the prominent roles. It deals with the Russian revolution during its darkest days and the career of a man who was one of a beautiful girl. Another picture sure to win favor will be "Madge Bellamy in 'Colleen'" which treats of the career of a girl of Ireland who loves affairs sparked with wit. "Valere vs. Harvard" will be the humorous offering by Our Gang and "The Parting" New together with five selected vaudeville acts will make up a most enjoyable program. On Friday night extra acts of vaudeville will be added. Smart every Sunday at 2 o'clock a series of pictures of the best grade and highest vaudeville. The show at the Bowdoin is always a treat to the city patrons.

Miss Irene Wooten of 17 Glenwood avenue who is visiting in East Main this is most of the big Buick automobile, battery last week.

ADDITIONAL UNDERGROUND CABLES TO BE LAID

At its last regular monthly appropriation meeting the executive committee of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company authorized the expenditure of $27,500 to cover the cost of additional aerial and underground cables in Widdowood, Sauter, Cambridge, and other streets in the Winchester exchange area.

The company expects to start the work this month and complete the job in December of 1928.

The work includes the placing of 29,700 feet of aerial cables containing from 12 to 262 wires, 2800 feet of underground cables containing from 102 to 816 wires, and 145 poles.

There will be removed 6100 feet of aerial cables containing from 30 to 60 wires, 225 feet of underground cables containing from 20 to 240 wires and 1200 feet of open wire.

Upon the completion of the work the company will be able to fill all outstanding orders for new service and changes to different grades of service, and the new equipment will take care of the telephone growth in Winchester for a considerable period of time.

THE FLORENCE CRITTON LEAGUE

At the first meeting of the Winchester Chapter of the Florence Critton League, Mrs. E. C. Alexander is to be hostess and a large attendance is hoped for. Dr. Howard J. Childer is always an interesting speaker and his subject, "The Work of the Florence Critton League" will give us all a better idea of the great good this wonderful organization is doing. Come and bring a friend and in that way help to increase the membership. There is an opportunity for each member to do something. There will be piano music by Miss Lucy Wilcox and a social hour with tea.

Will all members who have not returned the "Rimby and Sunny Day Blues" given out last year kindly do so.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

In richness it is always best to count the cost.
Old age and poverty are two heavy burdens, either one is quite enough.
Truth requires only a short answer but a lie takes a long way around.
Silence is the best answer to anger.
Some men have their virtues concealed by wealth and some their vices by poverty.
Many of the greatest joys of life will shiver away if we keep them too much for ourselves.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The feature pictures at the University for four days beginning Sunday are, "The Blood Ship" with Horatius Bosworth and "Out All Night" with Raymond Sprague. "The Blood Ship" revives the romance of the bygone days of clipper ships, when those speedy vessels carried the flag at the United States merchant marine to the four corners of the world and the captain was monarch of his domain. Adapted from Norman Springer's novel of the same name, "The Blood Ship" scenes are laid along the water-front of San Francisco in the early 80's, in a sailor's lodging house run by "The Knitting Skeel" (a real character who lived in San Francisco in those days) and on board the old clipper ship, "The Golden Bough." In addition to Bosworth the cast includes Jacquelin Logan and Richard Arlen. "Out All Night" is another of the lively, snappy farce comedies for which Henne is famous. Marion Nixon plays opposite the star comedian. For the last three days of the program, the movies "Chance" and "Alias the Lone Wolf" with Bert Lytell and Louis Wilson. To quote from the motion picture world, "for comedy along next in movie this 'Chance' Paramount's latest feature is recommended. It is about as good and as smart as could be made." The most basic film fans say it is a "kick" out of "Chance" must be seen.

HOLIDAY GOLF AT COUNTRY CLUB

The holiday saw plenty of golf at the Winchester Country Club with two tournaments and the final match in the Fall Cup and President's cup competitions.

In the morning the 18 holes medal handicap Class A tourney was won by P. Whorff with a card of 86, 75, E. N. Giles finishing second with 84-77.

T. A. Barnard with 101-71 was one stroke under C. M. Carroll in the class B play during the forenoon, though the latter's 80 was best gross for that group.

Mixed foursomes, selected drive, were on the cards for the afternoon, the winners being Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Gibbs with 98-75, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hendricks finished second with 98-78, the 75's of Mrs. D. M. Belcher and A. P. Chase was best gross.

In the final for the President's Cup Percy Chase defeated "Dink" Hendrick by 4 and 3.

F. A. Tibbets defeated W. H. Gilpatrick in the Fall Cup final by 2 and 1.

WINCHESTER GIVEN REAL BATTLE BY LEXINGTON

After two short weeks and a half, the penalty Anno finally came to Lexington. The 20-yard line, known as the "Lexington Line," was finally broken by the Winchester team. The game was played on a field in Lexington, Mass., and the Winchester team, led by Coach J. H. Smith, won the game by a score of 14-0. The game was a hard-fought one, with both teams showing great spirit and determination. The Winchester team's victory was a significant one, as it marked their first win in the series.

CALL MEET NOTES

Chairman, Harry Dickinson, and his committee have been working steadily on the following schedule for the water season at the Gunnet Club. The first of the entries will be held off later than usual in order to accommodate all the new members. The entries have now closed and the schedule will be mailed in a few days. Bowling will start on Monday, Oct. 17, at 7:55 p. m. The entry records have been broken having reached the high water mark of 31 teams.

Incidentally, this large entry has caused the bowling committee no little embarrassment, as it was found that if the tournament was conducted in the regular way, with each team bowling every other team, it would run until June 30, 1928, using every night available and allowing no room for such a time-honored institution as the Mixed Bowling Tournament. Accordingly, it has been decided to divide the tournament into two sections, each team bowling only the other teams in its section. When the scheduled tournament was held, the eight teams in each section will take part in a World's Series of three matches, for six team prizes. The first teams in each section will play off for third and fourth team prize and the third teams will roll off for fifth and sixth prizes. In addition the usual individual prizes will be awarded, both scratch and handicap, for bowling during the tournament. The connection of teams and the schedule of games will be as follows:

WOMAN AUTO DRIVER

Had Much to Learn

Here's a good one about a woman automobilist that a storekeeper told me recently. The woman who stopped a short way from this man's store, which is in North Salem, and she came in to get some gas from his outside pump. She would have liked to have had a gas pump with her, it appeared. He did not know why until about ten minutes later and then he had a good laugh.

Anyhow, he provided her with a jug in which she could carry the gasoline. She disappeared and he heard nothing, nor saw nothing of her afterward. As the minutes rolled by he came in to get back his jug, or if something else was the matter. The answer came when a man dropped in with the jug. He told the storekeeper that when he came along the woman had the radiator cap off and was just about to pour the gas in, when he stopped her. She asked him to add the lady, who had an expensive car, by the way, and did so. He pointed the gas in where it belonged, tipped his hat in answer to her profuse thanks, and went his way, taking the jug back to the store man. Can you beat that?

I thought people who owned and drove cars were supposed to know some thing about them until told this story, which Mr. Storekeeper avers is the gospel truth. — Salem News.

LOWES: THE YACHTSMAN'S MECCA

Yachtsmen of England and others from far distant ports are pointing towards the town of Cowes, on the south coast of England, or in the Medina River, when the gun goes off for the first event of the Cowes Regatta, ushering in "Cowes Week" which begins Aug. 1, says a bulletin from the National Geographic Society. Cowes is the Mecca of the yachtsmen as St. Andrews is to the golfer. Walsingham to the tennis player, and the "big league" cities of the United States to the baseball fan.

Except for this annual outburst of sportsmen and merry-makers, Cowes is a quiet town with little excitement save the occasional launching of a ship from its large shipbuilding yards and a few large regattas, held under the auspices of British Yacht Clubs, continues the bulletin. Cowes is splendidly located for the Regatta. Built along the shore on both sides of the Medina where that has the best harbor on the Isle of Wight. In reality Cowes is two towns, named according to their location on the two banks. West Cowes, the larger and older portion, has about 10,000 inhabitants 5 weeks of the year, while East Cowes has about a third as many.

During the other weeks of the year, the town is a merry-making ground, with the harbor a sea of white canvas. At night the lights, music and laughter make the harbor an aquatic Broadway.

Old Fort A Yacht Club

Cowes owes its beginning not to a playground but to the establishment of a military post nearly 60 years ago, when Henry VIII built two castle-like forts on each side of the Medina's mouth to defend the coast of England and the Isle of Wight. The eastern castle has disappeared, but the one on the western bank now is used as a club house by the Royal Yacht Squadron, one of the world's most exclusive clubs. Among other coveted privileges, members of the Squadron have the right to fly St. George's white pennant on their craft.

A glass enclosed gallery of the club house is the grandstand during regattas and the "village" green, just below, offers a splendid view of the race course. The Royal London Yacht Club is also at Cowes. Some Castle and Osborne House, near East Cowes, overlooking the Solent, are two of the show places of the island. Some of the world's most beautiful houses are here. Queen Victoria in her youth, Osborne House, built in 1845, was long the seaside home of the Queen. She lived there in 1901. A year later, King Edward gave it to the nation as a memorial to the Queen and it now a home for convalescent officers.

Napoleon Rude to Women

Sending that the emperor was inclined to be tolerant (N.Y.), after the return from Elba. He told him that in general women did not like him because he did not bother to be agreeable to them, although they influenced the minds of men far more than he perhaps realized.

Napoleon laughed and said: "Do you think the emperor ought to fall into the hands of the women? When I compliment them on their appearance, or tell them they are not becomingly gowned, what does it say? They have charged beyond reason on shore. I have been over a score of times in the potties, whereas before they talked about clothes." — From the Memoirs of Queen Hortense, in Revue des Deux Mondes, Paris. (Translated for the Kansas City Star).

Dreaded Ocean Strait

Hubert-Minh, meaning the gate of tears, is the name of the strait, 14 miles in width, uniting the Red sea to the Indian ocean. It was so called in ancient times because of the danger of its navigation. A lighthouse has been erected by the British government on the island of Perim in the middle of the strait.

Bit Too Even

An even disposition is desirable at the bridge table, but not just the kind of an even disposition referred to by the wife when she described her husband as always grudging in the morning.

Sting Removed From Rebuke of Small Son

I have a little son called Jim. Just Jim Nye, that's all, and one day when he was only five years old I requested him to do some slight thing or other, but he kept on playing and humming a little song about the "Sand man." I spoke to him again more firmly, for as a general thing my children regarded me as a source of amusement than anything else, and as he did not stir I gave him a good scolding with the dictionary. It did not hurt him, and he rather enjoyed it until he looked at my face and saw that I was in earnest, and then his heart broke with a huge sob.

At dinner he said nothing and was very little, and when it was over and we were just about to leave the table he got in his mother's lap and said: "Mamma, I wish you had named Jesus. He loved little children." This episode did not make me feel so frightfully proud of myself, but I was glad that the child's heart was so true.

Borrowing Crickets

Male crickets combine the characteristics of the cricket with the habits of a mole. They dig winding burrows in the loose soil on the borders of ponds and ditches, raising ridges like miniature molehills. In their subterranean wanderings they eat the roots of plants upon which, as well as upon earthworms and larvae, they feed. A Porto Rican species does serious damage to crops. The species occurring in the eastern United States are Gryllus, Scaphiocratus and Hemigryllus. They may be recognized by their large, brown bodies with a velvety covering of the close hair, short wing covers and fossorial front legs, not unlike the paws of a mole. The ear of the male cricket is situated on the front leg below the knee. Two pairs of wings are found, the small upper wings and larger wings. These crickets are not poisonous.

Wilde on Shaw

The British government's refusal to allow the broadcasting of Bernard Shaw's seventeenth birthday speech led Richard Le Gallienne to say at a luncheon in Rowington: "In the '90s, when Shaw was just beginning to be known as a brilliant Socialist, full-throated and playful, his last play, 'Widowers' Houses,' was discussed at a dinner party that I attended with Oscar Wilde. "Shaw? a dowager duchess said in the middle of the discussion, 'who the devil is Shaw?' "Wilde, 'don't you know?' said Wilde. 'He's the chap who smokes the — cigarettes.'"

Same Old Story

"I say Jim, I must tell you about my fishing trip to Wonder Lake." "Never mind, old man; I know all about it." "Why, I haven't told you." "No, and you don't have to. Fish as thick as sardines in a box." "That's right."

"Some of the largest fish you got on your hook at Wonder Lake?" "Yes, yes." "Pulled fish in so fast you couldn't take 'em all off the hooks?" "Correct again, Why, Jim, you must have been in there."

Uses for Papier Mache

Papier mache is a substance made of paper pulp or paper that has been reduced to a pulp. Pulp is mixed with oil, glue, resin or some other material to make it hold together when dry. Coppers, quicklime or white of egg is added when it is desired to make the substance resist water, and the addition of borax and phosphate of soda will keep it from rotting. Papier mache was probably first manufactured in India, China and Japan. It is molded into masks, dolls' heads, trays, picture frames, buttons, boxes, etc.

First Presbytery Meet

The first General Presbytery of America was organized in 1767 at Philadelphia by Francis McLean, an Irish minister. He was chosen the first moderator.

Joseph Conrad's Baby

Joseph Conrad, the famous writer of sea stories, wrote a letter to a cousin in 1862, three days after the birth of a son. The letter is included in a group of Conrad's letters published by World's Work. "The doctor says it is a magnificent boy," he wrote. "He has dark, big, large eyes like me, resembles a — never. When I think of that my wife pretends that he also resembles me. Eh? Do not draw too hasty conclusions from this astounding coincidence of circumstance. My wife is certainly mistaken."

Xerxes' Mighty Army

Xerxes, the Persian King, used an odd method to count his soldiers before the battle of Thermopylae in 480 B. C. He had the greatest army of invasion that ever had been seen upon the earth when he moved against the Greeks. He wanted to know how many fighting men there were, so he had 10,000 of them counted and they were huddled into as dense a mass as possible and a wall was built around the space they occupied. Then the whole army entered the enclosure in detachments so that the number of times it was filed, multiplied by 10,000, was approximately the total of the invading forces. This figure, according to Herodotus, was 1,700,000 soldiers and 800,000 camp followers. With attendants and the sailors and soldiers of the fleet added, he brought the total up to 2,337,000.

Prolific Tomato Plant

The bureau of plant industry says that it is not beyond the bounds of possibility to produce one bushel of tomatoes from a single plant. This field is received, however, by giving individual attention to the plant, avoiding the use of room, liberal feeding and fertilizing. A trellis must also be erected over which the plant can extend its shoots. There is little advantage in trying to get a maximum yield from a single plant, for the attention is centralized on one plant rather than six or eight. Space of five or six ordinary and the possible failure, seed pots or disease, is so many as fifteen pounds of tomatoes can be gathered from one vine without enormous effort on the part of the grower.

Tame Monkeys Outcasts

After monkeys have lived with human beings for a time they are looked upon as outcasts by their wild relatives. And should they then escape and return to the forest, they are sometimes so, and try to retain their tribe. It is attacked by the others and driven away or put to death. On several occasions I have seen wild monkeys chasing pets, and once I witnessed an execution. They are a terrible thing, for the monkeys are savage fighters and utterly relentless when excited and angry. I have known them to wait patiently day after day for a village for an opportunity to kill a captive relative. Hatred, jealousy and suspicion are as highly developed in the monkey family as in the human race. — Della Akley in the Saturday Evening Post.

FORMER MAID ARRESTED ON LARCENY CHARGE

Winchester Police Recover Articles Taken from West Side Home

Mrs. Theresa M. Melanson of 13 Park avenue, Woburn, was arrested last Saturday afternoon by Chief of Police William R. McIntosh, following information received by the local authorities which connected her with the disappearance of personal effects valued in the neighborhood of $400 from a West Side home in which she had served as a maid during the past summer.

According to the police account of the affair Mrs. Melanson had been employed as a domestic by Frank A. Eaton, formerly of New York, who last May leased the home on Grassmere avenue of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Phelps.

After spending the summer in Winchester, Mrs. Eaton moved to Cambridge, the Phelps returning to take up their residence in town.

Following her return Mrs. Phelps missed some of her personal effects and a more thorough investigation revealed articles of jewelry, etc., to the amount of $400 missing. She at once communicated her discovery to the police.

Meanwhile Mrs. Eaton was once again employing Mrs. Melanson in her Cambridge home. She too began to find things missing and upon learning of Mrs. Phelps' experience became suspicious of her maid.

Upon being questioned in connection with the matter Mrs. Melanson's actions further aroused Mrs. Eaton's suspicions and she communicated with Chief McIntosh who at once set out a search warrant to look through the Woburn domestic's home.

Last Saturday afternoon, accompanied by Chief Charles McCauley of the Woburn Police and by Sgt. Thomas Cassidy and Officers James Farrell and Henry Dempsey of his own department, Chief McIntosh went to Mrs. Melanson's home. Mrs. Phelps also accompanied the officers. Upon their arrival they were able to recover articles identified by Mrs. Phelps as hers to the extent of more than $150. Mrs. Melanson was not at home when the police arrived and believing that she might be expecting the visit, Chief McIntosh withdrew, leaving Patrolman Farrell at a vantage point to watch the house. After some time Mrs. Melanson returned and was taken into custody by Chief McIntosh. At Police Headquarters she was booked on a charge of larceny.

She appeared in the District Court at Woburn Tuesday morning, her case being continued until Thursday.

Sunday afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock the Fire Department was called by an alarm from Box 37 to put out a blaze in the house at 55 Irving street occupied by Mr. A. Abate. The fire was caused by rugs in the attic which became ignited and did little damage.

SOMERVILLE THEATRE

"Stella Dallas" from the novel by Olive Higgins Prouty. Cast of characters are as follows:

Miss Louise Black
Miss Frances Colburn
Mrs. Kay-Bird
Mrs. Holland
Stella Dallas
Mrs. Monley Smith
Suzette Everett
Tommy Everett
Richard Everett
Lorna De Winter
Clyde Heath
Thyllis Harbour
John Morrison
Stephen Dallas
Peter Sinclair
Ann

"Stella Dallas," as acted by Viano's Somerville Players this week is a live story. Coming from comedy and musical comedy to the serious drama the players gave another excellent exhibition of the adaptability to enact any sort of roles.

Miss Rita Davis in the title role gave a wonderful characterization and well merited the applause she received. Playing opposite her was Howard Brown, who, as "Ed Munn" had his first big part as a member of the company. Coming from comedy and musical comedy to the serious drama the players gave another excellent exhibition of the adaptability to enact any sort of roles.

Miss Franqui Colburn, as Lauree Dallas, loved by both father and mother, but always faithful to the latter, was brilliant in her part. She was well supported by Jack Talbot, who has the part of her lover.

Miss Tabatha Goodwin is again seen in the role of a matronly lady, one to which she is particularly adapted. Frank Roberts, in the part of Stephen Dallas, gave one more evidence of his ability to play a heavy role.

The story is full of heart interest and pathos, with a sprinkling of comedy, an dthe rest of the cast, well chosen by Director Doyle, were fine in their support.

A play of extraordinary interest is promised for next week, when the latest comedy from the pens of the well-known dramatists, Frederic and Fanny Hatton, and entitled, "Treat 'Em Rough," will be the offering.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen T. Whittier of Nutley, N. J., formerly of Lowell, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Whittier, to Captain Abbott of Brooklyn, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Grafton Abbott of Winchester.

Miss Whittier is a graduate of Rogers Hall at Lowell, where she was a member of the class of 1922 and of Connecticut College, class of 1926. Mr. Abbott was graduated from Amherst College with the class of 1926 and is now with the Specialty Store Association in New York City.

Captain Walter L. Medding of Fletcher street attached to the United States Army Engineers, is leaving town this week, having been ordered to report for duty at Fort Logan, Denver, Col., Oct. 31.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

Plans are being perfected for the next meeting of the Court which will be a harvest supper and entertainment. This will be held in Lyceum Hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 20. Only members may attend this meeting at which the annual roll-call will take place. Chairman Katharine F. O'Connor of the Trustees is in charge of the evening and will be assisted by a capable committee.

Applications for admission to the course which the Court is planning to conduct under the direction of the State's department of University extension must be handed in before the first of November to insure one's membership in the class.

P. G. R. Elizabeth C. McDonald will be the speaker at the annual guest night of the Stenham Catholic Women's Club on Monday evening, Nov. 7. Her subject will be "Americanization" and the club will have as its guests that evening Stenham Post, American Legion, the Stenham American Legion Auxiliary and the heads and superintendents of the various Stenham factories.

The local Court will be represented at the C. D. A. banquet on Sunday evening, Oct. 30, by Grand Regent Minnie A. O'Connor and Vice Regent Nellie Moffett.

The guest of honor at this reception and banquet will be Rt. Rev. William J. Hahey, Bishop of North Carolina, National Chaplain of the C. D. A. There will be guests present from every Court in Massachusetts as well as from New York and many other states.

NEW SEWER SOON TO BE IN USE

The trunk line sewer to Woburn has been completed, it is announced, and with the connection of the several tanneries there, the pollution of the Abernethy River, which has been a much discussed and condemned item in this town, will cease. It is also expected that the overflow of the present sewer will be taken care of and cellars of the business blocks in Winchester centre will not continue to be flooded with sewage.

The city of Woburn, it is stated, will undertake the construction of an extension of the new sewer to care for the sewage from the tannery of the John J. Riley Company. There are also three tanneries that will be connected with the trunk line, the Riley Company, Murray Japanning Company and the Crescent Leather Company.

The committee in charge of the affair includes Kingman P. Cass, Arthur S. Hollins and Oliver P. Iyer. John H. Powers will have supervision of the dinner tickets. It is announced that H. J. Seiler and Co., well-known caterers for Boston Masonic affairs, have been given charge of the dinner, so that members and their guests are promised an excellent menu, well-served in the manner for which Seiler is noted.

SURPRISED ON WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Wilson Hosts to Large Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Wilson were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening, Oct. 1, when a group of more than 125 relatives and friends from Winchester, Boston, Cambridge, Lynn, Fitchburg and Brockton gathered at their home on Yale street to congratulate them upon the 15th anniversary of their marriage.

The affair was entirely unexpected by the Wilsons who had planned to spend the evening quietly with members of their immediate family. Many of the guests met at Arlington and motored in a body to Winchester, their machines filling much of the space available about the Wilson home.

The reception was delightfully informal and was featured by several selections sung by the choir of the Swedish Congregational Church of Cambridge of which Mr. Wilson is director. Among the many beautiful gifts which the Wilsons received were a crystal sherry set and a colored crystal supper set from the choir and members of the church.

The presentation was made by the Church Moderator, August Westlund of Belmont, while congratulations and best wishes were offered by the Pastor, Rev. David Segerstrom, himself newly returned from a trip to Sweden.

The house was filled with beautiful flowers, and dainty refreshments were served. Much amusement was occasioned by the appearance during the serving of the collation of a real bride's cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were married in the Little Congregational Chapel on Cross street, Oct. 1, 1912, by the Rev. K. Frederick Ohlson of Cambridge who was assisted by the Pastor, Rev. W. F. Fryling. For a time following their marriage they made their home in Watertown, returning to Winchester 8 years ago. Both have many friends in town and Mr. Wilson is widely known throughout this district as a choir director and singer, being the possessor of a fine tenor voice. The Wilsons have three children, Anita, aged 12; Albert 10 and Donald 7.

CARR AND HENDRICK WON AT COUNTRY CLUB

J. P. Carr and P. A. Hendrick won the four-ball golf tournament at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon, shooting in 72. Two teams tied for second with 74. Only a small field went around.

The summary:

J. P. Carr & P. A. Hendrick ..... 72
R. L. Smith & A. M. Bond ..... 74
A. P. Oline & T. Hicks ..... 74
R. H. Bonwell & W. Stratton ..... 74
T. J. Fekken & F. R. Murphy ..... 74
T. J. Fekken & C. C. Bowditch ..... 74

Mr. Hans Hakenson of Sheridan circle notified the police that dogs killed one of his rabbits and did considerable damage to his hen coop during the night of Monday.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL FOLLOWING CRASH

Albert H. Nunley, 24, of 68 Irving street was removed for examination to the Winchester Hospital Tuesday noon following an automobile accident on Washington street near St. Mary's Church in which the Ford truck he was driving charged with a Packard sedan in the care of Edward D. Holland of 12 Hancock street.

Nunley was driving north and according to Holland, struck the Packard in the rear, the latter machine, the property of the Anderson Motor Car Company of 666 Main street having stopped. The front end of the Ford was badly smashed and Nunley was taken to the hospital where he was attended by Dr. Roger M. Burzyne. He was reported as not badly injured.

Members of the Town's Police and Fire Department shared in the Cape Cod dinner which the members of the Epiphany Men's Club enjoyed last Monday evening. Ex-Selectman Geo. M. Byrne who prepared the supper evidently over estimated the capacity of his fellow members of the club who were faced with an overwhelming surplus. With the hearty consent of the club "geese" took the steamed clams and fish chowder to the "hows" Headquarters and the Central Station. Needless to state both were appreciated.

Henry "Bucky" Lyons, former well known Winchester man, was one of those to arrive in Boston Monday on the Carmania. Gena "Buck" who is a World War veteran has been in Paris with the American Legion as a delegate to the National Convention of that body. He expects to remain in this vicinity for about three weeks visiting friends.

WINCHESTER MAN WINNER IN RADIO CONTEST

Vann Orin Newinger, tenor, of Winchester, was chosen as one of the winners in the Greater Boston Air-water-Kent Foundation radio singing trouts held Monday afternoon in Jordan Hall and in the Repertory Theatre. He will be heard with the other winners of the contests held in the principal cities of Massachusetts over Station WEEI on the evening of Oct. 15 at 7 o'clock. The radio public and the judges to be selected will form the jury to select the ultimate winners, the former giving 80 per cent of the verdict and the latter 20 per cent. State winners will advance over Station WEEI on the evening of Oct. 15 at 7 o'clock. District winners will receive free trips to Washington and New York, competing in the final national contest in New York for the national awards.

Situated on the West Side of Winchester off of Cambridge Street nearly opposite Calumet Road. A tract of 20 lots of land varying in size from 7000 to 12,000 square feet in area. Every lot affords a beautiful panoramic view of the most attractive part of the town. In addition to the four houses already erected thereon, the Fairmount Associates have purchased five uncompleted houses adjoining their property at a mortgagee's sale. This in order not only to conserve the high type of construction originally planned for this tract, but more particularly to control the disposition of these houses, in order to maintain the high class neighborhood to which we set out to create. These aforesaid five houses are nearing completion and will be offered to satisfactory parties at reasonable prices and possibly one or two of these houses may be obtained for rent.

VETERANS' WELFARE BRIDGE

A very successful luncheon bridge was given yesterday by the Disabled Veterans' Welfare Group at the home of Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase, 3 Lakeview terrace. Forty tables were attractively grouped in the spacious rooms of Mrs. Chase's charming home.

In order that the greatest possible percentage of the proceeds of the affair might accrue for the future welfare of the boys, a "bring your own program" was carried out. Each table was supplied with the necessary china, silver and linen, as well as the playing cards and accessories required for the bridge following the luncheon, by the ladies who sponsored the table. In this way a great number of women were privileged to actively participate in this worthy undertaking.

The luncheon and all the prizes, their being one for every table, were donated. Many of the articles used as prizes were purchased from the boys at the West Roxbury Hospital who had made them.

Hand woven rugs, made by the veterans, were sold during the afternoon and many orders to supply others were taken.

The affair was in charge of Mrs. Charles F. Winslow of Yale street, as Chairman, assisted by the following committee: Mrs. Clarence H. Young, Mrs. J. W. Moran, Mrs. George Goddard, Mrs. I. E. Camargo, Mrs. Phillis Hammond, Mrs. R. K. Miller, Mrs. R. F. Carole, Mrs. Bessie Kishle, Mrs. William Kneeland, Mrs. E. Hawes Kelley, Mrs. Walter W. Chamberlain, Mrs. Nathaniel Nichols, Mrs. George Putnam and Mr. F. O. Fish.

A large measure of the success of the affair is due to the consistent efforts and integrity of the President of the Group, Mrs. Mae R. Hoy, who aided the committee in charge in every possible way and inspired them to ultimate success by her sterling example.

The sincere gratitude of the Group is extended to the hostess of the afternoon, Mrs. Ernest Dudley Chase, for her generosity and gracious hospitality in opening her beautiful residence for the occasion.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

Clara Bow, the "milkmaid of the screen" is with us again, and how! Clara Bow in "Hula." Well, you can imagine what that means to the bouncers, flaming haired flapper whose exploits this time are brought out in bold relief through perfect setting. Happy, dashing, carefree, heart-breaking Clara dancing through life with a genius skirt. A better chance for a demonstration of her ability couldn't be found. It is the same Clara as of old. The same Clara who lured them from their seats with "Mantrap" who left them goggle-eyed in "Children of Divorce" who rapped them silly in "Rough House Revue" and raved them around her finger in "Wines." "Hula" is the feature picture at the University for four days beginning Sunday.

The companion picture is "What Happened to Father" with Warner Oland from the story by Mary Roberts Rinehart. For the last three days of the week the pictures are "When A Man Loves" with John Barrymore and Dolores Costello and "The Black Diamond Express" with Monte Blue.

"When A Man Loves" is the tremendous screen version of Abbe Prevost's immortal story of love and terror in the days when Louis XV ruled in France. The costumes are replicas of originals loaned by the French Government on Warner Bros. $24,000 bond. Historically correct settings of ancient Paris, the King's Court at Versailles, streets, pastoral scenes and sequences on the prison ship, and during the mutiny of the crew, and many others, are marvels of photography. Alan Crossland, who was responsible for "Don Juan" directed.

ASSEMBLY AT THE LINCOLN SCHOOL

The exercises were held in honor of Columbus and were given by the children of the fourth grade under the direction of Miss Sheehan. Opening Number: Salute to the Flag. Star Spangled Banner. Reading: "Columbus" Lucie Loomis, Robert Laine, Dominick Loring, Robert Gilbert, Charles Fleming. Piano Solo: "Columbus" Anna MacParthol. Song: "Columbus" Entire Class. Line Drill: "Columbus" Boys of Grade. Recitation: "Columbus" Six Grade Girls. Song: "America the Beautiful" Entire School.

Winchester merchants are very obliging in the matter of exchanging sizes for the Needlework Guild.

C. D. OF A. NOTES

Mrs. Mary McKenzie of the Charitable Committee is confined to her home with a severe cold and Mrs. Harry Brown has sufficiently recovered from her recent illness so as to be able to attend meetings again.

Trustee Mary Kelley has as her guests this week her daughter, Sister Mabel O'Brien of Bethel, Me., Mr. O'Brien and the new baby, Patricia Francis.

The junior bridge club, composed of young ladies whose mothers are affiliated with our order, will in the very near future conduct a bridge in aid of our Christmas Charity fund. Also, Mrs. Mary Mann of Hill street will conduct our next home social. She will be assisted by Mrs. John Murray.

Those of our sisters who are contemplating attending the State reception and banquet to our National Chaplain, Bishop William J. Hafey, on Oct. 29, may obtain reservations through S. R. Minnie A. O'Connor, tel. 0650-M.

Last night the Court conducted its annual harvest supper and roll call and almost 100 per cent of the membership responded. After partaking of a most attractively served covered dish luncheon the amateurs staged a barbershop that would have done justice to Bert Williams.

The setting was old-fashioned, many ladies wearing their wedding dresses and others attired in costumes of an even more remote date. The "show" was the best yet staged, singing and acting being of the highest order. The program:

When You and I Were Young, Mrs. John Murray.
Old couple, Mrs. Catherine Keane, Mrs. John Murray.
Bonnie Sweet Bessie.

G. R. Martin, A. O'Connor, Highland Flare, in costume.
The Girls of Long Ago, a period routine.
F. C. R. Walters, T. Gaudin.
The Sidewalks of New York.

Honorary Walter, Mary McGrath, Emma Walker, Mrs. Harry F. Brown, Songs of Grandmother's Days.
Mrs. Mollie I. Marston.
That Old Sweetheart of Mine.
Elizabeth C. McDonald.
(The wife, Nora O'Melia).

Following the concert a social hour was held and plans discussed for the November play.

FORMER WINCHESTER BOY SET NEW ENGLAND HEIGHT RECORD

Residents of Winchester generally were interested to learn that a former local boy, Lieut. R. S. Fogg of Concord, N. H., last Saturday unofficially broke the New England altitude record for civilian pilots at the Rhode Island air pageant in Easton-woods. The mean altitude, computed from two altimeters, was 21,450 feet, although one of the altimeters registered 21,500 feet.

Lieutenant Fogg had set 22,000 feet as his goal, but said that he decided to desist when "everything went black." He did not suffer from altitude, as he was in winter flying gear, but complained of a bad headache for about an hour afterward.

The former record of 19,000 feet was established in 1922 at Hartford, Conn., by Captain Burrelson, now regular air mail pilot between New York and Boston.

RELEASED BY JUDGE MORTON

James Waldman of Malden was given a six months' suspended sentence Tuesday morning when he appeared before Judge Jesse W. Morton in the District Court at Woburn, charged by the Winchester Police with receiving and entering and larceny.

The defendant was arrested by officer James Donaghy after it is alleged he had some time ago effected an entrance into one of the new houses on Allen road. The authorities connected him with the disappearance of several curtains from the house.

Waldman came to the courtroom Tuesday morning newly released from the House of Correction where he had been remanded for uttering false checks. He pleaded "guilty" to the breaking and entering charge but denied any larceny or intent.

Chief of Police William R. McIntosh asked for a continuance of the case until he could produce several witnesses for the prosecution, but Judge Morton felt that the case could be decided at once.

The judge did not wish to return Waldman to confinement in view of the fact that he had a wife and three children. He stated that he would impose a six months' suspended sentence, if the defendant cared to accept it, but that the latter could appeal the "larceny" charge if he wished.

Waldman chose to waive appeal and accepted the suspended sentence and was released after a warning from Judge Morton concerning his duties to his family.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Capt. Daniel J. Ganty, U. S. A., who recently returned to this country after spending three and one-half years in Europe as a member of the American Embassy in Paris and who traveled extensively throughout France, Belgium and Italy in the Graves Registration Commission of the U. S. Army will be the speaker at the meeting of the Winchester Legion Post on Thursday evening, Nov. 2.

Capt. Ganty is a member of the Paris Post of the legion. He served with the 9th infantry of the Second Division during the war and at Chaumont Thierry was badly gassed. Following his hospitalization he was transferred to the Motor Corps with which service he served until the Armistice. Captain Ganty was then detailed to General Headquarters and was placed in charge of the work in returning American prisoners from Germany via Belgium.

Returning to this country, Captain Ganty was selected by the War Department to head the Graves Registration Commission in France. His talk to the Winchester Legion Post will most likely be about the Government's efforts in identifying and taking care of the graves of the American soldiers who fell in France.

It was Captain Ganty who arranged the Government contracts in Italy for the permanent marble markers for the American Cemeteries in France.

His talk on Nov. 2 is expected to be most interesting and a large attendance of Legionnaires is predicted.

Captain Ganty is a Woburn man, making his home with his family on Porter street, that city. At present, he is on a two months' furlough from Governor's Island, New York.

Double Shift

At a club a man who had applied in vain for membership was being discussed. "I have heard that he is unscrupulous to an unusual degree," said one member. "Is he?" "Yes," replied another. "He has followed me to perform, he would have to put in overtime feeding remorse," Boston Transcript.

Winchester Club

The annual club smoker was held at the club house on Thursday evening, Oct. 13. A number of the members and their families were present. Pictures were shown first of scenes taken in the Holy Land. These were held on schedule Monday night, and while scores were much below what will be the rule a little later in the season were rolled, the game was nevertheless interesting and hotly contested. Straight wins were the order, teams 8, 3 and 31 taking all four points from 2, 19 and 10. But one string showed any close figures, 8 taking the first two by three pins. John Johnson was high roller with 110 and 200. Warren, C. G. took 108 with 108, and other singles were Hartford and Goodale's 107's and Goldsmith's 103's.

WINCHESTER DOG WON FIELD MEDALS

Ex-Selectman Bryne's Onondaga Dick Best Hunting Dog in Trials

Ex-Selectman George M. Bryne's handsome pointer, Onondaga Dick, won the honors for hunting dogs in the field trials of the Woburn Sportsmen's Club, held at the Woburn race track, in Woburn, Mass., last Saturday.

Many dogs were entered from cities and towns throughout the State. The judges were O. E. J. Flaherty of Connecticut, and prizes were awarded in three events—the open class for dogs of all ages, puppies and the derby.

The prize winners were: Open for all ages—won by Onondaga Dick, pointer, George M. Bryne of Winchester, handled by Michael Siminatore of Woburn; second, Maltese Fella Roma owned by Otto M. Division of Burlington, handled by the owner; third, between Bird Hill Dot, owned by F. R. Bridges of Needham and Buddy Roscoe, owned by H. F. Fuller, South Scituate, was the toss-up by Bird Hill Dot.

Puppies—won by Peter Mohawk, owned by Otto M. Division of Burlington, handled by Mr. Division; second, Molly Mohawk, owned by Mr. Division; third, Speed's Lassie Boon, owned by Martin J. Foley of Woburn.

The trials started in the morning and lasted throughout the day. Many sportsmen attended the event. The winners will be entered in the Fish and Game Association events in November.

WADLEIGH P. T. A. IN FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association for the school year 1927-28 was held Thursday evening, Oct. 13, at the Wadleigh School. Mrs. Henry Fitts, the new President of the Association, presided and introduced Mrs. W. T. Carleton as the first speaker of the evening.

Mrs. Carleton, as Chairman of the committee on secondary school facilities, gave a most instructive account of the search by his committee for an available site for a possible new building. Some of the locations the committee considered were the Skillings place, the Town Library lot, land adjacent to the High School and in the vicinity of the High School and finally the old Prince School site. This seemed to be the most economical and wisest choice for the committee. School street could be closed and the purchase of some surrounding property a saving of over $25,000 could be effected, over any other location studied.

Mrs. Edward T. Mason, first vice-president of the Association, Chairman of Parents and Teachers, spoke on a bulletin and magazine which would be of help to all interested in young people.

A business meeting was then held, followed by a social hour between parents and teachers after which refreshments were served.

POWERS-MORIN

Miss Florence M. Morin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morin of Maplewood, Malden and Paul J. Powers of 5 York, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Powers, were united in marriage at 5 York last Sunday afternoon in St. Joseph's Church, Maplewood, by the Pastor, Rev. Fr. Walsh.

Miss Morin wore a gown of shell pink crepe de chine with picture hat to match and carried a train of brides' rose and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Morin of Maplewood, as maid of honor. Mrs. Morin also wore a frock of shell pink crepe de chine with hat to match and carried pink tea roses. Thomas Powers of Winchester, brother of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception to more than 150 guests was held immediately after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 8 Marlboro street, Malden, where the wedding supper was served.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Powers left upon a honeymoon trip to Philadelphia. Upon their return they are to make their home in Malden. Both young people are well known in their respective communities. The bride is a graduate of the Malden High School and had been employed up to the time of her marriage as a secretary for the Pace & Shaw Company in Cambridge. Mr. Powers attended Winchester High School and is associated in the contracting business with his father.

BOWDOIN SQ. THEATER

There will be a program of marked excellence at the Bowdoin Sq. Theater beginning Monday. As the top feature, the management will stage John Conroy and his five Diving Girls who will give a fine exhibition of high diving together with various swimming strokes used by famous swimmers the world over. These girls are noted also for their beauty and popularity. On Wednesday evening there will be an amateur diving contest for girls and on Thursday evening a perfect figure contest will be in vogue. The picture part of the program will offer John Harrymore and Dolores Costello in "When a Man Loves," a story of youth, beauty and tenderness woven into a sweet romance. Their only sin was that "they loved" and the theme is handled masterfully. Another picture will offer George Brien in "Paid to Love" with Virginia Valli and J. Farrell MacDonaid in the cast. "No Cheating" will be the Mermaid Comedy and the Pathe Shows and the vaudeville act will be seen. Friday night is largest night. Concert every Sunday at 3, comprising vaudeville and pictures.

The Missionary Circle of the New Hope Baptist Church will have a sale of food and fancy articles at 524 Main street, Oct. 27, from 12 to 5:30 p. m.

THE PERILS OF MOTORING IN THE EARLY '90s

And Mr. Barrett Walked

Charles E. Barrett and his brother-in-law, Alfred H. Hildreth of Cambridge, have been up against a perils of motoring. The story of their adventures is a funny one.

Mr. Hildreth owns the machine and has become quite an expert in handling it. The other day, the good machine made a bright and early start for the open country. To quote Mr. Barrett, the auto flew over the fine roads like a bird, and it was a great triumph for the new Concord road, the machine bird and coughed with a heavy pressure of steam showing in the gauge.

As a hill climber the short proved a marvel. And so it went, over hill and dale, until the town of Westford, 10 miles beyond Concord, was reached. At all times it became apparent that something about the auto was fatigued. Steam gradually slipped away without apparent cause.

Mrs. Barrett and Hildreth crawled on their hands and knees and craned their necks to catch a glimpse of the mechanism. It had to be all right, the gasoline supply, too, was sufficient, so the trouble certainly was not caused by lack of fuel. After some delay the steam gradually rose to the accustomed pressure and, mounting the seat, a start was made. Off went the auto with a rush and with every revolution of the wheels, the steam dropped till the zero mark was reached by the wavering steel finger of the dial. There was another inspection of the boiler and another start, but progress was slow. Finally Mr. Barrett suggested that they push the machine along the road so as to get nearer home. The gentleman accordingly adjusted their shoulders to the place where the tail board ought to be, and pushed and shoved and perspired.

They moved the 750 pounds of dead weight to the crest of a hill, then climbed to the seat and coasted to the foot. As they coasted, now and then people passed in carriages and looked with calm scorn on the men who would go driving in a carriage that couldn't propel itself. One man suggested that they borrow a pair of shafts and a horse and haul the thing home.

It was finally decided to leave the auto on some high shed and have a machinist sent out to repair it. But the farmers wouldn't take the thing into their buildings, because it consisted of gears and shafts and things that might explode or do something that would render void their insurance. In desperation the hunt for a storage place was abandoned and the auto was shunted into a field and covered with two barn doors.

After a delay of five hours in work, over the engine Messrs. Barrett and Hildreth reached home. Next morning an expert was sent out to the place where the mass of metal and iron lay. He found a piece of cork in the vaporizer, an accident that is liable to occur to any machine of that type. In less than 15 minutes the auto was home-ward bound.

GRANADA THEATER

Here's a picture to laugh and to cry over—a picture that will go straight to your heart and it's "For the Love of Mike," which heads the big program the Granada Theater in Malden will offer the last three days of this week.

The story is about a foundling who is discovered by three men living in the notorious Hell's Kitchen of New York. The men are a Jew, a German and a Jew. All claim the little youngster, but compromise at last by agreeing to let him up co-operatively, so to speak. As the boy grows up and becomes captain of the Yale crew the incident of his discovery increases. "For the Love of Mike" is one of the most popular pictures the Granada has offered in some time and well worth a special effort to see. The usual five-act frankville bill, together with the Granada Symphony Orchestra and specialties by Roy Frazee, organist, will also be offered the last three days of this week.

"Nevada," another winner from the pen of Zane Grey, comes to the Granada the first three days of next week with Gary Cooper, Trolita Todd and William Powell as the featured players. It is a romantic story of gunplay, love and adventure in the country of the cattle barons. Gary Cooper, as the hero, starts out somewhat under a cloud, being too hasty with a pair of six-shooters, but gets his shooting ability to good use before the picture is over. It is a good picture, one that everybody will like. The regular five-act bill of vaudeville will also be offered the first three days of next week.

GRACE D. PIERCE

Grace D. Pierce, widow of Orin Pierce and a resident of Winchester for the past 23 years, died late Monday night at the home on Bacon street of her daughter, Mrs. Herbert J. Richburg. She had been ill for about six months.

Mrs. Pierce was born 60 years ago at Oxford, Me., the daughter of Orin and Sarah (Robinson) Hanks. When she was four years of age her parents came to Boston and she grew up in that city, receiving her education in the Boston schools. Previous to coming to Winchester she made her home for a time in Woburn. She was a member of the Winchester Unitarian Society. Her daughter, Mrs. Ethel E. Richburg of this town is her only survivor.

The funeral will be held from the late residence, 6 Bacon street, on Wednesday afternoon and was conducted by the Rev. George Hale Reed, pastor of the Unitarian church. Interment was in Wildwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Frank Bates of this town was in charge of last Friday's reception to Mrs. Hiram Dexter of Brookline, newly elected president of the Massachusetts-Maine chapter. The reception was held in connection with the first meeting of the 1927-28 season at the Hotel Vendome, Boston.

NOONAN SCHOOL CHAPTER, MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

The annual election of officers of the Noonan School Mothers' Association was held in the school on Tuesday afternoon. As a result the following were unanimously elected:

President, Mrs. Katherine C. McDonald, Treasurer, Mrs. Francis L. Conboy, Executive Committee, Mrs. Years, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Joseph D. O'Neil, Mrs. Years, Mrs. Mary Hennessey, Mrs. Mary Hennessey, Mrs. William H. Stevenson.

Committees were appointed and plans made for a busy season. The November meeting will be in charge of the following committee: Mrs. Marie Foley, Mrs. Bessie Dimmen, Mrs. Mary Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Walter Gurney, Mrs. Joseph O'Neil, Mrs. St. Hilaire, Mrs. Joseph Chamberland, Mrs. Mary Carroll, Mrs. Louis Caplan, Mrs. Mary Peck.

Before the November meeting the Chapter will have purchased a set of dishes for use at the school during the year. It was voted to purchase a tea service to serve 30 persons, and the following committee of teachers and mothers has taken the matter in hand: Mrs. Mary A. Lyons, Mrs. Marie Foley, Mrs. Mary A. Lyons, Mrs. Wm. H. Stevenson, Mrs. Benj. Newlands.

The Chapter voted to send to Miss Clara Antin a letter of regret and $5 gold piece as a token of the appreciation for the very fine results which she achieved with the small children while in charge of the Kindergarten. Miss Antin has resigned as a teacher at the Noonan School this year.

A report which was read by our treasurer of last year, Mrs. John Murray, shows the Chapter to be in flourishing condition financially, with a splendidly comprehensive record of progress for the past year.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD

The familiar post cards used by the Needlework Guild to notify the members that it is again time to make their annual gift of two new yards of two new pillowcases, towels or sheets for homes or welfare work in our own town or near it, have been in the mail this week.

Mrs. Harry Simmon of Black Horse terrace, is this year directing the work of the Winchester branch of the Needlework Guild as resident, assisted by officers and directors. She is giving much time and thought to it and we must all encourage and assist her.

"Shop only," as they say at Christmas and send your gifts to your Director, who has sent you a card. She will appreciate your promptness. As far as possible buy in Winchester. Our local stores carry the goods we want and are most obliging in the matter of exchanges, due to sizes and special needs.

The annual meeting will be held this Wednesday in the Methodist Church, on Wednesday, Oct. 25 at 10 o'clock. Directors, 29 in number will be present and all contributing members who are interested, and can spare the time, are cordially invited to attend the meeting, to see the garments and to advise or assist in their distribution.

This organization helps all local welfare work and is strictly non-sectarian in membership and in distribution.

Police headquarters was notified last Sunday of a collision which occurred at the corner of Main and Swanton streets, involving a Nash touring car driven by Joseph Battilo of 156 Swanton street and a Velie touring car operated by John Murphy of Clark street. Battilo was driving from Swanton street onto Main street while Murphy was entering Swanton from Main street. Both cars were damaged.

Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

AUTUMN HIKES

"Now is the heyday for the hiker," says the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. "Don't let a week go by without a good hike, a half day at least a whole day, if possible. At the worst, start at 5 p. m., take your supper along, build a good fire, (after securing a permit from the local Fire Warden) along the beach or brookside, and eat by the light of your fire and the moon. Try to get the whole family started."

This is the joy season for hikers—no mosquitoes, nor black flies—how these pests did multiply this summer! No hot sticky evenings; the air is clear and bracing—your feet simply "eat up the road."

Although "don'ts" in the long run are poor stuff, there are a couple we never can resist giving the hiker: two hiker—you'll be doing them out yourself next year.

Don't wear a lot of clothes because you think it is going to be cold. Remember two light layers of clothing are far warmer than one heavy garment. A light sweater under a heavy coat will keep you comfortable, and the outer can easily be removed when you "warm up." Wear those old sport shoes you liked so well during your vacation.

Don't carry a ton of food but fill a small knapsack with a few strips of bacon, crackers, cheese, dried fruit and nuts. If a cup of hot coffee is worth the trouble of carrying a pail—a good way is to pack all the food in the pail and with a stick through the pail two people can easily carry it. Hot bacon the use to burden yourself with a frying pan, a hot drink and a stick through the pail two people can easily carry it. Hot bacon the use to burden yourself with a frying pan, a hot drink and a stick through the pail two people can easily carry it.

Leave your hat and your worries at home. Doctors Sun, Fresh Air and Exercise will all attend you—their only fee, a cheerful heart—and they will guarantee to cure all your ills.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The first fall meeting will be held Monday, Oct. 24 in the Town Hall. At 2 o'clock there will be a reception to new members. The program begins at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. Carolyn D. Gilpatrick, a well-known member of the club will be the soloist of the afternoon. Laura Huxtable Porter will give a lecture-reading on "Parallelisms in Poetry and Music." Mrs. Porter offers a unique entertainment by reading a poem and then playing a musical composition to which the poem seems closely allied in mood and spirit. There will also be brief reports of the State Federation meeting at Swampscott. A "Getting Acquainted Talk" will conclude the afternoon.

By invitation of the Reading Women's Club the Eighth District Conference will be held in the Congregational Church, Woburn street, Reading on Friday, Oct. 28 at 10 o'clock. Each State Chairman will give a five-minute talk on the work of her department and will conduct a Round Table Community Service and Music will be emphasized in the afternoon. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 in the vestry of the church. Tickets may be procured from Mrs. Louis F. Gay, 19 Union street, Reading on or before Oct. 25.

WATERFIELD LODGE ENTERTAINED

The Prince Jonathan Association, which is composed of 10 Odd Fellows Lodges of this vicinity, held its first meeting at Lyceum Hall Monday evening at 8 o'clock, being entertained by Waterfield Lodge of Winchester. About 400 oddfellows and friends enjoyed a fine entertainment consisting of a symposium lecture on Europe, followed by a program of stunts by a professional entertainer. At the close of the entertainment a collation was served by a committee headed by Everett Hamby, well known for his fine spreads.

These meetings of the association are to be held once each month during the winter term. The next meeting is to be held at Waltham, Nov. 18, when Governor Gore Lodge will be the host.

RUTH McLAUGHLIN A PRIZE WINNER

The Coca-Cola Company of Atlanta, Ga. conducted a nation-wide contest last August on finding six keys and writing two short essays. The prize winners were announced on Oct. 12, 1927 and Ruth McLaughlin of this town was a winner of $25. One of the higher prizes, only three came to Massachusetts and the essays ran well into the thousands.

WINCHESTER GIRL SCOUTS AT CEDAR HILL FESTIVAL

Winchester was well represented at the third annual harvest festival held at Cedar Hill last Saturday by the State Wide Cedar Hill Auxiliary. Booths were erected for the dispensing of sandwiches, hot and cold drinks, candy, cakes and wintergreens as well as those which featured grubs, for-ten-seling and archery. During the day there were games, an entertainment and sight-seeing performances to keep the large gathering interested. An especial feature of the entertainment program was the presentation by the Scouts of the play, "Robin Hood."

The Winchester Scouts were assigned to duty at the apple and popcorn table under the direction of Mrs. Walter Wadsworth and Mrs. Clifton Hall, a goodly sum being realized from their efforts. Captain Eugenia Parker and Scouts Mary Cutter and Ethel Fenberg of Winchester Council were in charge of the archery which was also a feature of the festival. Proceeds from the affair go toward the expenses of maintenance at Cedar Hill which has since its acquisition proved a great impetus to scouting in this district.

The Naval observatory says high water occurs 50 minutes later each day, on an average. High water follows the transit of the moon across the meridian of any place by a certain interval, which is known as the "establishment of the port." This interval is approximately the same throughout the year for any one place, but differs widely for different places.

HOW SHALL WE OBSERVE EDUCATION WEEK NOV. 7 TO 12?

Education week a national institution. Education week has become a national institution. It is observed every State in the Union. During this week school people and laymen alike will focus their attention on the larger educational issues facing the country.

During the week of Nov. 7 to 13 public-spirited citizens in every State in the Union will be asking themselves:

1. What are the characteristics of the public school which should be perpetuated?
2. What are the weak spots in the nation's schools?
3. How may the schools be brought to the highest point of efficiency?

The price of good schools is constant vigilance. Education Week should be a time of prayer, reflection, and stocktaking, of checking up of progress made and of planning for future development.

The local community's part. The success of American Education Week rests largely upon the local community. In previous years the local community has been largely responsible for the success of the week. The local community has been largely responsible for the success of the week. The local community has been largely responsible for the success of the week.

Future educational progress depends largely upon: (1) the understanding which the American public has of its school system, and (2) the teachers' understanding of present-day life. It is your child's school during American Education Week so that you may know how teachers and their pupils turn may know you. They in turn may know you. They in turn may know you.

What happens when teachers and parents talk things over? Usually these are the results:

1. Father and mother learn, first-hand, of modern school methods.
2. The teacher has a more intelligent understanding of the child's personality and his own.
3. Father and mother can judge the teacher for themselves and not be dependent on the immature judgment of a child. Understanding forestalls criticism.

4. The teacher warns of the parents' ambition for their child.
5. Father, mother and teacher agree on demands that should be made. The result is the child is never told to do one thing at school and a contradictory thing at home.

6. Teacher receives encouragement to do better work because of the parents' interest in the school and appreciation of his efforts.
7. Sometimes fathers and mothers do not know what his children they have until they talk things over with their teachers.

8. Your child builds a finer life.
9. Are parents welcome at school? School officials urge parents to visit the schools, ask questions, and make comments. To illustrate: recently in Chicago, 241 principals used over 2000 placards, placed in the schools where likely to meet the eye of visitors. On these placards were the following announcements:

"To the Public: This school desires to serve you. The principal will be glad to receive your comments."

"Citizens Welcome. Tell us what you think."

"America's service station, a public school."

"If you do not like the school or if you do please, tell us."

"We are doing our best. We will appreciate your suggestions."

"This is your school. Help us make it the best."

"School is for service, not for self."

TWO MOTORS IN COLLISION WITH ELECTRIC

Two automobiles figured in collisions with electric wires in the center over the past week-end.

At 5:45 Saturday afternoon a Nash touring car owned by Linda F. Foster of 1 Cliff street, Rockport, was damaged about the left side and the driver was a result of a collision with an electric cat head south of Main street, leaving the stop in front of the Hersey Hardware Company.

According to the police, Miss Foster had driven her car between a car parked in front of Knights Pharmacy and the electric which in starting struck the machine. The electric was in charge of Conductor Herbert Oaks of Melrose.

Practically the same sort of accident occurred at 8:30 Sunday afternoon when John L. Murphy of 288 Main street, Stoneham, drove his Hudson coupe between an electric cat head south, which had stopped in front of the Hersey Hardware Company and a Ford coupe which was parked at the curb. As the electric started up it struck the midsection of Murphy's car damaging it somewhat. The street car was in charge of Conductor John LaFont.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth B. Cole of Portland, Me., spent the past week-end in Winchester with Mrs. Cole's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson of Cambridge street.

PORTABLE HEAT

Electric Heater Takes the Edge Off the Chill Autumn Days and Saves Starting Central Heating Plant

Chill autumn days bring with them the need for some heat, especially at night and in the morning. This is necessary from the standpoint of health as well as comfort. Yet the temperature now hardly drops to a point where the central heating plant steam, hot water or furnace—can be run with comfort or economy.

That is where the portable electric heater exactly fills the bill, and serves as a most useful pump. It is cut long—available from any electrical outlet; light in weight—easily carried from room to room; efficient—and, if a Unit, particularly so, because of its new principle in electrical heating—it is so constructed as to draw in cool air, passing it over the heater, and sending it back warmed. Because it diffuses this heat quickly and thoroughly, the Unit promptly takes the chill from the temperature in any ordinary-sized room. This principle also adds to its safety, the heating unit being well covered and guarded from impetuous childish hands. Both single and three-heat models are provided, and should one desire heat concentrated in one spot, that is available through focusing the heater.

The portable electric heater fills a recognized need of these times and emphasizes the difference between present living conditions and those of but a relatively few years back. Then, children reared in cold houses, plodded through the snow and cold long miles to ily-heated schoolhouses, became cold-hardened, in consequence.

Now—a steam heat generation, feared in warmth and finding it a necessity from the standpoint of health as well as comfort—warm houses, short walks or rides to warm schoolhouses, and the electric heater takes its place as an auxiliary heating unit,—easing the chill of autumn and later, tempering the winter extremes in rooms of children where central heating plants, however efficient, do not reach. The Unit demonstrates itself at other times, the nearest Edison shop or at your electrical dealer's.

WINCHESTER BOAT CLUB

Due to the rainy Sunday and other minor delays the quoits tournament is not as yet finished. It is hoped that the champion will emerge from the clay pits next Sunday afternoon.

George Cummings and "Bob" Breen have a match to settle and "Doc" Priest has a bye. Phil Smith is now in the semi-finals and awaits the outcome of the Breen-Cummings match to see who he has to match his skill against.

The "tag" football squad is fast getting into shape and are now looking for an opponent for Thanksgiving morning. It is hoped that the Medford Boat Club can be drawn into action.

The chapters carry chapterally on or more activities of the program authorized by the National organization, which includes service to disabled former service men, service to men in the army, navy and marine corps; service to disabled, Junior Red Cross. Service and service of health, such as public health nursing, home hygiene and care of the sick, nursing first aid and life saving. In all chapters volunteer workers are organized to assist in all Red Cross services. The National organization, in its local and foreign affairs service, supervises the work of chapters in the insular possessions of the United States, and handles National organization relations with the Red Cross societies of other nations.

HALLOWEEN

Gingerbread for Halloween

Halloween that brilliant and glorious time of autumn will soon be here! Already numerous plans are in the making for the Halloween party—that delightful occasion so consecrated with fun and frolic.

The costumes, the masks, the witch and black cat decorations are all in readiness! Of course there will be apples galore for apple bobbing and apples on the string. Molasses candy-covered apples on sticks make most appropriate prizes for the Halloween games.

Who could imagine a Halloween without a gingerbread and sweet cider? A very happy combination for refreshments, so much better than conventional doughnuts or pumpkin pie? A good and inexpensive gingerbread can easily be made by mixing three cups of flour, half teaspoonful soda, one and one-half teaspoonfuls of ginger and cinnamon one eighth teaspoonful clove and a half teaspoonful salt. To one half cup of shortening add one and one-half cups molasses and three-fourths cup boiling water. Then stir the dry into the wet ingredients and bake in a moderate oven.

Sprinkle the gingerbread with confectionery sugar and serve with the cider.

Complete the plans for that most thrilling of parties because the time is nearing—when the frost is on the pumpkin.

BOSTON COMMUNITY INSTITUTE ANNOUNCEMENT

On account of the great popularity of the course of lectures being given by the Boston Community Institute, of which Mrs. R. E. Naumburg of Winchester is president, it has been necessary to move to a larger hall.

The remaining seven Tuesday evening lectures will be held at Tremont Temple, Boston. On Nov. 1 Prof. Thomas K. Mather of Boston University, will speak on the "Individualism of Ralph Waldo Emerson." Tickets for single lectures may be purchased at the door.

The Fire Department was called at 7:45 Wednesday morning by an alarm from Box 912 for a blaze in the patent leather shop of Beggs & Cobb Company on Cross street. The blaze was inconsequential and was quickly extinguished.

WINCHESTER JUNIORS SHOWING TENNIS CLASS

The wins of Catherine Boyden and Herbert Wallis of Winchester in the singles matches of the Boys' and Girls' Open Tennis Tournament held at Longwood two weeks ago brings to light the fact that during the few years local players have been competing in these tournaments they have made an excellent showing, especially in the girls' division.

For the past five years boys' and girls' tournaments have been held at Longwood. Of the ten played, six championships in girls' singles have been won by Mamie or Sarah Paley, crack Chestnut Hill entrants. One championship has been won by Betty Pope, Mrs. George Wightman's niece, and the other three by Winchester players: Janet Smith, Louise Packer and Catherine Boyden, local high school stars.

In addition Louise Packer and Caroline Jansen of the Winchester High School have won in mixed doubles and Johnny Clark, then of the Wadleigh School and Herbert Wallis of Winchester Country Day School, have won the boys' singles. Clark also won in mixed doubles with Caroline Jansen. Though winning the championship, Helen Bidwell has made an excellent showing at Longwood by reaching the final round in mixed doubles, paired with John Bay of Brookline.

This showing is one which is believed hard to match by youngsters whose tennis background is comparable to that of the local players. These in charge of Winchester's tennis destiny have insisted that the town's young players be thoroughly grounded in the fundamentals of the game and also that the boys and girls play plenty of tournament tennis for experience. They have built well and reaping the reward of their far sightedness. Winchester now has a group of young racket wielders who can make their presence felt in any tournament. And don't forget the local high school girls' team has not lost a school match for the past two seasons.

INSULATION BIG HOME FACTOR

There is no time like the present moment to put in that insulation that has been contemplating, on your boiler furnace. Expensives for coal, oil, or other winter fuels are rising every week. Now is the time to make sure that your home is heating economy, comfort, and cleanliness before prices go even higher.

The best part of it is that you will automatically be able to save the money spent in furnace insulation on this winter's fuel bill. From that time on your original investment will be practically 100 per cent each year.

These savings do not of course apply to ordinary insulation, as they do to the Minwood Fibrous Overcoat, the perfect material. This efficient insulation gives more than 600 per cent better results than asbestos cement formerly in such common use. It saves at least 25 per cent of your fuel bill while giving you clean and quiet heat. Its application to your furnace or boiler at this time will solve the problem of heating your home economically during these fall months. With a Minwood Fibrous Overcoat, you can keep the house comfortable on the smallest possible consumption of fuel, due to its ability to keep whatever heat is generated within the furnace of boiler.

Complete information on Minwood insulation for home or industrial purposes may be obtained by communicating with the Minwood Insulating Company, 271 Franklin Street, Boston, Mass. Phone Hancock 6856.

Good Sealing Groun

Finishing seals, whose petals are considered second in quality only to the better known Alaskan seal, are found in the vicinity of a small island a few miles off the coast of Uruguay, South America.

Electric Typewriters

Steady advance is being made in the development of the electric typewriter. The essential feature of the latest machine before the public is a folded shaft which crosses the instrument under the type levers. The shaft runs by means of a small electric motor which can be attached to a plug at 200 revolutions per minute. As the keys are struck, whether lightly or heavily, the type levers engage the teeth of the rotating shaft, operating them as the fingers would do. A method is provided for increasing the strength of the impression so that several carbon copies can be taken, and a simple apparatus prevents two keys being pressed down at one time.

For $1.00

There will be sent, by mail, to any address in the United States, the twenty Wednesday Transcripts containing the exclusive full reports of the twenty Radio Auction Bridge Games for the season of 1927-28. These games are to be broadcast by WEHI on Tuesday evenings beginning Nov. 1 and are to be reported fully and exclusively in the Wednesday Transcript, commencing Nov. 2.

In each one of the twenty games Messrs. Work and Whitehead, the two great American experts, will play two of the first rank of American players. The games will be games in which each hand will be played by an expert competent and anyone to make every card count, and to make the best possible score.

These games, followed by radio and studied in the reports, have proved to be one of the best possible ways of learning how to play Auction Bridge well. If you have a friend who is fond of Auction, a subscription to the Wednesday Transcripts containing the reports of the games will be a dear Holiday Gift. ## CALUMNET NOTES

The opening of the second week of the annual winter bowling tournament at the Calumet Club saw a rise in the scores and much closer contests. While a number of the high rated men failed to produce their usual totals, many good strings appeared, and the new pins began to fly faster. On Monday night Flanders was high man with a total of 301 on 118 for a single. Cox rolled 300 with 119. Flanders' high string was 113 and Goldsmith and C. Bostwick 119 each. Team 2 took all four points from 14, the second string narrowing down to a margin of eight points. Three took all four from 13, winning the third by ten. Seventeen and 31 divided honors with two points each. Seventeen took the first by eight and the third by five, while 31 won a roll-off of the second and took the totals by three.

The scores:

FRANCES B. COLLINS

Frances B. Collins, daughter of Mrs. Fannie and the late Thomas H. Collins, passed away late Monday afternoon on Fitzgerald avenue following an illness of only a few days with pneumonia. Though Miss Collins had been for some time in delicate health, her death was wholly unexpected and came as a distinct shock to her many friends in the community.

Miss Collins was born in Winchester, March 6, 1902, and was educated in the public schools. Surviving besides her mother, are a sister, Mrs. Thomas P. Carroll, and three brothers, Francis M., Dennis J. and Thomas H. Collins all of Winchester.

Funeral services were held from the late residence Thursday morning, followed by a solemn high mass in St. Mary's Church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. John P. Sullivan was celebrant with the Rev. Fr. George H. Quigley, deacon, and the Rev. Fr. Nathaniel J. Merritt, sub-deacon. There was a large attendance and many floral tributes. Interment was in Calvary Cemetery.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. Herbert S. Johnson, D.D. has chosen two very interesting subjects for his morning and evening sermons next Sunday. In the morning his topic will be, "King or Saviour—Which is Jesus?" He is spoken of as both King and Saviour, but which is He primarily? His evening topic will be, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." This refers to the song which is being talked of so much now. He will consider there is merit in the song and whether or not people have been helped by it.

WINCHESTER LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS

The first meeting of the year will be held at the home of Mrs. W. J. Breen, 192 Parkway. There will be a Board meeting from 2 until 3 o'clock and tea from 3 until 5. Mrs. Daniel C. Bennett will pour.

The kiddies will do better work in school with fresh, new equipment. The newest pencil boxes, note books, transparent rulers, compasses, projectors, etc. are at the Star office.

EMBLEM CLUB AFFAIRS

Lyceum Hall was taxed to capacity Wednesday evening when the first social of the season, a dancing party, called out enthusiastic lovers of the Terpsichorean art from far and near. The hall, prettily decorated with Halloween favors, made a fit setting for the festive gathering, and all united in making the most of the alluring jazz music, dispensed by Freddie O'Donnell's orchestra. Favors for the elimination waltz were bestowed on Mr. and Mrs. Malmo Moffett. Among the novelty dances, the one executed by Al Horn in costume was an extravaganza in itself and deserved the encore it received. Special mention should also be made of the "Kiss Dance" number, in which the Misses Marion Hanlon, Dorothy O'Neill and Eileen McDonough distributed candy kisses.

As predicted, the exhibition by the drill team "went over the top." Gowned in white, with purple and gold military capes, and flares waving, the team was an inspiring sight as it went through the different maneuvers. From the spelling of "Winchester" to the "star formation," then to the "anchor" formation every transition was perfectly executed. But the most inspiring of all was the "flag formation" in the center of the hall, with the "Star Spangled Banner" rendered by the soloist, Mrs. Lena DeYoung, and the whole assembly taking up the refrain in heart-felt accord with the team.

Unstinted praise should be rendered Drillmaster Martin E. McDonough whose services were given free of charge, and to the following members of the team who worked so tirelessly for the success of the exhibition: Mrs. Elizabeth Hines, Mrs. Josephine Power, Mrs. Ethel Horn, Mrs. Emma Cullen, Mrs. Doris Fitzgerald, Mrs. Harriet Cleary, Mrs. Kathryn Griffin, Mrs. Mary McHugh, Mrs. Kathryn Donahue, Mrs. Bernice Gorman, Mrs. Mae Fitzgerald and the Misses Alice Sullivan, Elizabeth Fitzgerald and Margaret Sullivan.

The concert program consisted of a group of songs by Mrs. Lena DeYoung, contralto soloist; Excelsophone solo and musical chimes contributed by "Musical" George Kilian; the Grant Twins in soft show dance, clog waltz and blackbottom dances.

The success of the party is due to the efforts of the Entertainment

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Modesty is far more charming than beauty whether real or artificial.
Worth makes a real man, the lack of it makes just a plain fellow.
Strange but true, there are more tears shed in the theatre than in the church.
What is there sadder under the sun than a life that is gone and nothing done.
The way of a transgressor is not always as hard as it ought to be.

Before boasting too loudly of Winchester's early pride take a walk across the Common and note the paths upon which you tread. If it happens to be raining at all severely, you will be obliged to watch your footing—closely. It seems high time to replace the present ruins with up-to-date sidewalks. The thought of another winter on these have is not a pleasant prospect.

NO NOTICE BY ASSESSORS

In answer to the inquiry of many citizens, the Star was informed this week at the office of the Assessors that they had decided this year to give no notification of meetings held for hearing pleas for abatement of taxes. They state that they are not required to give notice of these meetings by law, and notwithstanding the fact that such notice has been given since the early days of the town's incorporation, they have this year decided to discontinue it.
This information will serve to answer the many citizens who have called at the office or telephoned to the Star office to inquire when they might call upon the Assessors. They regret that they failed to anticipate the Assessors' intentions. It appears that the Assessors have been holding these meetings ever since Thursday as the last meeting was held by citizens who have been in the customary manner out of luck since the early days of the town's incorporation. Citizens desire that they be notified of these meetings in the future. It appears that the Assessors have an article in the warrant for the annual town meeting instructing the Assessors regarding the notification.

ONLY ONE CASUAL

Wednesday afternoon the members of the Winchester Police Department, together with the members of the fire department, were called to the rear of Willowbrook Cemetery for a strenuous session of target practice with revolvers and riot guns. It was unusually quiet and the target man Edward O'Connell turned in the best record with the "police positives" but it is also rumored that another round was made, which did not appear upon the tally sheet.
Accompanying the police to the range was the local representative of a daily paper known as the "reformer." Professional courtesy forbids the use of his name. During the shooting by members of the Department, there was an interesting exchange of remarks between the "reformer" and many perhaps have "joshed" some of the "boys" about their ability with the guns.
At all events the representative of the press was challenged by Patrolman William Cassidy to show his skill with a revolver and after considerable deliberation consented to back his ability against the disparaging judgment of the bluecoat.
Possibly the newspaper man did not hear exactly what he was to do or he may be that his aim was as poor as Officer Cassidy's. The details are beside the point, but suffice it to say that in drawing his bead the scribe missed the target but did hit the rear of Officer Cassidy's Ford car, standing near.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

In pursuance of the rather interesting program which has been planned for our fall-winter season the next event will take the form of an old-fashioned Halloween party to be held under the direction of the Guild's Charitable Committee, on Thursday evening, Nov. 10, in White's Hall. There will be the usual games and amusing playlet together with miscellaneous numbers which will appeal to the whimsy as well as the ruddy temperaments. Refreshments will be seasonable and everyone is guaranteed in advance of a good time.
A committee is half the success of any undertaking and with the able chairmanship of Sister J. V. Kane assisted by Sister Susan O'Connell and members of her committee, this affair to be a good one.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD MEETS

Nov. 8th

The Needlework Guild, of which Mrs. Henry Smith is a president, will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 8, in the Methodist Church at 10 a. m.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

The Selection in response to a request have appointed Messrs. T. G. Coffey and George C. Coffey to serve as substitute members of the Board of Appeal at a hearing called by the Weymouth School Administration to consider a "technical matter" presumably in connection with the new construction at the school. The hearing will be held on Thursday, Nov. 2, at 10 a. m. in the school building.

Dean Howers, Jacksonville, Nov. 2, has been elected to the position of paper decorations for Halloween at the Winchester. The original of Franklin Coffey, "Ole Grog" Howers in the Boston American Review, and was mentioned in last week's Star. Mr. Bartlett who is quite a cartoonist in his own right is a personal friend of Howers and naturally had the inside track in acquiring the drawing.

Howard Munson Hubbard of this town has been elected one of the 1928 editors of the Harvard Business Review, the quarterly publication of the Harvard Business School.
We are now carrying Whittemore's "Clemat" the instant spot remover. Wilson the Stationer.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Rose Ann McDevitt of Winchester and Daniel Doherty of Arlington, the ceremony having been performed Sunday, Oct. 23, in St. Mary's Rectory by the Rev. George H. Quigley.

We are now carrying Whittemore's "amalgam" the instant spot remover. Wilson the Stationer.
Selection Thomas F. Fallon, Chief Ranger of Winchester Court, M. C. O. of the town, has been elected to the position of Justice of the Peace. The new Justice will hold his office on Thursday evening, Nov. 2, at 8 p. m. in the Court House in Cambridge.

A complete new line of diaries and line day books for 1928 is now for sale at Wilson the Stationer.
Little "Billie" McCall of 78 Salem street was operated on in a Boston hospital. He is now recovering and reports that he is getting along very nicely.

Mrs. Dolores Madocks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Madocks of Willowbrook road, has been elected to membership on the general committee of the college Art Club at Weymouth.

Mrs. Helen Studley of Woburn, a former well known Winchester girl, was the soloist Tuesday evening in Evening Hall at the entertainment and supper sponsored by the Winchester Guild.

Mrs. Helen Barr, soprano soloist, one of the artists to broadcast from WEPI at the recent studio parties. Mrs. Barr is also broadcasting with the La Tourette Troupe.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. G. de Roche-mont entertained Dr. and Mrs. Allison Cunningham at their farm in Portsmouth, N. H., last week.

Mr. Richard Barnard was at home from Dartmouth over the week-end, for the Harvard-Dartmouth game. He is a member of the football team.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Roche of Westley street are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son at the Winchester Hospital, Nov. 1, yesterday morning. The baby is a boy, weighing 11 lb. 10 oz. and is named "Charles."

One of the "Boost assertions" of the local and line of the Winchester is that the town is the most beautiful in the county. This is a very reasonable statement. The town is indeed a beautiful one.

Is "State of Maine" by Compromise Vote

Every now and then some one asks us why we always refer to our state as "The State of Maine" and not as "Maine." One good reason is to be found in the fact that, unlike any other state, ours was so incorporated and constituted as "The State of Maine." Another is found in the fact that all the states ours is almost the only one of its size.

We wanted a word or expression that would roll trippingly from the tongue. A debate in the constitutional convention of 1820, creating "The State of Maine" lasted two or three days and a strong argument against "Maine" was its lack of euphony. So they almost called it "Columbia" and almost voted "Eugenia" on us. So they compromised on "The State of Maine." Not "The Commonwealth of Maine" because that took too long to write and because it was too long to read.

Laughter

Somebody has described laughter as "a faculty bestowed exclusively upon man," and one which there is, therefore, a sort of impurity in not exercising as frequently as we can. One may say with Tins that we have lost a sense of it. It is a sense without laughter. "An inch of laugh is worth an ell of moan in any language of market," says one of the old English folks. LITERARY FLOOD IN SOUTHERN FRANCE

The Plain of Bergerie has been inundated. Castledoux has been flooded. These are places mentioned prominently in the cables reporting unusually high water in the river basins around Bordeaux, France.
The vineyards are the pride of the region; wine, fruitfulness, and Bergerie. The valleys of the Garonne and the Garonne are the source of the richest and most expensive wines of France. The French people themselves drink cheaper wine from vast vineyards in the departments of the Rhone mouth. Foreign markets which will pay high for quality, lay up the Bordeaux wines. The town of Bergerie is not far away from the "wine port" and the peninsula of Bergerie and the sea. Even days of the wine industry because of insect pests so many vineyards were replaced by oak tree orchards. Down in the roots of the oak tree trunks, a queer and strange food, yet highly esteemed by Parisian chefs and their patrons. Bergerie Pie, the third product, is a pate de foie gras produced from the livers of over-stuffed geese. St. Foy la Grande, where Reclus was born in 1820, has ten miles west of Bergerie, and therefore well with the region; wine, fruitfulness, and Bergerie. Beautiful Redbird

Another name for the redbird is the cardinal grosbeak. They are a brilliant lot, these grosbeaks, and with reason. The cardinal grosbeak is first cousin to the blue grosbeak, the scarlet pine grosbeak, the orange, white and black evening grosbeaks and to others of the family tribe. In all the groves of bird life they stand separated from the common flock. Nature lavished its colors upon them, and the gift of music was not forgotten. James Lane Allen gave a tribute of praise to the beauty of the cardinal beside which all other tributes are and must be futile.

"Old" and "Young" Nick

The use of the name "Old Nick" applied to Satan originated in the comparison drawn between the machinations of his satanic majesty and those of Niccolo Machiavelli, one of the greatest Florentine statesmen, born 1469. He was crafty and dissembling, a firm believer in "the end justifies the means." Samuel Butler in his "Hudibras" in writing of Machiavelli, says "Nick Machiavelli had never a trick though he gave his name to our old Nick."

Old Christmas "Dance"

One beautiful feature of the "Mesa de Gallo" in the great cathedral of Seville is a strange mystical dance on "interpenetrating the steps" by the boys, who this dance before the high altar. This reverent dance, which is given but twice a year, is marked by the chanting of the choir boys, who carry tall lighted candles as they cross and recross up and down the wide choir steps. One of the occasions is the celebration of midnight mass on Christmas eve.

Measuring Gold Dust

The bureau of mines says that in the early days in California, when they panned in gold dust, they had a small measure about 3 inches long and 1 inch wide and about 4 of an inch high, which they called a sump. Gold dust was panned by the sump and it would vary with the individual gold miner, as the gold dust in some camps was finer than in others.

LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

become subject to the many forms of evil which constantly lurk in the shadows of mortal ignorance, and these forms of evil are in some cases so discordant bodily conditions, such, for example, as sickness, disease, sorrow, sinful habits, poverty, misery, and the like. But let our minds be filled with those of love, compassion, trust, tenderness, thanksgiving, charity, gratitude, humility, forgiveness, sweet peace and the like, then our lives are filled with the gentle influence of our present divinity, hallowing our every experience and life after its own peace, happiness, freedom, peace, and plenty.

GOD'S UNIVERSE

Now, with our concept of God completely removed from the realm of materiality, what must be concluded as to His creation? What must be the natural subsequent to a spiritual antecedent? The answer is obvious. To dematerialize our sense of God, the Creator of all, means that we must dematerialize our sense of man and the universe, and that is exactly what Christian Science does. To assume that God, or Spirit, could be evidenced or reflected by matter or physically, by mortal man, is to assume the impossible. According to the true account of creation given in the first chapter of Genesis, we find man and the universe created spiritually and perfect, and so they must ever remain, as perfect and eternal as their Creator. Any other account of creation depicting man as material, sick, sinning, fallen, and dying is false and must ever remain so. The Bible, spiritually interpreted, is devoted to the task of drawing the distinction between the true creation and the false and material concept of creation. Now, let us consider another point. The Bible does not depict creation and instruction as proceeding out of the bondage of a material misconception of things, into their freedom as children of God. The Bible, spiritually interpreted and rightly understood, does not tie us with antiquities, but contains a clear and concise method of understanding the bondage of man-made theories into our God-given freedom. God, or Spirit, never created a mortal man or a material universe, and hence there is no contradiction between a science which involves a knowledge of material things and a science which recognizes the material as the enemy of the spiritual to be true and the real.

THE MATERIAL UNIVERSE

But, some may now object to believe that the material is untrue and unreal when the five physical senses bear constant evidence of the reality of matter. By sight, touch, taste, smell, and hearing, we are constantly aware of the material. In fact the only evidence we have of a material universe is through seeing, feeling, tasting, smelling, and hearing. Materially. That being settled, the question, then, of the reality of matter, or that which we see, feel, taste, smell, and hear, revolves around the trustworthiness of the five physical senses. Let us see how trustworthy they really are. We will consider each one. All will agree that whatever an omnipotent and eternal God has created must be everlasting and eternal, and not subject to change or the mutations of time. If God has created the five physical senses as mediums through which His universe is to be recognized, then these senses cannot be subject to any influence but that of God, and as He is permanent and unchangeable, so must be His senses. Just how unchangeable and changeless are these senses? Why, they may be changed in almost an instant. Let us see how. Let us suppose that when one is placed under a hypnotic or soporific influence. They may even be obliterated entirely. For instance, place a man under a hypnotic influence, and he frequently does by those familiar with hypnotism, and the victim can be made to see, feel, taste, smell, and hear just the opposite of what he is influenced. It should be borne in mind that hypnotism is purely a mental process and involves nothing but the operation of the human mind, and yet it can be used to control the entire mechanism of the physical body. I have seen men under hypnotic influence do all sorts of things which a man in his right senses would not do or think.

To carry the illustration farther, if a man were placed under the influence of a drug or an opiate he may be made to see, feel, taste, smell, and hear nothing at all, in which case his physical senses have ceased to function entirely. Now, what has happened when one is placed under a hypnotic or soporific influence? Have his organs or seeing, feeling, tasting, smelling, and hearing been changed or altered in any way or in any particular? Not at all. He still has his eyes, his ears, his nose, his mouth, his nerves, his brain, and so forth, and yet, in the case of the drug, or the opiate, he can see, feel, taste, smell, and hear nothing, and in the case of hypnotism he sees, feels, tastes, smells, and hears that which does not exist at all or to that which the hypnotist will him to see, feel, taste, smell, and hear. What has taken place? What has been changed? Why, simply the victim's thinking. In the one instance, that is, when one is under a so-called morp, mind has been taken possession of by another so-called mortal mind and one person does the thinking for another. In the other case, conclusively that the mortal or human mind may be subject to any kind of misconception, manipulation, misuse, or abuse, and that in the case, that of the drug, the individual mortal mind has been completely silenced, showing that this human mind has no permanency and trustworthiness of a creation of an omnipotent God, or eternal Mind. In the case of a surgical operation the patient is placed under the influence of an anesthetic to silence pain. Now, what does the anesthetic do to the patient? It silences the mind. Why, it simply stops the patient's thinking. That's everything in the world it does. As soon as the influence of the anesthetic begins to wear off the patient begins to think, and as soon as he begins to think, he begins to feel the pain, showing plainly enough that the pain is not in the body, or in the nerves, or in the brain, or in the human mind. All, then, that has to be done to prove the utter unreliability of the five physical senses, which are the only mediums through which we can know of a material universe, is to change or silence mortal thinking. And is not this sufficient evidence that our material concept of God and His creation is compossible only through the five physical senses, is evidently the product of mortal thinking, or of the mortal mind which St. Paul describes as the carnal mind, which he says "is enmity against God"? In the eighth chapter of the book of Romans his entire subject is handled in a most conclusive manner where it is written: "For they that are after the flesh are enmity against God; they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit. For to be carnally minded [to think materially] is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace. Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither is it in the flesh cannot please God. But, it goes on to say, 'ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you.'"

Then a little farther along in the same epistle is this: "For if ye receive the word which ye hear, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live." In this last sentence we are given the material dilemma. He says plainly enough, "If ye live after the flesh, ye shall die." That is, if we believe in the reality of a material universe evidenced by the flesh, or the five physical senses, we are then subject to all the so-called laws of materiality which ultimately in sin, sickness, and death. "But," he says, "if ye through the Spirit [through the understanding of God as Spirit and man and the universe as spiritual] do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live." What are the deeds of the body? Why, seeing, feeling, tasting, smelling, and hearing materially.

In the clear light of Scriptural authority and of Paul's apostolic statement that "flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God," why waste valuable time in speculating on the material, or in the material, or in the attempt to prove or disprove that this mortal man, this so-called man of flesh and blood, and his origin in the jungles of darkest Africa with an ape, a baboon, or a monkey for his ancestors?

Whatever our material antecedents may have been, the question as to the identity of the progenitors of mortals loses all of its importance in the light of Jesus' most pointed statement, when, referring to this mortal or fleshly man, he said: "Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own; for he is a liar, and the father of it."

It must be perfectly evident that the material concept of the universe is the product of the carnal or mortal mind and then its concomitants, such, for example, as sin, sickness, poverty, sorrow, and death, are the inevitable result of that same mind. And it must be equally clear that as fast as we can put off this carnal mind which brings us all these sorrowful conditions, and in place thereof put on the mind of the Lord, we, in a corresponding degree, come into our inheritance of freedom as the children of the eternal Mind, or God. As we have it in Romans: "And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." Which St. Paul states again in a somewhat different manner in I Corinthians, where he writes: "Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord."

We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord. The mind of a man, or of this old man with his deeds, this man of flesh and blood and bones, this carnal man, and of putting on the new man, which is God's creation, is one entirely of mental transformation, and the process of mental transformation is accomplished only through prayer. With St. Paul, the Christian Scientist recognizes that prayer without ceasing is the only avenue of escape from the ills of mortality, and that the harmony of true existence becomes an abiding reality with us in proportion to the time spent in prayer. Praying without ceasing does not mean a never-ending period of supplication to a distant, unknown deity; it means rather, the constant purification of thought wherever we are and whatever our task may be, to the end that we may ever have before us the image of the true and spiritual man, and that our gaze must so constantly rest on God and his creation that that which is not of God will cease to have an influence in our thinking and living.

In "Miscellaneous Writings," page 153, Mrs. Eddy tersely puts the situation thus: "Self-renunciation of that constitutes a so-called material man, and the acknowledgment and achievement of his spiritual identity as the child of God, is Science that sweeps every shadow of heaven; whence good flows into every avenue of being, cleansing mortals of all uncleanness, destroying all suffering, and demonstrating the true image and likeness. There is no other way under heaven whereby we can be saved, and man be clothed with majesty, as able to be heart spiritual."

MIRACLES OF JESUS MATERIAL

It was from this basis, and this basis alone, that Jesus proceeded to raise to a spiritual world that all so-called science based on matter or the testimony of the five physical senses is not an eternal science, with the result that there is not a single miracle of Jesus that does not prove utterly powerless and void in the presence of a clear understanding of God and man created in His image and likeness. No so-called law of physical science was employed by Jesus when he turned water into wine at the wedding feast, when he walked the waters, when he fed the thousands in the wilderness with five loaves and two small fishes, when he instantaneously transported the ship across the Sea of Galilee, when he passed through closed doors, when he healed the sick; but, to the contrary, every so-called law of physical science was thereby broken completely. And in the work of overcoming all phases of mortal existence Jesus finally proved that death is not an open access to the kingdom of heaven, but that heaven is attained in exact proportion to our spiritual or mental regeneration.

DEATH AND HEAVEN

Just where the fallacy ever arose which would induce one to believe that death and heaven have anything to do with the kingdom of heaven, I do not know. Most certainly, however, it is not in the Bible. The Bible death is a concomitant of sin rather than an outcome of righteousness. Sin is most clearly pointed to as a key to death. Then why, in the light of everything Scriptural, assume that death can ever get us any nearer heaven than we are right now? In the book of Proverbs it is written: "In the way of righteousness is life; and in the pathway thereof there is death." And Jesus said, "If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death."

Therefore if we are living in a righteous manner, thinking rightly, we never see death, and we are not in the kingdom of heaven. And if death is a stepping-stone to heaven—and that is what the world has been taught these many centuries—then we are keeping ourselves out of heaven by righteous living. If the righteous man can ever experience death, as we are told in Proverbs, then something is radically wrong in the teachings of a theology which declares that we go to heaven when we die. We go to heaven when we die, then, according to the Scriptures, the righteous man can never go to heaven because he can never see death. Jesus calls death an enemy and St. Paul tells us that "the wages of sin is death." If sin leads to death, as the Bible tells us, and death is an open access to heaven, as the theologians tell us, sin, then, is the key to the kingdom of heaven. If heaven is a desirable ultimate, and we all admit that it is, and death leads us into heaven, as we have been so long time taught, was not Jesus defeating the very goal for which he came among us when he brought Lazarus back from the grave, when he raised from the dead the son of the widow of Nain, when he restored to life Jairus' daughter, and when he walked forth free from his own richly bound tomb the third day after his crucifixion?

AN ILLUSTRATION

Thus we see how incompatible, from the standpoint of Holy Writ, are the teachings and practices of those who profess to believe in Christian Science or a science based upon matter as a reality or creation of God. Christian Scientists are rapidly learning the futility of endeavoring to work out one's salvation from the basis of both matter and Spirit, and are learning that absolute reliance on the teachings of Jesus is the only means of salvation from all the ills of the flesh. They are finding that any attempt to mix the medicine of matter with the medicine of Mind, or God, in other words, the Science of Christianity, with the nostrums of matter, or material science, will avail nothing. To compromise the truth to satisfy fear or custom will prove disastrous. A case in point came to my attention some little time ago. A lady aged seventy-five or thereabouts was suffering with what physicians had diagnosed to be heart trouble. She had been under this sentence for some years and was rapidly growing worse. Finally she had to be taken to a sanatorium where she could be given the attention and nursing her case required. She was gradually failing and on several occasions it seemed as though the end had come. She was under the constant care of a physician until finally the situation arrived at that stage where it seemed that nothing further could be done through material means. The doctor advised the nurse that nothing he could do would help matters, and that all that remained to be done was to let the patient as comfortable as possible until the end. At this point the patient decided to try Christian Science, and at her request treatments in Christian Science were begun. At first she improved quite perceptibly. Then she lapsed back into her previous condition of helplessness. Then she improved again, and again slipped back. This condition of improvement and relapse continued for some time when she decided to go back to her doctor, saying she had given Christian Science a trial and was afraid to stick to it any longer. Her physician was again called, but he had nothing for her. She grew rapidly worse. Finally, as a last resort, other physicians were consulted, but after due examination they pronounced the same sentence of incurability as the first one. They frankly and kindly stated there was nothing they could possibly offer of assistance, and she was given up. Then, virtually, at the brink of her grave, this lady again called for Christian Science treatment. She said she was convinced that nothing offered any hope unless it might be Christian Science, and in asking for treatment the second time said she had a slight confession to make. She then related to the practitioner that she was under Christian Science treatment the first time, with the aid of the nurse, she had secretly kept in hand a little bottle of heart stimulant. The doctor had left her, and that whenever she became fearful of a severe attack she would take a dose of the medicine to turn out the attack. She said she was so ready to give Christian Science a fair trial and would resort to nothing material to assist her; she would rely solely on Christian Science, which she did. This was in the early part of the week, Monday or Tuesday, I believe. The work was begun on an Friday or Saturday of that same week this old lady who had been an invalid for years, in her bed most of the time, and had been given up to be by several physicians, walked several blocks to a business section of the city. She completely recovered from that condition and has never had a return of it.

Now, that healing, in itself, is no more wonderful than those which are taking place every day in every part of our land under Christian Science treatment, but it shows how purely mental the entire question of healing is, and how righteous living is the law of God. It illustrates how absolute reliance on the one Father will win where a warring, disharmonious half-way position will not. If the healing is robust it would never or become sterilized; therefore, it would be better to buy bandages that have already been prepared.

CONCLUSION

The pure simplicity of Jesus' life, his lovingkindness, his tender compassion and forgiveness, furnish us the foundation upon which to build our own superstructure of spirituality, health, happiness, and prosperity. In learning to love, to forgive and to forget, as did Jesus, lies the secret of success. There is not a single inharmonious condition, physical, moral, or financial, that has not its immediate remedy in the teachings of the Master, and a right and happy solution of all our difficulties is ever knocking at our door. The humility, the meekness, and the unswerving love of the mighty Jesus—this man who overcame every material law known to mankind, this man who held the world in his grasp and the waves in the palm of his hand, this man who could have escaped the part he played in the tragedy on Calvary, this man whose power of spiritual understanding could roll away the stone of materialism from the door of the tomb of mortality—should be the example of whose power of spiritual understanding could roll away the stone of materialism from the door of the tomb of mortality—should be the example of my friends, I cannot ask more of your time. There is so much to say about Christian Science, so much of good, so much that makes for true peace and peace that one short hour is all too brief to unfold the riches of this treasure-chest of Spirit. Certain it is that God never made you sick, or sinful, or unhappy, or poverty-stricken, and just as certainly will God make you well and pure and happy and successful if you will only let Him.

Mrs. Eddy, through her great discovery of Christian Science, gave to the world in her book "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," has unlocked for us the secret of spiritual law contained in the Bible and especially in the teachings and works of Jesus the Christ, so that, instead of being a book of mystery, the Bible has become a chart of life and peace and hope and happiness—a chart by which mortals may guide their frail crafts away from the shoals and rocks of sin, sickness, poverty, and death into the quiet waters of Spirit, where sin and evil have no abiding place, and God's goodness reigns supreme.

IZAAK WALTON'S COTTAGE, FISHERMEN'S MECCA

Destroyed by Fire

Fishermen will be saddened to learn that Izaak Walton's thatched, half-timbered cottage at Shallowford, Staffordshire, has been destroyed by fire.

England has lost one of her best beloved, literary landmarks and fishermen the home of the art's most famous exponent, with the destruction of Walton's country home, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

As St. Andrews, Scotland, is the Mecca for golfers and Stratford-upon-Avon the shrine of drama lovers, so Shallowford has been the place of pilgrimage for fishermen, continues the bulletin. Staffordshire unrolling its green, cultivated hills and valleys midway between smoky Birmingham and busy Liverpool, was the birth place of Walton and the scene of those fishing expeditions wherein he angled and caught, with the same hook, trout and many paragraphs of true acclaim.

Some Famous Fishing Places
Northward, a few miles from the Shallowford cottage lies Madeley, country seat of John Olfitt, Esquire, to whom Walton dedicated the "Compleat Angler" in appreciation for permission to fish on Olfitt's estate. Northeast ripples the Dove through level dale, a green carpeted, English sort of canyon where Walton fished with that young rake Charles Cotton, who added to the "Compleat Angler" the sections on fly-fishing. Near Bereford, at the upper end of the dale stands the famous fishing house built by the impecunious, creditor-ridden Cotton for the use of "father Walton" and himself.

Nothing could be in greater contrast to an American sportsman's fishing camp than Cotton's fishing house on the Dove. The latter presents the appearance of a rather large, private mansion. Its walls are cut stone. Flanking the arched stone doorway, two windows admit light to the fishing house through diamond-figured, leaded glass panes. Within, the single room measures 15 feet square. Black and white marble squares pave its floor. A black marble-topped table occupied the center of the room and at one time painted panels of scenes on the Dove, and of Cotton and Walton in dress of the time, ornamented the walls. Amid classic magnificence the only human note can be found on the fireplace where the initials "C. C. I. W." record the famous friendship. Over the doorway on the outside runs the inscription: "Piscatoribus Sacrum."

Mixed Fishing and Philosophy
Walton did not take his fishing straight. He mixed trout with a kindly philosophy and poetry. The "Angler's Song" tells why he thinks fishing is superior to all other sports:

"Of recreation there is none
So free as fishing is alone.
All other pastimes do me less Than mind and body both possess:
My hand alone my work can do,
So I can fish and study too."

The most famous fisherman of them all was so unprofessional as to let his pole and line fish unattended while he sought shelter under a tree to talk with a pupil on Montaigne or worms. He also preferred worms to flies for catching trout! And who but Izaak Walton or the greenest beginner would, when a "cushopper" threatened to break away, throw the pole in the stream after the fish?

Izaak Walton was born in Stafford in 1593. Fish and live long early became his philosophy, and he proved his contention by attaining the age of 90.

Lived in Turbulent Times
We regard the span of Walton's life as one of the stormiest in England's history. The Pilgrims were sailing to New England to escape religious persecution when Walton at 27 ran a hardware store in a 7½ by 5 foot London room. With the defeat of the Royalists by Cromwell in 1641 Walton retired to Stafford. All England struggled amidst the tumult of revolution but Izaak merely moved from the banks of the Thames to the banks of the Dove. The "Compleat Angler's" soothing prose praising the beauty of an English field after a shower, explaining how to put a worm on a hook, and discussing the excellence of the Episcopal faith; this dissertation, mild as a May morning, first appeared in that hectic year when Cromwell proclaimed himself Lord Protector and England became a republic.

"No life, my honest Scholar," Walton the Piscator advise Venator, "No life so happy and so pleasant as the life of a well-governed angler; for when the lawler is swallowed up with business, and the statesman is preventing or contriving plots, then we sit on cowslip banks, hear birds sing, and possess ourselves in as much quietness as these silent, silver streams, which we now see glide so quietly by us. Indeed, my good Scholar, we may say of angling as Dr. Beeler said of strawberries: 'Doubtless God could have made a better berry, but doubtless God never did,' and so, if I might be a judge, 'God never did make a more calm, quiet, innocent recreation than angling.'"

It is quite in keeping that Walton should have inscribed a tribute to the meadow lark which posterity treasures more than his observations on the eel.

As first, the lark, he wrote, when she means to reject to cheer herself and those that hear her, she then quits earth, and sings as she ascends higher into the air and having ended her heavenly employment, grows then mute and sad to think she must descend to the dull earth, which she would not touch but of necessity.

The animal became frightened and bolted when near the standpipes. As he struck the hard footing of the parkway the horse fell throwing Mr. Healey to the ground. The latter was picked up by Supt. Harry Dutton of the Water Department and taken to the Winchester Hospital where he was attended by Dr. Richard W. Shesby. Dr. Shesby found that Healey had sustained multiple cuts and bruises and a severe shaking up. These stitches were necessary to close one cut on his ankle.

IN LOVING REMEMBRANCE

In the death of Mrs. James Blair which occurred at her home in Winchester on Friday, Oct. 28, this community has lost one of its most valued members and a larger circle of friends mourn her passing.

Anna Barton Tweedie was born in Glasgow, Scotland, Dec. 17, 1847, the daughter of James and Elizabeth Fennie (Allen) Tweedie. When she was 12 years of age, her mother died, leaving six children, the youngest a year old. Remembering her promises to her mother, she faithfully cared for the little brood until they were able to care for themselves. Her noted father is still living. On Sept. 12, 1881, she was married to Mr. James Blair, and their life has been a happy home together. In 1902 they came to this country with their three children. From the first day Mrs. Blair entered the New York, she has been most enthusiastic about the land of her adoption.

They very soon joined the Methodist Episcopal church and have been identified with all the activities of the church throughout these years.

Mrs. Blair was an unusual woman, practical, capable and endowed with wonderful gifts which she used freely and gladly in the Master's service. Though her home was never neglected, she found time for loyal and loving service in all departments of church work. She loved children and young people and they recognized her as their friends. In Melrose Church she was active in both home and foreign missionary work and represented the Winchester church in the larger missionary organizations. Her enthusiasm, her ability, and her radiant personality impressed all who came in contact with her. Hers was a strong, well-rounded character, whose secret was an abiding faith in Christ which was daily manifested in her Christian living. Surely, the world is better for such a life!

Funeral services were held at her home 41 Myrtle terrace on Sunday afternoon conducted by her pastor, Rev. H. W. Hook, who was assisted by Rev. A. H. Coffey of East Sausage and Dr. F. D. Taylor of Waterville. The house was overflowing with mourning friends, and the many flowers which were tributes of love and sympathy.

"Her children arise up and call her blessed, her husband also, and he praiseth her."

MUSICAL COMEDY NEXT WEEK

"Sally, Irene and Mary," nationally famous for its humor, topical material and a general wealth of musical material, will be the second musical comedy offering of Viano's Summer Players. Next week, therefore, is to be a week of riotous joy for the patrons of the theatre. Every member of the company is cast in a delightful part and surrounding them is a host of love and sympathy.

"Her children arise up and call her blessed, her husband also, and he praiseth her."

company is to present the rural comedy, "The Taming of Helen," which was written by that dean of Boston dramatic critics, Edward Harold Crosby of the Boston Post. As an added attraction the "home town" choir will be heard.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

"The Cat and the Canary" opens at the University for four days beginning Sunday. Beautiful, blonde Laura La Plante is the star in this thrilling mystery picture. Six people, three women and three men, go with an attorney to a supposed haunted house to hear the reading of the will. The attorney is murdered—each of the six persons might have done the killing. Which one of them was it—if any—is undiscoverable until the final scene. "The Cat and the Canary" is a screen adaptation of the great stage success of the same name by John Willard. In addition to Miss La Plante, the cast embraces some of the best known names of filmdom, including among many others, Arthur Edmund Carew, Forrest Stanley, Creighton Hale, Gertrude Astor, George Siegman, Flora Finch, Martha Mattox and Tully Marshall.

On the same program is "Nevada" founded on the story by Zane Grey. Cooper, Thelma Todd has the feminine lead.

For the last three days of the week the pictures are "Swim, Girl, Swim" with Bebe Daniels and "Back to God's Country" with Renee Adoree. One night write volumes about dashing Bebe Daniels and her popularity as the leading comedienne of the screen. "Swim, Girl, Swim" has been accepted as one of the greatest pictures and has met with enthusiastic reception throughout the nation. "Back to God's Country" is from the famous novel by James Oliver Curwood. Renee Adoree gives an excellent interpretation of a French Canadian girl fighting against terrible odds.

Miss Mary Carr of Winchester was a member of the committee in charge of the Halloween party given by the sophomore class at Radcliffe College in Agassiz House, Cambridge, last Monday evening.

LEGION NOTES

Next week will be one of the busiest weeks of the year for the Winchester Post of the American Legion. On Sunday, the Legion will form in front of their headquarters at 2230. A number of the members as possible are earnestly requested to be there in uniform. From the post headquarters we will proceed with our National and Post colors in a military body to the new headquarters of the Winchester Boy and Girl Scouts located on the Parkway at the edge of Middlesex Hills where the Winchester Post is to have the privilege of presenting a flag to the Scouts to decorate the new flag pole recently presented and erected by M. E. Lyons in recognition of the Scouts' headquarters.

On Armistice night, Friday, Nov. 11, the Winchester Post is to offer in the Town Hall an exceptional program for which Maj. Edwin H. Cooper has been secured to show his official pictures taken by him as a member of the signal corps of the United States Army and to appear in person to describe the incidents in relation to the taking of these pictures and the subjects of interest shown therein. These pictures are not available in any other form. The Post feels very fortunate in being able to present on the evening of Armistice night such a program. Every member of the Post, his family and friends are expected to be present. Uniforms are not required. Admission of 75 cents for adults and 25 cents for children of school age will be charged.

It is hoped by the officers of the Winchester Post that every meeting will be well attended as was last night's meeting and that the entertainment will be of an equal caliber.

Interesting Meeting of Legion Post Winchester Post, No. 37, of the American Legion held its regular monthly meeting last evening. This meeting was well attended by the members of the Post and guests.

Commander Wiley presented to the Comdr. Arthur S. Harris a past commander's charm as an expression of the Post's appreciation of his work during the past year.

Plans were discussed for the ceremony in connection with the presentation of a flag to the Boy and Girl Scouts of Winchester to take place at the new Scout headquarters on Sunday at 3 p. m. Likewise, plans were discussed for the Maj. Edwin H. Cooper lecture and showing of moving pictures of the World War in the Town Hall on Armistice Night. The large sale of tickets at the Post meeting was a fair indication of the interest which the members of the Post have in honoring Major Cooper's lecture.

The meeting did not adjourn until rather late in the evening after listening to Capt. Daniel J. Canty of Woburn tell of his interesting experiences as head of the Graves Registration Commission in France to which he was appointed by the War Department.

It gave the Post members a new idea of the care which is being taken of the graves of our comrades in the "land of poppies." His remarks concerning the releasing and returning of American prisoners of war were likewise very interesting.

As a surprise entertainment not previously announced the Post is to present to Ernest Dudley Chase for showing moving pictures of the Dwaney-Tunney fight recently held at Chicago and of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's plane in many aerial antics.

ABOLISH ISLANDS SCENE OF MANY WRECKS

The Abrolhos, or Santa Barbara Islands, off the coast of central Brazil, near where the Italian liner "Princess Mafalda" recently ran down in one of the worst marine disasters since the sinking of the Titanic, is the subject of the following bulletin from the National Geographic Society.

The Abrolhos Islands are the above water apex of one of South America's "Grand Banks," says a bulletin. Off the coast of Brazil, south of Bahia and north of Rio de Janeiro, this great bank or underwater plateau stretches for more than 100 miles. The Abrolhos Islands are not the bank's only danger points. In many places it rises to within a fathom or two of the surface, and at some points rocks are just awash at low water. Many of these obstructions are of coral formation.

Ship Lanes Pass Near Obstructions

One of the principal shipping lanes between Europe and South America, and the lane from North American ports to Brazil or Argentina, touch at Pernambuco, and Bahia, and then skirt the coast southward to Rio de Janeiro. These ship routes pass just outside the Abrolhos Islands and their clustering shoals. On Santa Barbara, chief of the islets, is a lighthouse to warn ships to keep to the eastward.

Because these islets, rocks, reefs, and reefs lie so close to frequented ship lanes, they have taken a heavy toll. Several of the more important shoals are named from ships that have met disaster on them, as La France Shoal, named from a ship that was wrecked on them in 1884, and California Shoal, struck by the ship "California" in 1891.

Near Landing Place of Cabral

The isles are approximately 30 miles off the nearest point of the mainland, Bahia or Balaie Point. The shoals and reefs stretch 12 or 15 miles farther seaward. Just as North American fishermen frequent the New England Banks, so the Abrolhos Bank draws the fishermen of Brazil. Scores of fishing boats are usually to be found near the islands, many of them from Porto Seguro, 100 miles to the north. This little port was the landing place in 1500 of Cabral on whose exploit hung the claim of Portugal to the great land that is now Brazil.

This has remained an isolated section of the Brazilian coast. The nearest town to the scene of sinking of the "Princess Mafalda" is Caravelas, several miles up the river of the same name, and a few miles down the coast from Baleia Point. The population of the town is about 4000. It has a short railway running inland to gold mines, but is not connected with other coastal towns. The nearest sizable towns are Victoria, 200 miles to the south, and Bahia, 500 miles to the north.

FRIESLAND: A DIKE-IRMMED CATTLE COUNTRY

The Province of Friesland, in the Netherlands, which recently held an agricultural fair at the provincial capital, Leeuwarden, is one of the most important dairying regions of Europe, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Black and white Friesian cattle, a breed known in America as Holstein-Friesians, have found their way into most of the milk and butter countries of the world.

True as cattle were mentioned by the Roman historian Tacitus as being of importance as early as the year 28 A. D., Friesland became of this early date, or by reason of the favorable location of the province in regard to industrial cities of northern Europe, Friesland farmers have grown prosperous through many years of furnishing their neighbors with butter and cheese.

Grass and Land Below Sea Level

This northern province of the Netherlands, lies between that arm of the ocean known as the Zuyder Zee and the North Sea. It is bordered on a rim of dikes and high sand dunes behind which the country is so low that were these dikes to break the entire province would be submerged. During the summer months the climate of this low, flat plain is mild and pleasant. Canal-bordered fields are filled with black and white grazing cattle.

In winter, however, weather conditions are often severe. Storms of wind and rain may lash over the land for days. The necessity for feeding and warming milk cows during such periods has developed a style of domestic farm architecture peculiar to Friesland. Barn and dwelling are joined one roof, which rises high into the sky in order to provide loft space for the numerous cattle that are housed as cattle feed during the long winter. The whole gives the appearance of a one-story cottage pushed low into the earth by weight of the immense pointed roof, which reaches above the tops of the tall trees lining the roadways.

A hall separates the living quarters of the farmer's family from space set aside for cows, which as a rule is the larger portion of the house. Visitors testify that the barns are spotless and odorless. Each stall is sandbed and has a window of its own, inevitably decorated with a fresh white window curtain. Each cow has a bed daily and many of their tails are tied up with ribbon.

Woman's Wealth Is Golden Headress

There is always a milk room or dairy, usually spotless, with scrubbed tables and benches and shining brass utensils. Such immaculate cleanliness is obtained by means of scrubbing with a scrub brush on the part of female members of the household.

Fraserian women are noted for their neatness and freshness of complexion. The provincial costume is still almost universally worn in the country. This dress of many petticoats and tight bodice is surmounted by a head covering of unique splendor. A gold circlet with spiral ornaments canopies the temple is covered with a cap of finest lace, bordered with a full fringe around the back of the neck. The gold portion of this headress is one of the most valued treasures of every provincial maiden, being often a present of father or fiancé, or else a result of the savings of years. Less fortunate maidens have to content themselves with casings of gold plate or of silver. Even the thread of hairdressers, in such a head covering has not called to order Friesland belles from wearing their native military. It is said that some girls as young as 15 have been in order to produce the fashionable round shape to the head.

Like the rest of Holland, woodwork in Friesland is painted in the brightest of yellows, blues, and greens, perhaps to compensate for the general grayness of the atmosphere. Walls and floors are tiled in bright colors whenever possible. Heat is obtained by open fires of coal or peat, or, at late, by the more modern gigantic Dutch stove. Before this center of household life the Friesland farmer smokes on long winter evenings and plans for the butter and cheese of another year.

KALGAN: ON THE GREAT WALL'S HORSESHOE CURVE

Kalgan, important trading center of northern China recently occupied by Nationalist forces, occupies one of the most ancient crossroads in the world, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. There the caravan route from Peking to Urumchi, on the other side of the Gobi Desert, crosses the Great Wall of China. The Great Wall has fallen into disrepair and is no longer a military highway, but the caravan route to Mongolia has kept pace with the times and now automobiles mingle with the camel trains on its long and tedious path.

Where Railway Meets Desert Trails
Kalgan is situated near the border of the Province of Chihli and Mongolia, about 125 miles by rail northwest of Peking. At this point the Great Wall has formed a horseshoe curve. Kalgan is on the outer edge and Nankow on the inner. The traveler from Peking thus crosses the old fortification twice, once at Nankow and later at Kalgan. The railway journey from Peking occupies an entire day, due to the steady rise in the landscape toward the Mongolian plateau, which has Kalgan on its rim.

Thence tea and tobacco for the northern trade must be hauled across the Gobi by cart, camel, or an occasional motor truck. Such a journey occupies many days, wells being 20, 30 and even 50 miles apart. Caravans are enormous, some numbering between three and four hundred camels. Many camels succumb to heat, cold, hunger or thirst and the trail is marked by bleached bones of dead animals. For the most part they get through, however, and on their way south pour the products of Mongolia into Kalgan. Hides, wool, and furs reach this outpost of civilization in enormous quantities from the grazing lands of the north.

The Texas of Asia
Another Mongolian product marketed through Kalgan is the hardy little Mongol pony of the plains. These are in demand throughout the northern provinces, especially gray and white ponies, the latter being favorites with the Chinese. Foreigners find these tough little beasts first rate for saddle purposes, though they have a reputation for stumbling. Plains, ponies, and herds give Kalgan the air of the old American West, an illusion not dispelled by its reputation for lawlessness.

The city has an estimated population of 70,000 who are largely employed in trading and allied industries, such as the manufacture of saddles, harness, and rope. Low mud and brick houses with the roof stretched in dirty monotony on either side of the Ta Ho, which stream cuts the city in two, and during the rainy season sometimes floods the neighborhood. There are many Russian inhabitants and they have their own bank and church. Modern architecture is represented by a few business buildings belonging to the fur and tobacco trade and native stores. The white population other than Russian has always been small, limited to a few traders and missionaries.

City Famed for Color and Climate
Kalgan is a name unfamiliar to the majority of China's inhabitants; the city being known by the Chinese as Chang Chia Kou. Mention this name to a home-loving Chinaman and he pictures for you a wild frontier settlement in whose streets gallant Mongol horsemen from the plains jostle tea caravans enroute for Siberia, and soldiers from the local garrison. Such a picture of Kalgan has been drawn by Chinese narrators from the earliest times and is equally true today. It is known among foreigners resident in China as a city of the "wild and woolly". West where the hospitality of the traders is only equalled by a bracing upland climate.

Patterned Tile

The word "mosaic" means "burned in" and mosaic tile is an earthenware tile having a pattern in different colors, made with different colored clays infired in the tile and fired with it.

Pirate Home in 1771

Lafitte, a colorful legend, made his stronghold on Galveston Island in 1771 and lived much of his pirate treasure on the shores there. The island was then known as "Mammy's". Like the pirates of the story books, he dressed in a green and red uniform and possessed a polite and easy manner.

Deep Sea Facts

In the depth of the sea there is eternal winter, with a temperature about the freezing point of fresh water. Eternal night exists, relieved only by the faint gleams of phosphorescent light. There is absolute calm and silence and no sound except a suggestion of undulating respiration and thins.

Motorcycle Officer Edward W. O'Connell once again nosed out Secret William Rogers for shooting honors at police target practice on the old rifle range Wednesday afternoon. Officer John Noonan also did some very effective shooting.

Dr. McFarland of 16 Everett avenue is continuing his course of treatments at the New England sanitarium.

The members of the Art Lovers' Club enjoyed a rare musical treat at their meeting yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank O. Griffin, West Medford, in the singing of Mrs. Henrietta Boynton of Church street, Winchester. Mrs. Boynton, who has a contralto voice of unusual brilliance and sweetness, was especially charming in a group of negro spirituals, which were rendered with pathos and feeling.

The regular weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club of Winchester was held at the Calumet Club yesterday noon with a large attendance. Guests were present from Wakefield and Woburn. President George T. Davidson presided and conducted the following business meeting, at which the club discussed the possibility of holding a ladies' night and conducting an entertainment to further financing the various enterprises it is backing. No action was taken.

No more moths. Get your Moth-O-Kill refills and canisters at Wilson's.

It is an acknowledged fact that the Bowdoin Square Garage is the most centrally located and most easily reached downtown garage, situated as it is at 94 Cambridge street, Boston, at the foot of Bowdoin street, just back of the State House. This is especially true after 6 p. m. when the 100-foot Cambridge street boulevard leading to the door of the garage is free from traffic. The free bus service, which has just been established by the Bowdoin Square Garage should bring the theatres to its door, making ideal service for its patrons. Arrangements have been made with the Bowdoin Auto Bus Line to provide free service to and from the downtown theatre district. Buses leave garage 7:50 and 8:15 p. m. and the theatre district 10:50 and 11:20 p. m.

Ladies of Winchester are proving that gowns made-to-order or remodeled is economical by patronizing so generously Miss Charlotte G. Penickton. Tel. 1212-W.

The Board of Selectmen has taken under advisement the suggestion of Harry W. Brown of 19 Norwood street that the town install an automatic traffic signal at the junction of Church, Bacon and Fletcher streets. No funds are at present available for such a project.

The John E. Redmond and Sarah E. Curran Branches of the Irish National Forersters held a joint installation last evening in White's Hall. Dancing followed the ceremony.

Among the Winchester Rotarians spotting new cars at present is P. T. "Pat" Walsh of Eastern Pelt Company, a resident of Oxford street.

"Pat" is driving a handsome Lincoln sedan.

James Valleley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Valleley of Elm street is receiving the congratulations of his many friends upon his promotion to bond salesman with the Boston office of Lew. Hazegton Company, with which concern he has been associated since his graduation from the local high school.

Miss Edna Deloria was hostess last Saturday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Simon Deloria of 31 Salem street, to a large number of Winchester and out-of-town guests, the occasion being an old-fashioned Halloween party.

LADIES' FRIENDLY SOCIETY

The Ladies' Friendly of the Unitarian Church held their monthly business meeting Tuesday afternoon, preceded by a meeting of the executive board. Mrs. M. L. Barrows, a director of the General Alliance was the guest of honor, she outlined in detail the approved appeals of the General Alliance.

Mrs. Harold Meyer, who was in charge of the entertainment first presented Mrs. Amette Hughes, who sang very charmingly a Chinese group of "A Chinese Prayer" and "All My Heart's Ashes" followed by the mirthful, "The House That Jack Built." Mrs. Abbott accompanied Mrs. Hughes on the piano.

Next Mrs. Meyer introduced Mabel Craig Lyons who has a studio on Main street, Winchester. Miss Lyons is a graduate of the Leland Powers School of Expression and read the first two acts of Channing Pollock's Play, "Such a Little Queen." Miss Lyons carried all her listeners right into the atmosphere of the play and displayed her dramatic ability well in the interpretations of both masculine and feminine parts.

A delightful chrysanthemum tea was served with Mrs. Arthur Kelley chairman, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Dow and Mrs. Charles Jacobs. Miss Alice Mason, past president of the Society and Mrs. H. W. Hildreth, the present president, presided.

Light Bulbs

Before discarding an electric light bulb place it on a drop light, turn on the current and shake the bulb, holding it between you and the light. Then try it on the light; the chances are it may be service for several months longer. The two wires of the filament have a habit of becoming disconnected. By shaking it the particles together again, making the bulb as good as new.

FUNERAL OF LUTHER W. PUFFER TUESDAY

Veteran Manufacturer Was Head of Winchester Business.

Funeral services for Luther W. Puffer, head of the Puffer Manufacturing Company of this town and for 45 years identified with the soda water supply business, were held Tuesday afternoon at his late residence, 321 Winthrop street, Medford, where he died on Saturday, Nov. 5, at the age of 72.

Mr. Puffer was born in Boston and as a young man entered the business of manufacturing soda water fountains and supplies, being associated with the Boston firm founded by his father, the late Alvin D. Puffer. Eventually he succeeded his father as the head of the business which looked over the McKay plant off Swanston street years ago. During the past few years the business has been conducted by his four sons, Mr. Puffer having spent much of his time in Florida. He was a member of St. Herman and other Masonic Lodges of Medford, the Medford Club and of the Boston Athletic Association. Surviving are his wife, who was Miss Laura E. Wood of Malden, four sons, Luther W. Puffer of Winchester, Alvin W. Puffer and Leon H. Puffer of Medford and Stanley B. Puffer of Winchester. Seven sisters also survive him. They are Mrs. Alfred B. Scott, Mrs. Louise C. Davis and Mrs. Sarah M. McKay who reside in Geneva, Switzerland; Mrs. Adeline Kerr and Mrs. Carrie E. Nelson of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. Alice M. Strittmatter of Garden City, Long Island.

LEGION NOTES

Although there were only a few members of the Winchester Post, 37, the American Legion, who braved the cold wind of Sunday afternoon and turned out to assist in the presentation of a National flag to the Boy Scouts, the ceremony was nevertheless effective and have received many compliments from the citizens of Winchester who witnessed the ceremony on our presence and appearance.

It is expected that tonight will witness one of the finest showings of war pictures ever exhibited in Winchester.

Major Edwin H. Cooper's personally taken pictures as a member of the Signal Corps of the United States Army are indisputable in their vivid detail of the conditions as actually existed on the American and Allied fronts in France. Major Cooper will tell as the pictures are shown in a very graphic manner the circumstances pertaining to the taking of these pictures as well as the time and location at which the action took place and what companies or detachments were shown therein.

Every member of the Winchester Post and his family and friends are expected to be present. It should be every Legionnaire's duty to attend such an affair as this and to partake of the solemn many incidents of the World War with which he may be familiar.

Tickets may be obtained at Hevey's Pharmacy or at the box office.

FLOOD IN NEW ENGLAND STATES

The following announcement was given to the press this week by Judge John Barton Payne, the chairman of the Central Committee of the American National Red Cross:

"The American National Red Cross is prepared from its existing funds, to meet the needs growing out of the serious floods in New England States, as they are revealed by the information available at this time. It is to meet situations such as this, without the necessity of a special campaign for funds that the goal of $3,000,000 for the Red Cross members has been fixed for the Annual Roll Call beginning Nov. 11, 1927."

"National Headquarters of the Red Cross or any of its chapters is prepared, however, to receive such contributions as are tendered by those who may desire to have direct participation in this relief work, and add them to the funds made available from the Red Cross disaster reserve. This is not any senseless appeal for contributions as the Red Cross is relying upon the response in the forthcoming Roll Call to meet the needs of more than for very large emergencies."

THE FIDELIS CLUB

The Fidelis Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 8, at 9 o'clock at the home of Miss Ellen Harold. After the business of the Club had been transacted the meeting adjourned and the members were invited to gather in an adjoining room. The decorations of this room were cleverly carried out with the club colors, blue and gold. During the evening the President, Miss Mary Boyle made a speech presenting a large package containing a chest of drawers Mrs. Winifred Dolan on behalf of the Club. Mrs. Dolan was greatly surprised but regained her composure and thanked her club mates in a charming manner. A delightful entertainment took place which was enjoyed by all. The girls departed at a late hour wishing Mrs. Dolan much happiness in the future.

ACCELERATION TO RELIEVE TRAFFIC CONGESTION

New light has been shed upon the subject of speeding up motor car traffic without increasing speed limits through the city of Chicago as to the effect of quick "get away" in relieving congestion. With an expected addition of 36,000 units to Chicago's motor car population during the coming 12 months, the problem of handling the traffic with speed and safety is one of tremendous import, and a test run was recently made under the supervision of Chicago's chief of police Hughes to determine what effect quick acceleration would have upon traffic movement.

In the test run using two different types of cars, it was demonstrated that rapid acceleration—quick "kick-up"—would increase traffic mobility 20 to 25 per cent in Chicago under the present street capacity and the present "set-and-go" light system.

Just how increased car acceleration aids in the movement of traffic and the relief of congestion is shown in the results of the test run from the city limits on the north, Sheridan road and Janeway terrace—to Russell square at the southeastern extremity of the city—a distance of over 20 miles.

Each of the two cars used in the test carried two official observers and timers with stop watches.

The test was made with a LaSalle because of its extreme power in second gear, which accounts for its rapid acceleration and quick "get-away" and another type of car of average "kick-up."

The LaSalle, with its quick pick-up, left the Howard street district and made the run in an even 60 minutes with only 11 stops for traffic lights. (On much of this route traffic signals are set for continuous travel at 25 miles per hour.) The second car entered upon its run six minutes earlier but was soon passed by the first car since, due to its slower acceleration, it was compelled to stop more often. The run by Russell square at the southeastern extremity of the city was completed by the average car in one hour and 25 minutes, this giving a margin of 25 minutes to the car with the quick "get away." Neither car, of course, travelled over 25 miles an hour at any time during the test. Both cars were of approximately the same weight and each carried two passengers. Investigate this quick "get away" for your own satisfaction by calling John H. Bates, Inc., at Woburn, local distributors of Cadillac and LaSalle.

CARS IN CRASH AT SYMMES CORNER

A Ford sedan, owned by Esther M. Myers of 25 Emerson street, Medford, was badly damaged at 7:45 Saturday evening in a collision at Symmes corner with a Nash sedan, owned and operated by Emma M. Bracole of 17 Holton street, Woburn. According to the police account of the accident the Ford, which was being driven toward Winchester by John Myers of 25 Emerson street, Medford, had stopped on Main street near Everett road to permit a car to cross the street to enter Bacon street. The Nash was headed in the direction of Medford, but instead of stopping to permit the machine crossing Main street to pass, the driver swung sharply to the left, crashing into Myers' machine.

Fortunately no one was injured in the collision but the Ford was so badly smashed about the front end that it had to be towed to the Hudson-Essex Garage on upper Main street.

Sorry for "Fatted calf"

Christian missionaries in their work among the Hindus find it difficult to explain the killing of the fatted calf—the only thing in the four aspects to which moats all Hindus take exception. This is because the cow is regarded by them as sacred.

HIGH SCHOOL PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

tain translation or example, if he says: "I did not know we had that today," the teacher simply says: "Open your assignment book." Then it is in black and white. In asking your child to tell you what the assignment is, you are not asking him to state it in terms of events or principle rather than in terms of pages in the book. If he tells you he has pages 26-30 in history, or the next three pages in physics, it means little or nothing, but if he says for the next assignment he is to discover the causes of the French revolution for the next lesson in Science he is to master the principle of Boyle's law of expansion of gases, it may mean more to you and it is surely better evidence that he knows what he is about. May I say in closing this first point that more attendance at school does not mean in itself that a school is being educated. There is no magic available by means of which a few hours presence in a school daily educates a child. It is the duty and obligation of the town to provide means as good as any in the country by which our boys and girls can satisfy any educational ambitions they may have, and I believe that Winchester has and will meet that obligation. The Town is liberal with its school appropriations, has provided serviceable and convenient buildings, excellent teachers and the latest equipment and will not neglect any new needs arise. But the parents must realize that the Town of Winchester cannot educate their children. It can and has provided the means by which they may be educated, but the process is up to each individual. "Education is a constant, not a best." We have heard a great deal about the self-made and self-educated man often forgetting that in the ultimate process every educated man is self-educated. Our children must become educated with much less effort, struggle and discipline of the mind than did the boys and girls of a generation ago who had far less beautiful and convenient surroundings in which to work. The average boy of today is not so ready for the future. He will not study as little as he possibly can and the best setting son of two many of our boys and girls and that is the fact. Their abilities and opportunities, they are perfectly content with getting by. If students in high school say that they can do as much as they can, it should be done and do it in school hours, you may not as usual they are trying to fool their parents and that it is time to investigate.

LEISURE TIME

A second way in which the home can co-operate with the school is to recognize that the way in which the leisure time of each school student is spent has a big influence on their education and consequently so to it. Last such time is wisely organized. Did you ever hear of a person who is relatively small amount of time a person spends actually in school? From birth to the age of 21 the average person spends less than six months in school and over three months in the half of the school, and it is very important how this great amount of time out of school is employed. One of the most common failures in American thinking today is our habit of making "School" and "Education" synonymous. We have come to think of a boy's education as that change which takes place as a result of his experiences at school. A third method of small children once was heard to say with a sigh: "I shall be so thankful when it comes time for the children to go to school; then their education will begin. The teacher will see to that." School or formal education is a part and only part of the training. Until we come to be governed by the realization that those experiences that a child has in the home, on the street, in the automobile, are a part of his total training we shall be disappointed. This is true today than ever before because of the changed conditions. A disinterested reader of mature years wrote to the editor of the London Pictorial containing among other things: "See your paper is not what it used to be." In his reply the editor said: "I am sure that your paper is not as good as it used to be, and my dear madam, as a matter of fact it never was." Whether or not boys and girls are what they used to be in their parents' day is beside the point. We cannot deny that the conditions under which they live are entirely different. Practically every boy has his telephone with him ever more challenge. The automobile is universal, far more so than the horse and buggy of a generation ago. There are over 1,000,000 private pleasure cars licensed and in use in the United States and this machine is a symbol of the speed of modern times. It enters to the common way to be going, going, going even though one never arrives. The movies are another form of recreation characteristic of the age and undoubtedly the most popular of the recent recreational spare time activities. They are stimulating the reading habit because they are more exciting in telling the story and are quicker. Again it is speed. The keynote of the radio is speed. A third form of activity that has tremendous popularity especially with boys and is time consuming in the amount of its various programs. The social life today is much more complete in its range and frequency of activities than ever before. The economic standard of American living has made all these things practically universal. In face of all these and other inventions of a highly organized and over-scheduled time, the strong-minded boy or girl will come out on top, but the average boy or girl if left to his own resources will be fortunate to escape results that will seriously affect his future life, adversely. The danger as I see it, lies in the possibility that the average boy or girl without careful guidance will be unable to do so order his hours and activities that school will take its proper position in the life of the pupil. If a student is to have a successful scholastic career, it is necessary to provide a proper amount of study time. It is equally important that in addition to studying faithfully he rest faithfully, and that is a different thing to arrange. Sometimes when listening to their girls' discussion of their parties, their trips, movies, church work, girl scout work, games and other activities and interests, the parents are often surprised to find the time, the physical and nervous energy necessary for such a full life and energy on their school work at the same time. Number after number of individual cases in which students have carried an entirely too heavy program could be cited. The strong boy or girl comes through apparently unaffected physically and nervously fit, but for the school work is exhausted, as far as school work is concerned.

CONFIDENCE

One other way in which the home can help is in building up within the student, confidence in the school. The importance of the mood and the attitude of the pupil toward his work and toward his teacher is often overlooked. A part of the teacher's task, and a very important part, is to establish an attitude of good will toward himself and his class and to create in his pupils enthusiasm for his work. For it is today a well recognized principle that learning takes place under such conditions much more effectively than under the opposite, but the basis of enthusiasm is confidence. We would hesitate, and justly so, to say that which would destroy the confidence of our children in the Church. It is almost equally true that which would destroy their confidence in our Government. Let us as parents equally safeguard our statements that we do not destroy their confidence in the School. For when by our criticism of a teacher, freely expressed before the child, we destroy his confidence in his teacher, we at the same time destroy in a large measure the value of the teacher as far as that particular child is concerned. Not only that, but in failing to do this we are teaching our child to be to his teacher as we are to ourselves not to pass final judgment without at least hearing her side of the story. Every school principal understands from his own experience, how easy it is for parents to become prejudiced. A boy is sent to the principal's office by the teacher or vice versa, and the principal advises the boy to sit down and talk the case over with him, draw him out and encourage him to tell what the trouble is. And the principal gets the story, but he gets it from the boy's point of view. If the principal stops there, he would often conclude, as parents must often conclude, that the teacher had been very unfair, unreasonable and had showed his confidence in the teacher and assume that there is another side to the story and that some of the details have been omitted. The same situation applies in the home, except that it is often impossible or very difficult for the home to hear the other side of the story. But even if you cannot find time to talk with the teacher personally and thus get her point of view, before forming a final judgment, to put yourself in the teacher's place and see the matter from that angle. Imagine that instead of having your three or four children, or whatever the number may be, you have in your home between five and six hundred, that you personally are responsible for 125 to 150 boys and girls of high school age, all different in nature, capacity, ambition, industry and habits, and perhaps you will see the matter in a more sympathetic light. There is always need for a closer, more intimate relationship between parents and teachers, in order that each may better understand the child. These two great forces, the School and the Home, each working on the same problem, each seeking to accomplish the same results, namely, the right training and the development of the child, remain strangers. In addition to the fact that they are busy people, there is another reason why they cannot have such contact with high school teachers than with the teachers of grade children and that reason is the high school child himself. A high school child is rather take punishment than to have his parents come to the high school building, and at the present time I do not see how this can be changed. Parents do come, of their own initiative that today the presence of John's mother or father in school is often taken as evidence by the rest of the school that John is in difficulty. Isn't it really quite a ridiculous situation? The relationship of the parent to the child is such that a parent's presence in the school is a "black eye" for the child. Many a pupil is ashamed to have his parents come to school of their own initiative. The remedy can come only from the school. Make visiting in the high school as commonplace as it is in the grades. When this occurs, I am sure that many misunderstandings between the home and the school will disappear and in their places will develop mutual confidence and respect. The relationship between the teacher and the parent is so aptly stated in a poem which was sent out by the New England Telephone Company to all of its subscribers a few years ago that I would like to quote it:

If I know you and you know me,
How seldom we would disagree.
But, when each stands behind his hands,
Both often fail to understand
The truth which binds both what's right
And treat the other honor bright.
If I know you and you know me,

WINCHESTER GIRLS WON FROM SWAMPSCOTT

Winchester High School girls' field hockey team kept its slate clean in the Northern Division of the Interstate League by defeating the Swampscott girls last Friday afternoon on Manchester Field, 2-0.

The score should have been much larger, the locals throwing away several fine chances to tally in the first half of the game. The visitors had several good individual plays, notably Miss Hammy at left wing and Miss Carey at right fullback, but as a team their combination play was sadly lacking.

Winchester's forward line was far superior to the Swampscott forwards and clearly showed painstaking coaching in assignment play. That the score was not larger by at least three goals is the fault of the middle of the local line. Time and again in the opening quarter "Tootsie" McKenzia and Nancy Bradley got away up the field and passed in, on three occasions the ball was dead in front of the Swampscott sticks with the visiting "goalie" draw away out. The local forwards and inside were where they belonged but apparently too slow to sense the situation and poke the ball home.

Toward the end of the first quarter "Tootsie" McKenzia picked the ball out of scrimmage on her own side of the middle field and rushed well within the striking circle and the means by which the ball went into a sharp scrimmage from which Mary Carr, Winchester's left inside, scored.

Again in the second quarter "Tootsie" carried the ball up the field and passed in, this time Virginia Merrill, who had replaced Mary Carr, was on the job and shot the ball past the Swampscott goal-keeper.

Just before half time Swampscott got the ball into scoring position on a fine individual effort by Hammy. The visiting wing of the local, Winchester first line of defense but was slowed up enough by the local fullbacks to prevent her getting a clear shot. "Goalie" Anna Dolan made a nice stop of her attempt to tally and followed with a pretty clear, saving a bad situation.

Following intermission the teams battled pretty much on even terms until the final quarter when the visitors' aggressiveness kept the ball in Winchester's territory almost the entire time. The locals' defense was too tight for Swampscott's individual style of play to penetrate and the two point lead proved plenty big enough to win.

Winchester missed a great chance to tally in the final quarter when a foul by the Swampscott goal-keeper gave the locals a bully right on the Swampscott goal line. The visiting "goalie" however, proved equal to the emergency and succeeded in swatting the ball away from "Sunny" Davis. For Winchester the work of the veteran wing, "Doc" McKenzia, stood away out. Nancy Bradley and Theresa Colucci also did well at the other extremity as did Louise Packer and Anna Dolan on defense.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE ON LARREY CHARGE

George F. Morrison of 558 Washington Street, Brighton, was sentenced by Judge Jesse W. Morton in the District Court at Woburn last Friday morning to a six months' sentence in the House of Correction suspended until May 1. The young man was found guilty on a larceny charge preferred by Sgt. Thomas F. Cassidy of the police.

Sergeant Cassidy arrested Morrison on the preceding afternoon after it had been alleged the latter had stolen a valuable sweater from an automobile at the Winchester Country Club. The sweater was the property of Charles W. Cornell of Arlington.

The Council of Girl Scouts met at the home of Mrs. Walter S. Wadsworth Friday of last week. Plans were made for a Scout Sunday at the Episcopal Church; also a Scout supper. The Scouts in Winchester are increasing rapidly and a new troop has been formed in the Highland district with Mrs. Boswick as captain and Jean Merrill as lieutenant.

Last Friday a Red coupe driven by Carrie W. Keyes of 66 Nashua street, Woburn, and a Nash coupe, operated by Herbert J. Poirie, of 534 Main street, were in collision on Main street in front of the Falls Market. The accident occurred as the Red was pulling out from the curb to go north. Both machines were damaged.

Today's Quickest Car

The quickened tempo of this new age of speed and dash produced the LaSalle. It is the car of cars for people who desire to move quickly because they think and live quickly—who are alive in every nerve and muscle. It is primarily their car, because it is the quickest car built today. It accelerates more quickly than any other car. It responds to the steering wheel so swiftly that it seems almost to obey your mind rather than your hand. It is a charming, quick and zealous servant—always ready to do more than you really require, and doing it more smoothly and willingly because of its 90-degree, V-type, eight cylinder engine.

You may possess a LaSalle on the liberal term—payment plan of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation—the appraisal value of your used car acceptable as cash.

THREE ALARMS OVER THE WEEK-END

In addition to Saturday afternoon's big fire in the old Chatham School building, the Fire Department answered three alarms of fire over the weekend in different sections of the town.

Friday evening shortly after 8 o'clock Box 411 alerted the men to put out a fire in an oil heater at the Metropolitan Garage on Main street.

Saturday evening at 6:54 the Central Station was notified by telephone of a chimney fire at the residence of Mr. F. L. Hart on Woodside road. The damage was slight.

At 7:40 Sunday evening Box 27 was sounded for a fire in a Chandler sedan at the Winchester-Medford line. The body of the machine was almost completely destroyed by the flames which spread so rapidly that the driver, H. W. Fleming, of 299 Broadway, Somerville, was barely able to make good his escape. Mr. Fleming was unable to explain how the fire started.

Gave Name to Volcanoes

In the mythology of ancient Rome, Vulcan was the god of fire and the forge. He made the armor worn by several of the mythical heroes and gods. Vulcan's seat was fabled to be in Mount Etna, which, therefore, received the name volcano, a name afterward extended to all similar mountains.

FAREWELL PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Frank T. Hobbey, who left Winchester last Saturday morning by motor for Mobile, Alabama, where they are to make their future home, were tendered a farewell party on the preceding Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Harold, 211 Washington street. The house was attractively decorated in autumn colors and there were plenty of selections by Mr. Gerald O'Neil, Miss Katherine O'Neil and Mrs. Hobbey. A dainty collation was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Hobbey were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, among them an electric coffee percolator from their aunts and uncles. Among the guests were relatives and friends from Belmont, Woburn, Montvale, Medford, West Medford, Stoneham and Winchester. Mr. Hobbey has been promoted to the position of Superintendent Engineer of the Gulf Ports of the Lakeshore Steamship Company with headquarters at Mobile, Ala., and is to assume his new duties immediately upon arrival in that city. His former employers, New Orleans, Houston, Beaumont and Galveston.

EXPEDITION TO STUDY ALASKAN VOLCANOES

Dr. Gilbert Greaves, president of the National Geographic Society, today announced plans for sending an expedition to the Pavlov Volcano, a group of islands off the Alaskan Peninsula. The expedition will start next April and its leader will be Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, director of the U. S. Geological Survey station at the Mount Katmai Volcanic Laboratory, in Hawaii, who is one of the foremost volcanologists in the world.

The scope of the projected study is west of Mount Katmai, Alaska, the State's largest active volcano, and the adjoining area known as "Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes" discovered by an expedition of the National Geographic Society and subsequently explored by the Society's expeditions under leadership of Dr. Robert F. Griggs.

The scope of the expedition next year includes the study of volcanology, physiography, wild life and botany. Complete plans for the work, and for the personnel, which will include geologists in these fields to be sent by the Society, are being worked out.

Region Assailed by Earthquakes. Dr. Jaggar made a reconnaissance of the Alaskan Peninsula and the Aleutian Islands this summer. Some of his preliminary findings, included in his outline to the Society of the field for future study and exploration, are of special interest in view of the alarming earthquake now reported from southeastern Alaska.

Dr. Jaggar said, "The Alaskan Peninsula contains large clusters of active vents that may be roughly named to east, as follows: Shishaldin, Pavlof, Aniakchak, Katmai, Douglas and the Illiamna groups. The U. S. Geological Survey and the National Geographic Society have mapped parts of the four eastern groups.

"Our 1927 camping trip in Pavlov Bay and the vicinity showed that Pavlof Volcano, with its two snow cones and its superlatively wonderful Aghien Pinnacle mountains, its hard cinder lowlands to the north, its facilities at the King Cove Cannery, and its few civil frequent activity, hot springs and glaciers, is the place for the first of these local researches.

Uncle Sam's 150 Unexplored Bays. The latest need at present, for all sciences, is for charts and topographic maps, where-with to navigate and explore the 150 bays, more or less, not all unknown, on the Pacific side west of Unimak.

"The seismograph stations at Kodiak and Dutch Harbor are of a long standing. They make base stations for studying earth motion, volcanic temperatures and eruption cycles, temperatures at Katmai, Alutian and Bogof-shoff, and also for extension of work to studies of gravity, magnetism, sea-level, meteorology, chemical emanations, and currents and changes of land level and of horizontal position of the islands."

Finds a New Volcano. How little much of the region is known is indicated by the discovery, by Dr. Jaggar, during his reconnaissance trip, of a volcano probably as tive, which is a huge cone nearly 5000 feet high. He named it Mount Dutton. Previously it had been marked on charts merely as an unnamed elevation.

The expedition next spring probably will start from Beilington about the end of April and proceed by steamer to King Cove, whence the route will be by beach to Pavlov Bay. The field work will continue throughout the summer and probably for several succeeding years.

The route of the explorations will be along the Pacific beach to the newly found Dutch Harbor, then to the head of Pavlov Bay, inland at Jackson's Lagoon, across the hot lands, if possible, on "Left Hand Valley," into the Pinnacles amphitheater, and westward to the Bering Sea beach for explorations of valleys, volcanoes and glaciers. All this is unknown country.

One of the most assortments of diaries and line-day books we have ever carried. Now ready for your selection at the Star Office.

Elks' Ball Thursday Evening, Nov. 17

Bigger, better than ever before, the annual Charity Ball of Winchester, Nov. 17, 18, 19, E. will be held this year on the evening of Thursday, Nov. 17, in the Town Hall from 8 until 1 o'clock.

Arrangements are being made to care for a capacity gathering since the committee in charge of the ball is confident that the excellent music and unusually fine entertainment program will attract all who enjoy a good time.

Art Robin's Syncopeating Serenades will furnish the music for dancing, thus ensuring the very latest and most intriguing tunes for those who like to "trip the light fantastic."

William J. "Buddy" Shepard has been engaged to put on the entertainment which will proceed the dancing. "Buddy" was in charge of that which delivered by East Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson of Boston.

As a social event the Elks' Ball is entirely adequate to stand upon its own feet and is well worth the price of admission. There is, however, a better reason for each and everyone in Winchester interesting himself in this worthy project.

The proceeds from the Charity Ball are used by the Elks to replenish the charity fund of the Lodge, maintained to relieve distress and render assistance in deserving cases to any and all in our community. The Elks' Ball is a most impressive feature of all gatherings of the antediluvian brotherhood, and will this year be delivered by East Grand Exalted Ruler James R. Nicholson of Boston.

Situated on the West Side of Winchester off of Cambridge Street nearly opposite Cabinet Road. A tract of 20 lots of land varying in size from 7000 to 12,000 square feet in area. Every lot affords a beautiful panoramic view of the most attractive part of the town. In addition to the four houses already erected thereon, the Fairmount Associates have purchased five uncompleted houses adjoining their property at a mortgage sale. This in order not only to conserve the high type of construction originally planned for this tract, but more particularly to control the disposition of these houses, in order to maintain the high class neighborhood to which we set out to create. These aforesaid five houses are nearing completion and will be offered to satisfactory parties at reasonable prices and possibly one or two of these houses may be obtained for rent.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT

Mr. Philip Mansfield of 126 Mt. Vernon street, Winchester, announces the engagement of his daughter, Miss Pauline Mansfield to Howard Powell Travis, son of Chief Justice and Mrs. Julius C. Travis of Indianapolis, Ind.

Miss Mansfield attended Miss Gibbs School in Boston.

Mr. Travis graduated from Exeter Academy and also from Harvard in 1927, and is now attending Harvard Law School. He is a member of the Alpha Sigma Fraternity at Harvard of which he was president last year. Mr. Travis is one of the assistant crew coaches at Harvard. No date has been set for the wedding.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement is announced of Miss Rosamond Hoyt Lefavour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Lefavour of Herrick street, to Robert Wainwright Rogers of Highland Park, Ill.

The announcement was made at a small tea which was given by Mrs. Lefavour on Saturday afternoon last.

Miss Lefavour was graduated from Smith College with the class of 1926.

Mr. Rogers, who is the son of Dr. Daniel W. Rogers of Highland Park, was graduated in the same year from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is a naval architect and is associated with a firm of yacht designers in New York City.

No definite plans have as yet been made for the wedding.

FIVE YEAR OLD BOY STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Five-year-old John Regan, son of patrolman John Regan of the Police Department and Mrs. Regan, sustained injuries to his head and a general shaking up last Saturday afternoon when he was struck while on Oak street near his home by an automobile driven by Oscar L. Ekland of 65 Holland street. The accident occurred while the child was in the act of crossing the road.

He was able to get into the house unassisted and was treated by Dr. Richard W. Sheehy for a bad bruise on the head and other cuts and abrasions. Monday the child complained of severe pains in his head and body and was removed to the Winchester Hospital where X-ray pictures were taken. These disclosed no broken bones or internal injuries and Johnny is expected to be about again by the end of the week.

BARBARO-D'AGOSTINO

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D'Agostino of 23 Tremont street, Malden, announce the marriage of their daughter Rose, to Mr. Guy V. Barbaro, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Barbaro of 13 Oak street, Winchester. ### 26 WAYS TO GET BETTER RADIO RECEPTION

If your radio is not giving you strong, clear-toned reception, this new radio manual will tell you how to get that. For example:

It explains the 26 common radio troubles and how to eliminate them—5 ways to stop noisy reception; 1 way to get more volume; how to eliminate interference; 2 causes of "fading" and how to overcome them; 7 reasons for howls, squeals, and humming; and what to do about each one.

It is possible and often very easy to change poor reception into wonderfully clear, bell-like tones; deep, rich and resonant; and to make past performance of your set "amateurish" in the extreme. This radio manual—51 pages of non-technical radio secrets—will tell how.

The author was World War Chief Electrician (Radio) in the U. S. Navy—later Radio Electrician at Boston Navy Yard and Announcer at Station MGL. He knows radio. And he knows how to tell you how to make your set really perform.

His 51-page radio manual, pocket size, can be had complimentary, but please enclose 10c to cover postage, printing and mailing. Ask for "How to Get the Most from Radio," by Laurence D. Trofry, Radio Technician, 21 Eastman Road, Somerville, Mass.

GIGLIOTTI-JANERICO

Miss Josephine Janerico, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Janerico of 11 Wade avenue, Woburn and Laurence Gigliotti of this town, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gigliotti of 17 Florence street, were united in marriage last Saturday afternoon in the Rectory of St. Charles Church, Woburn, by the Rev. Fr. Walter Sweeney.

The bride wore a wedding gown of white satin with bouffant skirt, trimmed with shadow lace and rhinestones. Her veil of tulle was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Accompanying her as maid of honor was Miss Helen Spinale, a Woburn who wore a frock of pink georgette with cream lace inserts and silver bandeau. Her bouquet was of pink tea roses. Richard Riga of Winchester was best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for more than 200 guests at Time Hall, Woburn. A wedding supper was served and there was general dancing, music being furnished by an orchestra.

Upon their return from a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Gigliotti are to make their home in Woburn at 21 Montvale avenue.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The second meeting of the fall season was held in the Town Hall on Monday, Nov. 14 with Dr. Mary T. Maynard presiding. Before the regular program, Mrs. Lillian Ambler and Mrs. Elizabeth Hall read well prepared reports of the two sessions of the autumn meeting of the State Federation held at Onset. Since the meeting came during Book Week the town librarian Miss Cora Quinn, by explained the purpose of the week and called attention to the display of books on the platform which was only a part of the display which could be found in the Public Library.

The musical part of the program was furnished by Miss Eva Stark, child violinist. Although only 12 years old, Miss Stark has a finished technique which many an older violinist might envy. Her winsome personality, too, charmed her audience. She played two groups of compositions. In the first were: "Romanza Andante" by Sarasati; "Meditation" by Gluck-Kieser; "American Dance" by Brahms-Kieser. The second consisted of: "Valse in A Major" by Brahms; "Introduction and Tarantella" by Sarasati.

In keeping with Book Week the Club had the pleasure of hearing Professor Robert E. Rogers of the English Department of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology give a lecture on the subject, "Current Books." Most of the audience greeted Professor Rogers as an old acquaintance from hearing his radio talks and some knew him more intimately in connection with his University Extension Courses.

Professor Rogers knew his subject from every angle and gave his listeners no hazy general impression of current literature but came impressively to the point as regarded the book in question with witty remarks of praise or condemnation. He said he would make no mention of the flock of popular novels doled out each season as confectionery, but would confine his remarks to books which showed skilled craftsmanship and had distinctive style and intellectual content. He felt that the fall output of books by the authors from whom we usually expect something worthwhile books was with a few exceptions rather below the standard of former years. He discussed new books by Edith Wharton, Lewis Morris, Louis Bromfield, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Anne Douglas Sedgwick, Warwick Deane, Willa Cather and T. S. Arthur.

Mr. Rogers explained at some length the difference in subject matter of the recent English novels by the young group of writers, group of the American novels by writers of the same age. He pointed out that the English authors depicted the new generation as nervous and war-shaken—a disconcerting picture. In America on the other hand, there is a growing tendency to turn to the past for subject matter and write a new type of historical novel which attempts to give the intellectual, social and historical background of the novel and explain something about it. Novels which he mentioned as illustrating this new tendency were "Death Comes to the Archbishop" by Willa Cather and "The Grandmothers" by Gladys Wescott both of which he characterized as being particularly strong and well written books.

Professor Rogers succeeded in giving his listeners a brief, comprehensive survey of the field of recent fiction which might serve as a guide for winter reading or for Christmas giving if anyone should be so venturesome as to attempt to select books for her friends.

The two young men who picked the intermission between the halves of last Saturday's football game on Vanebo street, to demonstrate their punching powers continued hostilities after their arrival in the center. They were taken into custody by Officer James Donaghey and paid $500 for their fun in the District Court at Woburn Monday morning.

For the benefit of one of the belligerents it might be said that he did everything possible to avoid trouble until it actually landed in upon him.

NEW STORE OPENS

The new store of the Winchester Drug Company, John E. Moran, Retail Manager, opened yesterday morning at the railroad crossing in the center. The store presents a most pleasing exterior and interior, is well stocked with goods of every description, and promises to cater to every wish of its Winchester patrons. The Puffer Company has installed one of its newest soda fountains containing all of the latest conveniences, and the firm has the exclusive agency for the cream and several of the popular candies. The manager, Mr. Moran, who has a similar store in Winthrop which he has successfully conducted for many years, is receiving many congratulations on his fine addition to Winchester's business houses.

CHIMNEY FLOOD-LIGHTED

Seen for miles up and down the Abington Valley, the big stack at the Beegs & Cobb factory made an imposing sight on Tuesday night when it was first illuminated by floodlights. This stack, by far the tallest anywhere in this vicinity, now rises in a solid shaft of golden light through the night, seen from all points and attracting the attention of thousands. At present there is but one light on it. Two more are to be added, and the placing of the illuminating points is being tried out. A much better illumination even than at present is anticipated. Winchester certainly has a beautiful and distinctive landmark during the night.

JOURNEYS WITH THE BOEING AIR MAIL

The following article is from the pen of George J. Mead, vice-president of the Pratt & Whitney Co. of Hartford, Conn., and son of Dr. and Mrs. G. N. P. Mead of this town. It is reprinted from the aircraft publication "The Bee-Live," and will doubtless prove of much interest to Mr. Mead's Winchester friends.

Plane coming! This came the cry as I sat in the Superintendent's office at Omaha at 1 o'clock one night in July. Walking through the brilliantly lighted hangar by the silent ships I saw several hundred people collected around the westbound plane on the ramp in front. Above the steady thrum of its idling engine was heard the cheerful hum of the Boeing plane just finishing its 500 mile run from Chicago. Overhead the big 500-hp. cantilever revolving beacon light was throwing its beam for miles around as if reaching out for the invisible sound that was rapidly approaching.

For an instant we distinctly saw the plane as it was picked up by the finger of light from the beam. Finally a pair of wide-set eyes were seen, one red and one green, and a white light from the plane blinked out its signal and the field was flooded with light from a 500,000,000 candlepower lantern.

Then the welcome sound of the plane rolling along the ground came to us as the flood light was turned off. On came the plane right up to the hangar door where its brakes stopped it as exactly as a motor car. Quickly then the night crew, headed by Doc, transferred the mail to the outgoing ship. Three trips of the hand truck were necessary to carry the 200 pounds of mail.

While it was being securely stowed away Frank Caldwell, the Superintendent of the Eastern Division, was introducing me to Jack Knight, the pilot of the westbound plane. After he climbed in and ran up his engine, I entered the passenger compartment and we started. Taking off in the middle of the night with the aid of the flood light seemed simple, but at the moment we were in the air we plunged into darkness and heat.

On the ground it seemed comparatively cool after a day when the mercury stayed around 100 degrees. Once in the air, instead of enjoying a cool breeze through the night air, it was necessary to close the windows to prevent the scorching blast from penetrating the cabin. At first everything seemed ink black, but gradually it was possible to make out objects on the ground. To take advantage of the wind, we flew at a very low altitude. Relatively few lights were visible on the ground except as we passed over an occasional town. A few houses could be seen along the way as well as emergency landing fields neatly outlined by border lights. We soon came to the North Platte River which was followed more or less all the way to North Platte, Neb. This point was reached in about two hours and 10 minutes.

I had been so interested in watching the country beneath us that it first seemed as though there must be something wrong when Jack Knight throttled down and started to turn the ship. Almost immediately, however, the boundary lights of the field were visible, then the big flood light came on, illuminating the field and buildings, as well as the river. This was one of the prettiest sights I have ever seen, coming out, as we did, from ink blackness onto a brightly illuminated field, bordered on one side by an emerald green river.

As soon as the plane came to rest the night crew serviced it with gasoline and oil, and took off the mail for North Platte. This included a bag containing the President's mail, which was to go at daylight by Army plane to Rapid City, some 220 miles away, the field at North Platte has an altitude of 3200 feet. As a result, the air temperature was considerably cooler than Omaha.

After a 15-minute stop during which we chatted with Mr. Kinsey, in charge, we were on our way again, headed for Cheyenne, Wyo. The country came in during this part of the journey, so that some more detailed idea of the country could be secured. It seemed as though we were flying over a huge checkerboard. Each little square represented a 100-acre homestead, which was one-quarter of a government section of 640 acres. The fences of these farms run absolutely East and West, and North and South, which is of great assistance to the pilots. Each farm seemed to be more or less evenly divided between wheat and corn.

As the moon went out of sight it was just possible to see light in the east. To look directly behind the plane, which was then traveling due west, it was necessary to put my head out of the cabin window. The smoothness about the day rapidly enlightened me on this subject, however.

As we approached Cheyenne we saw the Rocky Mountains could be seen to the south, in the direction of Denver, Colo. At the same time the foothills laid out farms gave way to prairies, on which were seen herds of cattle, and occasional ranches. I can truthfully say that I never had such a smooth ride in the air as Jack Knight gave me from Omaha to Cheyenne. Hour after hour the plane flew without a bump and when it became light enough to see, without the wings ever changing their relation with the horizon. As I drew a little, it seemed to me that I must be dreaming, and that I was in a train and not in the air, after all.

Cheyenne, with an altitude of 6300 feet, was reached about 5 o'clock. This city is 500 miles west of Omaha. Due to its altitude the early morning air was quite frosty. The mail was transferred here to another plane which was waiting with the engine idling, while Jack shared with me the sandwiches and coffee which he had brought from home. Pilot Barker was scheduled for the trip to Salt Lake City, and when all was ready I climbed in and we took off at 6 o'clock. The country changed rapidly from prairies to hills and then mountains, as we left Cheyenne. Perhaps half an hour out we passed over Sherman Hill, which has the highest airway beacon in the world at 8600 feet. During three of the winter months its keeper's out of communication with the world.

After leaving the "Sherman" which is the local name for Sherman Hill, we found we were entering a mountainous area. Towns were seldom seen, only an occasional ranch. This part of the journey is far from monotonous, as the country's changing rapidly in every direction. Occasionally the Union Pacific Railroad was in sight, and as the day wore on, automobiles could be seen on the Lincoln Highway. Both means of transportation certainly seemed slow to us in the air, traveling, as we were, more than twice as fast as they.

We finally climbed another ridge, and swooped down on Rock Springs, Wyoming, which has a field at 6100 feet. From the name I expected to see a very delightful place. As a matter of fact, the field consists of a portion of the prairie covered with sage brush and sand, with one lone ungaur. The town of Rock Springs was nowhere to be seen. As I learned later, it was somewhat to the south of us, and perhaps eight or 10 miles away. The ships are re-fueled at this point as a safety measure, since it sometimes takes three hours to cover this part of the journey.

Across the field to the westward of the ferry, off the summit of which is perhaps 2000 feet above the field. It was on these cliffs in the winter that a mail plane landed with a few feet of the top in a snow storm. In the spring, horses were able to draw the plane to the plateau at the top of the cliff, from which the altitudes the planes land very fast, but due to the good brakes with which they are equipped, are able to stop in a remarkably short distance.

As we taxied down the field to take off, I wondered how quickly the "Wasp" could lift the 500 or 600 pounds of mail, together with the ship and its occupants. Barker turned the plane around and headed directly for the hangar, and an we went, without any apparent effort. (These superb landing fields demonstrate the remarkable qualities of the Boeing Obo landing gear with which the mail planes are equipped.)

On a prairie like this each clump of sagebrush collects a mound of sand around it making a field of numerous small mounds. The result is a really remarkable gear to stand the landing and taking off of such a big ship. To date I have never heard of a trouble being experienced with these gears, and from personal experience know they absorb tremendous bumps and prevent the plane from bouncing.

From Rock Springs to Salt Lake City the country is almost continuously mountainous, particularly if a compass course is followed. From subsequent flight, I noticed that there are stretches of more or less flat country in the shape of valleys and canyons between the hills, if a more or less roundabout course is followed. The coloring on this part of the trip is most remarkable, especially under the bright sun of the morning. The greens of the river bottoms shade off into browns and reds of the rocks, changing into gray at the top of the mountains the whole being set off by the blue of the sky.

After we had been out about an hour, and had been more or less steadily rising, we came to the summit of the Wasatch Range. This range reaches an elevation of 10 or 11,000 feet. It certainly is a sight to be remembered when the plane starts downward after crossing the ridge, and you see below you a tremendous plain with mountains in the background, at the foot of which is Salt Lake, and directly below, the city of Salt Lake, with its green trees and lawns, strongly contrasted against the brown of the desert. I suppose we had a five or 6000 foot drop to the landing field, which is just the other side of the city. Up to that time I had not realized how high we were.

Upon our arrival at the field I was met by Wilbur Thomas, and was very glad to see him, after nine hours in the air, without any sleep for two nights, and no breakfast. Mr. Hubbard, the vice-president of the operation of the Boeing Air Transport, flew over from San Francisco and met me at dinner that night. A more 625 mile journey in the air over the Sierra Nevada mountains for a dinner engagement is nothing to the officials of the Air Mail.

During the two days that I was at Salt Lake City I had an opportunity to observe the operation of the Boeing Air Transport. Company from headquarters, as the actual operation of the line is handled from this point. Mr. Hubbard, the vice-president in charge of operations, and Mr. Colver, the general superintendent, are both located here. Mr. Hubbard is himself a veteran pilot. After the war, during which he served as a flying instructor in the Army, he carried the first international Air Mail from Seattle to Vancouver. He still operates this line, which perhaps encounters more fog than any other. The first plane he purchased for this run was a Boeing Super, which is still in service after six or seven years of use.

Mr. Colver was formerly General Superintendent at Washington of the Government-operated Air Mail. Having worked up to this position through the ranks, he has had unequalled experience in this new field. Besides his duties as General Superintendent, he handles the activities of the Western Division.

Frank Caldwell is Eastern Division Superintendent, and is located at Omaha. He was an Army pilot during the war, and started his experience with the Air Mail at its very beginning on the New York to Washington run. There are 25 pilots, many of whom have been with the Air Mail since its inception in 1925. As a result, they have undoubtedly had more experience, and travel more miles in the air, than any other group in the world.

It is no wonder that with such experienced personnel the operations of the Boeing Air Transport started off and continued without any interruption the service established by the Government and taken over by the Boeing Company in July 1, 1927. At that time 24 new Boeing mail planes equipped with Pratt & Whitney "Wasp" engines were put in service. One trip is made each way every day, so that between 3500 and 4000 miles of flying are done each 24 hours. At most stops the field is municipally owned and hangars are provided by the city for the Air Mail. The Department of Commerce is now operating beacon lights from Chicago to Salt Lake City, and radio communications over the entire run, which were previously operated by the Air Mail. To get a better idea of the magnitude of the Boeing operations at the present time it is understood that some half million dollars is invested in the equipment.

The office at Salt Lake City is located at the New House, perhaps three miles from the field. The hangar crew in charge of George Maxwell, who, together with "Healey" at Omaha, would provide a perfectly safe highway for anyone. The westbound plane arrives at Salt Lake City between 10 and 11 in the morning, while the eastbound plane from San Francisco reaches there between 4 and 5 in the afternoon. For this reason only a day crew is necessary at this point. At Omaha, for instance, where the eastbound and westbound ships pass in the night, both a day crew and a night crew are required.

The field at Salt Lake City has an altitude of 4300 feet, is quite large, and reasonably level. Along the eastern side are a number of hangars, some used by the Army and others by the two transportation companies, one the Western Air Express, which takes the mail to Los Angeles, and the other, Varney's Air Line to Los Angeles. The Boeing plane which I was taking to Seattle left the field at 11 o'clock. On account of the fog the mail is taken by train from Salt Lake to Seattle a distance of some 200 miles. As the fog was so bad, it was an important air terminus. Both passengers and mail "change cars" here, as it were, for the first destination.

After a two days' visit I went east again, this time with Boonstra. The mail was transferred from the San Francisco plane which I was taking with Messrs. Hubbard and Colver. To it was added the mail brought up from Los Angeles by the Western Air Express, and down from Pacific by the Varney line. It totaled 1000 pounds, and happened to be the first load of this size that Boonstra had taken on the Wasatch range with the Boeing plane. My greeting, as I started to land the ship, was, "Good gracious, are you going too?" With a heavy sigh he said, "Yes, in my car the plane took off readily, and headed straight for the mountains without circling the field or any other of the maneuvers that military pilots usually resort to. In this connection, it is interesting to note that, except at Reno, the mail planes practically never circle the field. As we passed over the city, climbing at a considerable angle, I could make out the Mormon Cathedral and the Tabor Hotel. There are the principal landmarks from the air.

I can truthfully say that I have never been in a closer spot to the streets. I understand, are 120 feet wide, and in each gutter runs a brook from the mountains directly behind the city. The fact that the city is so close to the mountains is a fact that I forgot for the moment that we were headed directly at an 11,000 foot mountain range.

Suddenly I noticed out of the window, on the opposite side from which I had been looking, the wall of the canyon. It seemed as though we were going to run right into it. As the canyon narrowed, Boonstra maneuvered until he took advantage of the up-currents which seemed to set the plane back a few feet. At last, at perhaps 100 feet high, this was a most interesting operation, in view of the nearness of the end of the trip. However, the "Wasp" kept right on with its work, and we cleared the ridge by a good margin.

These valleys and canyons east of Salt Lake City are beautiful, not only on account of their shape and the waterways that usually are to be found wandering along their floors, but also on account of the coloring in the cliffs. Boonstra certainly didn't waste any time sight-seeing. We seemed to be going for the top of the mountain, heading for Rock Springs. Much to my surprise, we passed over the hangar at that place without so much as a salute, and were on our way to Cheyenne. On account of the west winds, it seems that the pilots do not ordinarily stop here going east, but only when they are coming west.

In answer to Boonstra's signal, the flood light was turned on, and we landed and taxied up to the Operations Office, where we were met by Mr. Shaver, who is in charge at this point. He furnished some sandwiches and what was more to the point, some hot coffee. Our trip over the mountains had been cold, so this was greatly appreciated. While I was thus occupied, the mail was transferred to the eastbound ship.

After a 15-minute stop I started east again, this time with Pilot Allison. The journey was uneventful, and very much like my trip west over the same portion of the route, except that there were a great many thunder showers and considerable fog along the North Platte River. To avoid these, we kept the boat Allison climbed and climbed, so that at one time we were probably 8 or 10,000 feet in the air. Overhead the moon shone, and it was hard to realize that it was anything but a perfect night. Below we could get an occasional glimpse of the horizon lights when the mist was blown away, otherwise nothing could be seen of the ground.

As we approached North Platte we came down, followed the river, which was visible by the mist arising from it. While I was nearly doing so, the plane suddenly turned up on its own, and performed some sort of a maneuver which promptly woke me up. Looking out from the windows of the cabin I could not see any reason for this, but it was a relief, however, that it was simply a salute to "Slim" Lewis who was going west.

We continued on into North Platte, landed, serviced the ship, and went on again to Omaha, which we reached a little after 1 o'clock at night. Here the mail was transferred to another ship which took us into Cheyenne, reaching there between 4 and 5 in the morning. From that point it goes east, leaving at 8 o'clock, and arriving in New York that afternoon, having crossed the continent in about 28 hours. A few days stay at Omaha enabled me to study the ships in detail and to get a better idea of the way they are cared for. For those not familiar with the new Boeing mail plane, it is a plane with 44 feet span, equipped with a "Wasp" engine, rated at 500 lbs. behind the engine compartment in the fuselage is a large gasoline tank, mounted in the middle of the fuselage in mail, then a comfortable enclosed passenger cabin for two, another 500 lbs. mail space and, last of all, the pilot, the efficient way they are cared for. For those not familiar with the new Boeing mail plane, it is a plane with 44 feet span, equipped with a "Wasp" engine, rated at 500 lbs. behind the engine compartment in the fuselage is a large gasoline tank, mounted in the middle of the fuselage in mail, then a comfortable enclosed passenger cabin for two, another 500 lbs. mail space and, last of all, the pilot, the efficient way they are cared for.

The weight saving due to the air-cooled engine and the efficient plane design are both responsible for the 20 per cent increase in the payload handled. The take-off is remarkably quick, and the planes when fully loaded climb rapidly to 10 or 12,000 feet in negotiating the various mountain ranges. Regulation port and starboard lights are carried, as well as a white tail light. Under such wing is a 250,000 candlepower landing light. Two parachute flares are provided to facilitate forced landings in case of trouble. These will light up nearly a square mile of ground for a few minutes.

A few days after my first trip, which I had told of in more or less detail, I found it desirable to visit San Francisco, and also to visit Seattle. Leaving Omaha again at 1 o'clock, we went to Reno, where I met Ellis. We had an uneventful voyage, except that it was very hot from Omaha to North Platte. Changing planes at Cheyenne, we continued with Pilot Collier. Having flown over this country a good many years, he had a particularly good knowledge of the country. Flying over the top of everything he seemed to go through various canyons, which gave me a further insight into the country. It was a surprise he picked valleys in which the winds were in our general direction, so that we made a very quick trip to Cheyenne, where I met Thomas who was spending a day or two there. It was then about 9 o'clock, so I was glad to get some breakfast, which was however, a quick of sandwiches and coffee.

After a quick journey over the westbound range, we landed at the field at Reno, and landed a little after 10 o'clock. So much ahead of schedule were we that Mr. Colver was able to get to the hangar. Wondering if he were all right, I called him in the telephone, to find that he had not expected us for another 15 minutes. He was waiting for me, and I could see an automobile coming in a cloud of dust across the prairie, and from it emerged Mr. Colver with a very friendly smile. He was on a hot at Salt Lake, particularly so when contrasted with the coolness of the atmosphere above the Wasatch range.

Mr. Colver then took me to the hangar to greet me and transfer my meager belongings to the west-bound ship, which Pilot Hinking was warming up. He then took me to the various facilities, a campy-top, and other facilities. After riding with him I don't blame him for his additional comforts, as the trip was a very comfortable one. We left about 11 o'clock, and flew toward the famous copper mines across the valley, then turning to the right, we made a considerable portion of the Salt Lake.

Below us I could see the salt evaporating ponds, which are made up of the water from the mountains by the sun. Owing to the peculiar characteristics of the briny water, the salt is deposited in a peculiar manner, which gives it a very appearance. This lake is more like an inland ocean, since it is 70 miles long. It has an area of 100 square miles, and is one of the largest of its kind in the world. It is a very interesting sight, and is a very important part of the local economy. We flew over and around by numerous mountains and sandy plains, or prairies, finally reaching Elko. From Elko I could see of this country, it was rather small, and surrounded by prairie, with mountains in the background. The altitude is 5500 feet. After a brief stop here to re-fuel the ship, Hinking took off and circled the field once, then headed straight up to avoid these clouds. As we climbed, straight up a valley, first to the right and then to the left, from which we could see on the mountains behind us, the Tabor Hotel, and beneath us for 70 miles was no landing field—nothing but tall trees, jagged rocks, and ice and snow.

The air became colder and colder, as we ascended, and finally, as the plane cleared the range by one of the mountain peaks, we were in a very cold air. In every direction were mountains, ahead of us, behind us, and on both sides. The view from this altitude is so tremendous that it is hard to take it in. It is an appreciation of the grandeur of it. The clear, blue sky setting off the snow-capped summits rising from the green of the forest is something that one will never forget.

With the plane headed down toward Sacramento, we certainly made a very interesting trip. We went the engine ticking away on the last stretch of this day's journey. In a relatively few minutes we had left the mountainous behavior and were passing over fertile fields. Somehow or other, I had expected to see the Pacific Ocean immediately, but found

Latest Thing In Electrical Refrigeration

KIMBALL & EARL GIVING WINCHESTER AN INTERESTING AND COMPLETE DEMONSTRATION

Kimball & Earl, Heat and Cold Engineers, are giving the people of Winchester their opportunity to examine the latest thing in electrical refrigeration. They have stocked their store at 528 Main street with a full line of the new-day General Electric Iceless Refrigerators and these may be seen in operation at any time.

Kimball & Earl have, in the past eight years, built up a splendid local reputation based on service and the distribution of quality goods.

FINE SHOWROOM OF THE KIMBALL & EARL COMPANY AT 528 MAIN STREET WITH COMPLETE LINE OF NEW-DAY GENERAL ELECTRIC ICELESS REFRIGERATORS

They were quick to recognize the new General Electric Iceless Unit as a radical departure in electrical refrigeration. The General Electric differs from any other iceless refrigerator on the market in that it is self contained, having all machinery, the lubricant and the refrigerating gas hermetically sealed into a compact unit. This principle was discovered nearly thirty years ago by a French monk, the Abbe Audouin. Some of the machines built by the French priest more than twenty-five years ago are still in service in France and are running today never having been refilled with oil or gas.

About 15 years ago the General Electric Company required the Audouin rights for this country and immediately set their great research organization at work developing and refining the original model.

The results of millions of dollars of expenditure and many years of intensive research may be seen today in the General Electric Iceless Unit. This is refrigeration by means of the world over as being the most advanced principle in electrical engineering. The self contained unit eliminates all drains, belts, exposed machinery, stuffing boxes and in fact anything and everything that may get out of order.

It is a compact, reliable, economical piece of refrigerating machinery which requires a minimum of service and which can be installed anywhere by plugging in a suitable electrical outlet.

The production has been made that two years from now all successful electrical refrigerator companies will be using the sealed-in device. The outlook is that electric refrigerators of all types which have a large number of moving parts, belts, gears and stuffing boxes, will be superseded and made obsolete by the new type.

Kimball & Earl, who have always been progressive in their ideas, were quick to recognize the possibilities of the General Electric principle. In accordance with their established policy of up-to-date service and high quality of merchandise they have established themselves as the local agents of the General Electric Refrigerator.

The Kimball & Earl store at 528 Main street is open evenings until 9 o'clock. Winchester people who are already familiar with the basic ideas of electric refrigeration will welcome the opportunity to become acquainted with this newest principle and model.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The University Theatre devotes from its usual practice the coming week by playing two feature pictures for Sunday only and begins Monday with six days of matinee pictures of the films, "What Price Glory."

The Sunday pictures include "Dixie It Rides In" the "Joy Girl" taken from the Saturday Evening Post serial of the same name and "Public Madness" starring Lois Moran and Edmund Lowe.

"What Price Glory" which will run for six days, is proclaimed by all those in authority as the greatest motion picture of the year. It is not a war picture. It is a story of a love comedy laid in a sylvan setting would be called a rural play. Its authors took war as the theme in the effort to sketch their story as the great influence on men and women that would bring out paths, comedy and human sympathy as no other in the annals of nations could bring. Above all else there is comedy. Probably no picture ever had so much comedy.

"What Price Glory" on the screen is peopled with real and human characters that will at once win favor. They are not just types. They are the genuine thing in the affairs of the camera, which makes no mistake. "What Price Glory" is not only a great and absorbing picture, with thrills and heart throbs and a world of comedy, but it is crowded with incidents that will bring a chuckle and a thrill long after the moment you see it.

We have on display an extensive line of attractive new Christmas cards, also seals, tags, twine and wrappings. Wilson the Stationer.

almost immediately. The west-bound plane was very late, so we all decided to try to get a taxi. This was not very easy in various directions, trying to get through the fog bank ahead of us. Finally we made a landing on the prairie, and waited for conditions to improve. We hadn't been on the ground more than 10 or 15 minutes when a cowboy came out of the fog inquiring if we were all right. It appeared that he had heard us circling around, and came over to see what it was all about. During the course of conversation he told me about the "Wasp" engine.

It turned out that he had gone a long way to the nearest airport to see one of the new ships with our engine and apparently knew about it. The people along the way, particularly along the Western Division, know the pilots by name, and pretty much all about the Air Mail in general. Apparently there is nothing they won't do to help the boys along their way, in some of the desolate sections the I saw one of the plane would be good company going overhead twice a day.

We got off at last and after various attempts Allison finally climbed above the clouds and we were on our way. For perhaps 150 miles we didn't see the ground, nothing but a blanket of white clouds and fog. I heard the sun shine brightly, although the people on the ground were certainly not aware of it. As we approached North Platte the clouds began to dissipate, so that we had occasional glimpses of the earth which seemed very green, contrasted with the white of the clouds. Finally, we ran out of the fog entirely and, exactly on our course, Allison flew along over the river trying to make the best time he could. I saw some idea of the exact landfalls these pilots make.

After a brief stop at North Platte we continued on our way to Omaha, which we reached about half past two in the afternoon, instead of 1 o'clock the previous night. It seemed like the best time we could make. I saw Frank Caldwell on the ground, with Hobbs of Stomberg, Eric Stohlgren, and Bill Wheatley, "Heavy" and the rest of the crew.

This fleet of 24 Boeing mail planes, all equipped with "Wasp" engines, have covered approximately 300,000 miles in the past two months. During the first two weeks of operation, only seven delays or stops due to engine difficulty were recorded. This difficulty came from over-heating, the cause of which was the induction troubles, all of which were soon remedied. Since July 15 there have been no mechanical failures of the engines.

As regards the future most approaching 200 hours. Attention is called to the illustrated chart of operations. In the words of our own Wilbur Thomas, who is assisting Boeing in the field, "the old 'Wasp' is doing her stuff."

Under the Postoffice Department the engine equipment of the new Transcontinental Air Mail was the Liberty engine which was obtainable from surplus Army and Navy war stock. The operations of Boeing Air Transport are of great interest, as they are employing not only new mail ships of their own design and manufacture, but modern air-cooled radial engines, as well. The combination of veteran personnel and this modern equipment is bound to establish a new record of air transportation. The 400 h. p. air-cooled "Wasp" with its weight-saving of almost 600 pounds over the 300 h. p. water-cooled Liberty, provides for this amount of additional mail. It is gratifying to know that the Air Mail poundage is steadily increasing. There is reason to believe that without a subsidy the Boeing Air Transport Company will prove the business soundness of American air transportation. [Courtesy of Aviation]

TUCKER-DUTCHER

First Wedding in New Congregational Chapel

The first wedding in the beautiful new First Congregational Church was solemnized last evening by Rev. Howard A. Dutcher, pastor of the church, when William Merrill Tucker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Tucker of Highland avenue, and Miss Doris Lovette Dutcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Dutcher of Arlington, were united in marriage. The ceremony was attended by 200 friends from this and surrounding places and the following reception in the ladies' parlor swelled the attendance to double that number.

The wedding took place at 8 o'clock. For the occasion, beautiful decorations of palms, chrysanthemums and hot-house flowers adorned the chapel and a program of organ music was rendered by Mrs. A. L. Palmer of Boston. The bride was attired in a beautiful dress of white georgette crepe and lace. She carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley, and her veil of rare old lace was caught with spray of orange blossoms. She was escorted by Miss Ruth Davis of Belmont, her cousin, who was maid of honor, and the bride-maids were Miss Betty Tucker, sister of the groom, Mrs. Wendell Osborn of Arlington, Miss Dorothy Chadwick of Boston and Mrs. Edward Davis of Waltham, her cousin. The best man was Mr. Edward L. Tucker brother of the groom.

The dresses of the wedding attendants were of the period style in pink and coral, the flowers matching the period and color.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the ladies' parlor, the same room where the wedding feast was served. The guests were Messrs. Winthrop A. Palmer and Edward S. Sandberg of this town, Craven H. Culler of Clinton and Richard Wait of Cambridge.

The couple plan to make their future home in Cambridge, and will be at home to their friends after he is at 65 Mt. Auburn street. Mr. Tucker is a graduate of Harvard, '25, and a member of Phi Eta, Harvard Dramatic Club, G. E. K. Fraternity and the Winchester Boat Club. His bride who is a graduate of the Belmont High School, is a violinist of note.

HIGH SCHOOL PRIZE ESSAY

The following was selected as the best paper submitted in a recent essay contest held at the High School by the Junior and Senior classes. Announcement of the award to John B. Robinson, '28 was made at the recent meeting of the High School Parent-Teacher Association.

The Aims and Objectives of a High School Education

In my estimation the aims and objectives of a High School education are twofold, first, to mold the individual with himself, and second, to develop him in his associations with others.

As regards the first point, the High School awakens the student's sense of responsibility. In the grade schools he has been told to learn a certain number of facts and the teacher has tried to see that he did. In the High School a perhaps gradual but nevertheless distinct change from this system is effected. The student comes to understand that he must assume certain responsibilities and that he owes it to himself, to his fellow pupils, to his teacher but because he owes it to himself. Moreover through the regular curricula work, the High School develops his reasoning, his thinking ability, and he learns to see a subject step after step from the textbook. He finds larger scope for his powers of judgment and discrimination; and any special talent or ability he may have is seriously encouraged.

The second objective that I mention is perhaps in the way a corollary of the first, because no one can appreciate the qualities and feelings of others who is unacquainted with the depths and workings of his own mind. In High School the value of co-operation is brought home to the student especially through athletics where the idea of teamwork is entirely predominant. Other extracurricular activities such as the various associations and class activities help to mold the individual in the spirit of working together with others which is so necessary for success in modern life.

Outwitting Bachelors

Formerly it was the custom in England for a suitor to assume the title of Mrs. at the age of fifty. The same custom was practiced to a limited extent in the colony of Virginia. For instance, in 1761 Martha Jaquebelle, spinster, took advantage of the custom and became Mrs. Martha Jaquebelle.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE ON DRUNKEN DRIVING CHARGE

Leon M. Smith of 69 Second street, Chelsea, appeared in the District Court at Woburn Tuesday morning to answer charges; preferred against him by officer James Farrell of the Police Department, of driving while under the influence of liquor and of operating an unregistered and uninsured car.

Smith was noticed by officer Farrell last Sunday evening driving an automobile north on Washington street near Skanton street. The trail which the machine left behind it aroused the patrolman's suspicions and commanding a car he set out in pursuit of Smith who turned into Cross street.

There he was halted by officer Farrell in front of the New Hope Baptist Church. The operator was able to show a license but upon being asked for his registration stated that he knew nothing about that all important matter. As the machine left, behind it a trail of suspicion.

Getting a driver for Smith's car
 the party proceeded to headquarters where it was found that the car was a Massachusetts vehicle. The outcome of the investigation was that State number plates made the machine both non-registered and uninsured and in addition to charges on these technicalities Smith was charged with operating while under the influence of liquor.

He was found guilty on all three charges by Judge Morton and on the drunken driving charge was given a suspended sentence of one month in the House of Correction. The other two counts were fined.

The Ford sedan which was reported stolen from Warren Osborne of Nelson street over the past week-end was quickly recovered by the police of Lowell, an alarm having been broadcast by the local department.

LEGION HAD VERY SUCCESSFUL ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAM

Hall Well Filled for Movie Show—Hezenberger a Guest

The Town Hall was well filled last Friday evening for the presentation of Major Edwin H. Coe's motion picture "The Armistice Day in Action," given under the auspices of Winchester Post, 37, American Legion, in connection with the usual public observance by the local Le-gionaries of Armistice Day.

From first until last the affair was well conducted and must be listed among the most successful yet undertaken by the Post. An audience of more than 100 was in attendance.

Commander W. Allen Wilde, Winchester Post was the presiding officer of the evening and seated with him upon the stage were Vice Commander, Richard Parkhurst; Chaplain, Vincent P. Clarke; Adjutant, William S.
 Phippen and Major Edwin H. Coe, principal orator, U. S. R. C.

The exercises which preceded the pictures opened with the posting of the National and Legion Colors at either side of the stage by two uniformed members of the Post, Stanley W. Mohr, representing the Army and Russell Carroll, representing the Navy. The flags were placed in position all were called upon to stand at salute.

Following the reading of Governor
 Alvan T. Fuller's Armistice Day Proclamation by Commander Wilde, Chaplain Vincent P. Clarke read the "Prayer of the Armistice Day."
 At this point Commander Wilde asked all to stand and called for a moment of silence in memory of the departed members of the Post. This was most impressive. The lights were dimmed and "taps" were effectively sounded with solemn tone by Scout Bugler Henry Brown.

Major Coe was introduced by Commander Wilde and was given a cordial reception. His picture, "The Yanks in Action," proved an act at the usual type of war film and was absorbing interest throughout. Included in the down foot of film were scenes attendant upon the departure of troops from Hoboken, N. Y., through their adventures at the front in many sectors up to the time of the armistice, and the occupation of Germany.

Nothing was faked. One saw boats sinking in mid-ocean, actually torpedoed or disabled by German mines; was an eye-witness of the havoc spread in the wake of bursting shells, looked on while the boys went into action and were shot down while engaging a real foe. There was little to glorify war, but the pictures being such as to leave one with a sense of its futility and a feeling of desolation. Everything was grimly matter-of-fact and showed the great struggle "Over There" stripped of the spectacular and dramatic with which we are prone to associate the experience of our troops.

At the conclusion of Major Coe's lecture Commander Wilde announced that a surprise was in store for the audience. He then introduced Lieut. A. F. Hezenberger of the U. S. Army Aviation Corps who won renown with Lindbergh in his first in the recent test flight by airship from California to Hawaii.

Lieutenant Hezenberger, like Major Coe, was enthusiastically greeted. He spoke briefly upon the importance to army aviation of his flight to Hawaii, but regretted the fact that the chief prevalent at the time that the hop might fail. He stated that the Ave-had been preparing for that particular flight for about 8 years and as a consequence it simply could not fail.

The committee in charge of the Armistice Day program included W.
 Allen Wilde, Robert H. Hamilton, Daniel Lynch and Richard Parkhurst. They were materially assisted by members of Winchester Council, Boy Scouts.

EPHANY MEN HEARD SPEAK- ER ON BOLSHEVISM

Mr. E. H. Hunter of Boston, executive secretary of the Industrial Defense Association, was the speaker Monday evening at the monthly meeting and dinner of the Epiphany Men's Club in the Parish House of the church. About 100 were present including the ladies of the church who were especially invited to hear Mr.
 Hunter.

Supper was served at 6:45 by a group of ladies under the direction of Mrs. Fred W. Aseltine and Mrs.
 A. B. Corthell. Between the courses of the supper community singing was enjoyed under the able direction of Dr. C. W. "Charlie" Kelley with Mrs.
 Corthell presiding at the piano.

President E. S. Larned presided at the brief business session which followed the supper and introduced the speaker. Mr. Hunter spoke forcefully and with an evident knowledge of his subject, which was Bolshevism as he finds it in Russia, Mexico and in the United States. He traced the Soviet revolution from their first assumption in Russia up to the present time, and stated that the reds were very active here, working wherever it is possible to carry on their activities without arousing suspicion.

The speaker painted rather a ressimilitude picture, saying that the bolshevists were identifying themselves with many of our beneficent societies and forming associations to destroy religion, teach atheism and class hatred. Mothers' associations for these very purposes are being formed in increasing numbers he said. A question period followed the address. The next meeting of the club is to be held on the second Monday in December.

Famous Island Group

The Aeolian Islands is a group of seven large and numerous small islands, north of Sicily, in the Mediterranean. The larger islands comprise Lipari, Salina, Vulcano, Filiculi, Stromboli, Panaria and Alicudi.
 Though of volcanic origin, the islands are all fertile and well wooded. The chief productions are currants, olives, figs, tropical fruits and salt. Wine also is produced.

MAIL DOG AT ARMED WIN- CHESTER

Two Children Bitten, Being Given Pasture Treatment

Winchester had a real mad dog scare last Friday when a large, apparently ownerless, dog ran amuck during the morning in the town biting two children and threatening several who tried to capture him before he was shot by the police.

Police headquarters was notified early in the morning that Thomas Gandy, 8 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gandy of Elmwood avenue, had been attacked by a large dog and severely bitten about the upper body.

Officer James Donaghy was sent to investigate but was unable to get a good description of the dog nor was he able to locate the animal.
 During the afternoon headquarters was again notified that a dog had attacked 3 year old Theresa Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J.
 Cahill of Grove place. The child had been knocked down and bitten on the shoulder in much the same way as the Gandy boy had been treated during the morning. She was taken to the office of Dr. Richard W. Sheely where after treatment she was removed to her home.

Meanwhile Sergeant William Rogers and Officer Donaghy had set out in the police machine to locate the animal and the time after a long chase which led the officers to West Middle they were directed to where Mr.
 Cahill and others had the dog at bay near the Parkway in the vicinity of Grove place. The dog showed a disposition to attack anyone who approached him and Sergeant Rogers decided to shoot him at once. The animal wore no collar.

He was identified as the dog which had bitten the Gandy boy. It was then turned over to Dr. William E.
 Buckley, veterinarian, who took the carcass to the Harvard Medical School where an examination disclosed the fact that the animal had been suffering from rabies. Every precaution was at once taken to safeguard the health of the little victims.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

It is anniversary week at the beautiful Granada Theatre in Malden and to celebrate this event the management is offering a week of specially selected pictures of Vandeville.
 The Granada has been open to the public for a year and during that time has become the most popular theatre in this vicinity. Its policy of five acts of selected Vandeville, together with the pick of all the pictures released, struck a responsive chord in the hearts of discriminating theatre-goers and as a result the Granada is playing to full houses every night in the week. The Granada changes its program both Van-deville and pictures, twice weekly on Monday and Thursday.

The hall now playing is headed by Fred Thompson, with his famous horse, Silver King, in "Arizona Nights." Original settings are faithfully reproduced in this picture. Silver King, the horse with a personality, does a number of remarkable feats which add considerably to the uniqueness and novelty of the film.

The five act Vandeville bill for the last half of anniversary week is aumented by a special presentation by the Granada Symphony Orchestra of 11 musicians, under the direction of Chester Mason. The five act Van-deville bill was looked especially for anniversary week and is high above the average.

Next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the Granada will present Adolph Menjou in his new picture,
 "A Gentleman from Paris." This is another of the smart and silky characterizations which have brought fame to this star.

ALL BOSTON HIGH SCHOOL HOCKEY SQUAD CHOSEN

At the final try-outs held last Saturday afternoon at Boston the following girls were selected for places upon the All-Boston public school field hockey team. Brookline High placed three on the eleven while two each were chosen from Arlington, Newton, Melrose and Wellesley High.
 Winchester's representatives in the finals, Dorothea McKenzie and Virginia Merrill, evidently did not catch the judges' eyes and were not picked for top honors, though both are sterling players. It is just possible that the two local girls were not at the peak of their game Saturday after the trials on Wednesday and the admittedly tough game against Melrose Friday.

The lineup of the "all" team follows: Emily Dunaway, Newton High, left wing; Gladys Jerand, Newton High, left inside; Betty Riches, Brookline High, center forward;
 Deulah Kelley, Melrose High captain, right inside; Dorothy Daniels, Wellesley High, right wing; Dorothy Hilliard, Arlington High, left half captain; Carol Denmore, Brookline High captain, center halfback; Margaret Burbank, Wellesley High, captain, right halfback; Margaret Colbert, Melrose High, left fullback; Dorothy Sanborn, Brookline High, right fullback; Katherine Lane, Arlington High, goal.

BOSTWICK AND BOUTWELL WINNERS IN CLASS 'A' GOLF

Four-ball golf matches in Class A and B were played at the Winchester Country Club last Saturday afternoon. Only a small field participated, despite the unusually mild weather.

C. G. Bostwick and E. R. Boutwell were the winners in Class A, their 71 being four strokes under the score of T. I. Freeborn and H. W. Stratton.

In Class B the winners were N. K.
 Morton and H. L. Pilkington who got an 82.

The summary:

Class A
 C. G. Bostwick & E. R. Boutwell . . . 71
 T. I. Freeborn & H. W. Stratton . . . 75
 N. K. Morton & H. L. Pilkington . . . 82

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Now that the time is drawing near for the sale of the Christmas seals it will be of interest to Winchester people to know what has been done the last year by the Winchester Tuberculosis Committee.

Nine children who sorely needed rest and good care were sent to the hospital in the Southern Middlesex Health camp, at Sharon, where they had not only the best of food and care but expert medical attendance as well. The expense for each child was about $100. Ten dollars a week per child, five dollars each for a sweater, bathing suit and pajamas. The expense for transporting the children to and from camp and for small supplies such as rubbers, sneakers, etc., made a total of about $900.

Nine children were sent to camp but one child was taken free of expense for board. One thousand dollars was raised from the 1926 sale of seals. Of that amount $500 was for use in Winchester alone. So much of that amount had been spent for the children in families which had undernourished children that the Tuberculosis Committee had only $200 available for sending children to camp. Had it not been for the generosity of the town which donated $200, the Elks who gave $100 and the many public spirited citizens who made up the needed amount, only two children could have been sent instead of the nine who all needed the open air life for the summer. The selection of these children is made from our public health clinic and the children are carefully watched on their return from camp and are given closely follow-up through the winter, so that they may not lose the strength and weight gained at camp.

The outfitting of patients for tuberculosis sanatoriums where only the best of warm clothing can be used, supplying milk and food for tubercular families and sending the children to camp in the summer is a far-reaching and expensive work and each year only enough money is saved to pay for the postage stamps we use in sending all the seal sale letters.

When you send us your check or money for Christmas seals you may be sure no work in Winchester is left undone that it is possible for the committee to do.

Of the 20 per cent seal sale money which goes out of Winchester 20 per cent is spent in Southern Middlesex County, some of it for the camp which belongs to us, 15 per cent goes for the postage stamps and 5 per cent for National tuberculosis work.

Dr. Harold A. Gale, one of our own citizens, is at the head of our county division and Dr. Wilfred I. McKenzie, another townsman, is medical supervisor of our camp.

When you send us your check or money for Christmas seals you may be sure no work in Winchester is left undone that it is possible for your committee to do.

Yours for sound health,
Mary W. Carpenter,
Chairman

SOMERVILLE THEATRE

Large audiences have been the rule this week at the Somerville Theatre. The play being given is "The Taming of Helen," a rural drama from the pen of Edward Harold Crosby, dramatic critic of the Boston Post. Monday evening was the first time the play has been presented on any stage, and Mrs. Crosby, together with other guests, was present to witness the premiere production. The play is considered the best that the veteran critic has done and it was equally noted by the company. At the professional matinee on Tuesday, the well known Shakespearean actors, E. H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe, considered the world's greatest "Juliet," were present to witness the show.

Mr. Briggs, who plays one of the leading roles in "Broadway," had one of the lead parts in the original production of "The Gorilla," which is to be given at the Somerville Theatre next week. All of the visitors spoke highly of the work of the company and said the piece of Mr. Crosby had great possibilities.

"The Gorilla," the show to be given next week is one of the greatest mystery dramas ever presented on the American stage. The scenes will make you thrill with their unexpected happenings, but no matter how seriously you are startled, your yells of terror are quickly turned to shrieks of laughter as the joke of the thing draws upon you. It is 100 per cent entertainment.

Uncle Eben

"A good talker," said Uncle Eben, "in make you think you think something that you didn't know you had any intentions whatever of thinking about. As white as is goin' yoh thinks maybe he is a yoh something." And then he said:

COMMITTEE OF SAFETY CHAPTER

The Committee of Safety Chapter, D.A.R. 1127, Winchester held the regular November meeting at the home of one of the members, Mrs. John Cleworth, 115 Church street on Wednesday, Nov. 16. Mrs. Blanche K. Swan, Regent presiding.

Mrs. Cleworth entertained at a 1 o'clock luncheon of 22 members and guests, assisted by Mrs. Charles E. Corey.

Mrs. John F. Osborne, D.A.R. State Chairman of the World War Service was the guest of honor and afternoon speaker. She is tremendously interested in her work which accounts for the results she obtains not only herself but from her committee. The work over which Mrs. Osborne is chairman needs no comment. Any service we can give our boys who did their best for us and our country is a privilege and a duty. The work our own Vice-Regent Mrs. Corey is doing in knitting afghans of wool given by various chapters throughout the state. The afghans are donated to the Veterans Hospitals throughout our Commonwealth.

The Chapter Treasurer, Mrs. Chas. S. Beaudry, Ex-Regent reported the State dues for the coming year paid, also the contribution of $5 to Caroline Scott Harrison.

The year books were distributed to the members. The program bespeaks the alertness and co-operation of the chapter members.

Residents of Winchester desirous of membership please communicate with Mrs. Charles E. Corey and members of other chapters are cordially invited to become active members by attending on consulting Mrs. Corey, 226 Mystic Valley Parkway, tel. Winchester 9258-W.

WADLEIGH PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION

The second meeting for the present school year of the Wadleigh Parent-Teacher Association was held in the Wadleigh School on Thursday evening, Nov. 16.

Mrs. Henry Fitts, the President of the Association introduced Mrs. Grafton T. Abbott, who gave a most inspiring talk on the "Prom Child." Court cases that vary from petty stealing to runaways are not the only ones considered. Every parent of children has a problem child and the encouraging outlook today is that parents are willing to ask for outside help on mental problems of their children.

Mrs. Abbott cited many intensely interesting cases which she had been able to treat and help in time of need. Very often the trouble was found not in the problem children, but in the problem parents. These parents must be educated before their children can be aided.

A business meeting followed at which a suggestion was made that the day of the next meeting be a Thursday. It was decided to do so for the first Monday in the month.

A social hour followed between the teachers and parents and refreshments were served.

Shortly after 7 o'clock Monday morning a Dodge sedan, owned and operated by James P. White of Clark street, Wilmington, while going south on Main street, near Vine street, was in collision with a Federal Knight truck, owned by Whiting's Milk Company of Charlestown and driven by John V. McCarthy of 27 Rush street, Somerville. The truck which was going north on Main street at the time of the accident was badly damaged about the front end. The Dodge was only slightly damaged. No one was injured.

A Nash coupe, owned and operated by Thomas Bagley of 45 Middle street, South Boston, and a Ford sedan, owned and driven by Guy S. Harris of Boston road, Billerica, were in collision last Saturday night at 11:30 at the junction of Washington and M. Vernon streets. The Nash was going south on Washington street while the Ford was coming down M. Vernon street at the traffic beacon. The latter car was tipped over by the force of the impact and the Nash crossed the sidewalk and went onto the lawn of the Town Hall before stopping. Both cars were damaged but no one was reported injured.

African Trade Center

Timbuktu is the name of a large town in the French Sudan, about ten miles north of the River Niger. It is chiefly inhabited by Arabs and negroes. A large caravan trade in gold, gum, and ivory is carried on with Senegal and the north coast of Africa. The population is 15,000 to 20,000.

Deer, Moose Eyeballs

There is a belief of common among hunters and guides in the North wood, that the eyeballs of a deer are set fast in the socket and are immovable. The deer has the same immovable eye as other animals of this general type.

Nebraskans

By act of its Legislature April 4, 1893, the state of Nebraska was styled "The Corn State." However, references we have consulted also include the following nicknames: "Sun-belt," "The West," and "Corn Kingdom." It would seem that the only two names that would be suitable to designate a resident of Nebraska would be either "The Farmer" or "Corn Licker."

Big Enough

The largest people in all Parma, known as the Swallowbridge, is located at Arlington and is situated from top to bottom. It is said to have cost $2,000,000 and is a beautiful temple, where all business can go to worship. It covers between ten and fifteen acres at the bottom.

Tracks Save Sheep

The value of motor trucks in saving sheep from starving by transporting them from drought areas to 2 oen pastures was demonstrated during the recent dry period in Australia, the department of commerce at Melbourne announced recently. About 100,000 sheep were moved 250 miles by trucks.

Situated on the West Side of Winchester off of Cambridge Street nearly opposite Calumet Road. A tract of 20 lots of land varying in size from 7000 to 12,000 square feet in area. Every lot affords a beautiful panoramic view of the most attractive part of the town. In addition to the four houses already erected thereon, the Fairmount Associates have purchased five uncompleted houses adjoining their property at a mortgage sale. This in order not only to conserve the high type of construction originally planned for this tract, but more particularly to control the disposition of these houses, in order to maintain the high class neighborhood to which we set out to create. These aforesaid live houses are nearing completion and will be offered to satisfactory parties at reasonable prices and possibly one or two of these houses may be obtained for rent.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

It sometimes does happen that a man is unable to meet his obligations but that is no reason why he should forget them.

One of the very best safeguards against financial adversity is the practice of economy in times of prosperity.

Be what your friends think you are and not what your enemies say you are.

Any man who is loved by the house cat, his dog, his neighbors' children and his family is truly a great man.

Poverty and hardships have ever been the great schoolmasters of our race.

He most lives who lives most for others.

Winchester's defeat at Melrose last Saturday afternoon definitely determined that the best the local eleven can hope for this season is a triple tie with its victors and Arlington for the championship of the Mystic Valley League. The outcome of the game was a bitter disappointment to followers of the team, many of whom have redoubled much credit to themselves by their scathing criticism of the boys following the battle. Winchester had nothing to be ashamed of in the showing of its team against Melrose. Coach Mansfield's boys played last year's Mystic Valley champions to a standstill and never stopped trying even though defeat was staring them grimly in the face.
Above all the local boys played the game cleanly, like true sportsmen, reflecting only honor to their coach and school. After all this, rather than the percentage shown in the won and lost column, is the measure of any athletic team's true worth. Winchester has this year had its best football season since 1922, and the largest group of boys in the history of the school has enjoyed the game under a capable coach who at all times puts sportsmanship and character first. We congratulate him, Captain Knowlton and every last member of the varsity squad. Everyone would have liked that eventful tie but there is plenty of glory as it is.

Nahant's Town Seal

The town seal of Nahant, Mass., is supposed to depict a white man purchasing the peninsula from an Indian sagamore for a suit of clothes or a pair of breeches.

This legend is not correct. In 1630 the white man shown on the seal is Thomas Dexter.

Dexter's title to Nahant was stolen from the state by the town of Lynn, and, after it cost him living 30 years Lynn prevailed. The town seal, however, is based on this transaction.

Arthur Tutin with President Patrick
H. Kennedy, Treasurer Alfred E. Wellington and Directors Robert Rausch and William Rausch of the Columbia Trust Company of East Boston.

Six nephews, Patrick J. O'Hara of Winthrop, John Delahoye of Everett, Thomas F. Andrews, John E. O'Hara and Thomas J. O'Hara of Beverly and John P. O'Hara of Boston, were honorary guests. The ushers were Fred J. Donahue of Arlington, John J. Flawley of Cambridge, Francis M. Doyle of Jannuia Plain, Arthur P. Downer of Somerville, and Patrick T. Noonan of Melford.

The auditorium of the church was filled with townspeople, associates in the wholesale fish trade, local and Boston bank officials, members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's Church, associates in the local council of the Knights of Columbus and many men with whom Mr. O'Hara was actively associated in the United Irish League, the Irish Land League and other organizations interested in the Irish cause. Jesuit members of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce and representatives of Winchester Post, A.

throughout the day of his funeral flues
upon the Town Hall, Common, Lerion House, St. Mary's school and many business houses were at half staff in his honor. The Winchester National and Co-operative Banks were closed for the time of the funeral.

Interment was in the family lot at St. Paul's Cemetery, Arlington, where the communal prayers were read by the Rev. Fr. Charles A. Donahue of St. Bridge's Church, Maynard.

The floral tributes from associates in the wholesale fish business, the Boston Fish Market Corporation, the families of which he was a director and organizations with which he was connected during an active life, together with the individual tributes numbered over 100 pieces. Notable among them was a floral full-figured two-mastered schooner sent by associates in the firm and the fishing trade of Boston.

Mrs. Edna Simpson of this town was in charge of the work of filling the 180 Thanksgiving baskets which were distributed by the State, Fruit and Plover Mission from the Church of the New Jerusalem, Bowdoin street, Boston, the day before the holiday.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The outstanding feature picture at the University for four days beginning Sunday is "Camille" Norma Talmadge in the title role. In the adaptation of the younger Alexandre Dumas "Camille" to the screen, the classic has been given a modern setting. Miss Talmadge portraying the exotic French heroine as she might appear in Paris today. The leading modistes of Paris and American style centers were called upon to create the costume of Miss Talmadge wardrobe and the costume of featured players appearing in her support also were carried out lavishly. "Camille" marks the achievement of a lifelong ambition for the star, for the pathetic "Lady of the Camellias" is the one role Norma has wanted to play more than any other. Gilbert Roland, a virtually unknown young Spanish actor, is Miss Talmadge's new leading man, appearing in the role of the impetuous lover, "Armand." Lilyan Tashman, Rose Dione, Harvey Clark, Alice Francis, Helen Jerome Eddy and others complete a powerful cast.

On the same program is "Galloping Furry" starring Hoot Gibson. For the last three days of the week the pictures are "The Fighting Eagle" with Rod La Roque and "Clancy's Kosh Wedding" starring Geo. Sidney. "The Fighting Eagle" is one of the great pictures of the year with Rod La Roque in perhaps his greatest role. "Clancy's Kosh Wedding" is a real comedy. Geo. Sidney being supported by a superb cast of comedians.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT NOTES

Wadleigh School

Wadleigh School held its Thanksgiving Assembly in the High School Assembly Hall on Tuesday, this week at 2:30 p. m. Both Girls' Clubs sang selections, and the pupils gave a Thanksgiving play. Pupils from Latin 7 dramatized a song, Thomas Hammond read the Thanksgiving Proclamation.

The Student Council of the Wadleigh School held its election of new members this week. These representatives include the officers of each Home Room and of each Division Group, comprising about 100 members. Council of which Daniel West is President, retroacts as soon as the new one is installed.

CHILDREN'S CLOISTERS TO BE DEDICATED SUNDAY

Will be held at 1:30 in Memory of George S. Cabot

The beautiful cloisters which form part of the new Parish House lead to the Rindley Memorial Chapel in the First Congregational Church will be dedicated Sunday afternoon at 1:30 in memory of George S. Cabot, for 13 years Superintendent of the Sunday School.

The cloisters will be dedicated to the purposes of religious education and the address will be given by Rev. Morris J. Butler, D.D., Assistant Pastor of the church. Rev. John L. Robinson and Rev. Arthur J. Copley, D.D. will also have part in the service. The children's choir will sing on this occasion. The offering at the service will be for the Cloister Fund, in memory of Mr. Cabot.

NOTICE M. C. W. G.

The regular meeting will be held this evening, Friday, the 25th at 8 p. m.

The officers and members extend sympathy to Sister Agnes O'Hara on her recent bereavement.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

The next regular meeting of the Club will be held on Monday, Nov. 28 at 2:30 p. m. in the Town Hall. It has been necessary to cancel part of the program which was announced in the Year Book, but the program committee is able to offer something which will be equally attractive to most members of the Club. This will be a Fashion Fete under the direction of Miss Harriet E. Ainsworth of William Filene's Sons Company. Club members and their daughter will act as models to illustrate the newest style tendencies and there will be a lecture on dress. Everyone in the audience should receive practical help in choosing her new gowns for the holiday festivities. During intermission in the program there will be music by two popular Winchester artists, Miss Lucy Wilcox will give piano solos, and Mrs. Annette S. Hughes will sing a group of songs in cooperation.

Cooperation With War Veterans. The War Veterans' committee will entertain at tea from 3 to 5 o'clock on Wednesday, Nov. 30 in Fortnightly Hall. All Club members are invited. It is hoped that donations for Christmas packages for disabled veterans will be brought to this get-together of the committee. Books, candy, cigarettes, sweaters, sachet-handkerchiefs and magazines will be useful.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S INTER-CHURCH FEDERATION

On Sunday, Nov. 27, the Young People's Inter-Church Federation will hold its first meeting at 4 o'clock in the Unitarian Church. Herbert C. Mayer of B. U. will speak.

The Federation is a new project this fall and hopes to go through this year with great success.

The purpose of the Federation is as follows:

1. To foster a spirit of religious and social unity among the young people of Winchester.
2. To stimulate effective work in the local Church.

Our officers are as follows:

President: Gilbert West
President: Joy Aubrey Secretary: Marion Tomblin
Treasurer: Andrew Skidmore

LABRADOR BACKS TO THE YACHTSMEN AND PULP MILLS

Labrador, since the definition of its boundary with Canada, is being discussed as a possible summer haven for yachtsmen and a source of good pulp, says a bulletin from the Washington D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. Though the southern end of Labrador is in the latitude of London and the northern tip cap-sits Petrograd, no warm ocean current washes its shores to produce the temperate climate of northern Europe. Cold water winds sweep down from the Arctic across a rocky and sparsely inhabited coast, though explorers say the short summers are delightful.

The entire region at present has only about 3000 population, about 500 less than 10 years ago, the bulk of the settlement of Inupiat, half way up the coast from Newfoundland, the country is peopled mainly by Eskimos, who have been largely Christianized and live in new wooden houses, supporting themselves by seal and cod fisheries. In the interior scattered Indians and half breeds hunt the fox, marten, bear, wolverine, and other fur-bearing animals which haunt evergreen woods stretching as far north as the Arctic boundary of forestation.

Rich in Lumber and Water Power

This fir belt covers large areas of the interior of Labrador in all but the extreme northern part, but only touches the rocky coast at the heads of long narrow bays and the mouths of rivers. As a future source of paper pulp this hitherto little regarded region is of immense value, and already a few mills have been established and concessions granted. Pulp forests are one of the potential sources of wealth. Another asset is unlimited water power of the numerous coastal rivers.

White settlements are mainly on the southeastern coast of Labrador. Here a sparse but sturdy population of Scotch and Scandinavian extraction, together with a few French Canadians, carry on cod and whale fisheries. The number of white inhabitants is quadrupled during the summer months by Newfoundlanders who come north for cod fishing, the principal industry. Of late years the whale, seal, and cod have all decreased in numbers in Labrador waters. This is thought to be one reason for the steadily diminishing population of the coast. Another factor is that contact with diseases of civilization has proved fatal to whole communities of Eskimos and Indians. Missionaries are making heroic efforts to save the remainder of the native races from extinction by teaching them to adapt their mode of living to changed conditions, and these good offices have met with considerable success.

Scenery Rivals Norway

One effort to compensate for the diminishing number of sea animals has been the introduction into Labrador of the reindeer, which has for centuries been the main support of the Lapps of northern Scandinavia and which has been successfully raised in Alaska. This attempt is said to have proved successful and promises one solution of the food problem if the development of pulp and milling industries is extended. Another alleviating condition is that work in mills already established has helped lift the workers from entire dependence on the fluctuating fortunes of fishing and hunting.

Wireless stations are bringing larger settlements into closer contact with the outside world. It is predicted that when this means of communication has been extended and coasts are better charted and light-houses built that Labrador with its rocky inlets and bracing climate will become like Norway, a rendezvous for summer yachtsmen. During the short northern summer Labrador is pictured as a land of supreme beauty. Rocky headlands run for into the sea. Deep fiords cut the fir covered hills of the interior, where sub-Arctic vegetation flourishes, and salmon streams invite the fisherman. Grand Falls, on the Hamilton River, is nearly three times as high as Niagara.

Milk Without Cream

A cow that possessed "a perfectly adjusted separator" has been used by a correspondent to the Sydney Bulletin. "She gave a lot of milk and her calves were the fattest and biggest in the herd, but for ten days her milk was useless," according to the correspondent. "The milk could be run through a separator without a drop of cream appearing on top in the dish or in the interior of the can. No method of milking could she be tried to give any cream."

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The feature pictures at the University for four days beginning Sunday are "Rose of the Golden West" with Mary Astor and Gilbert Roland and "The Raging Romeo" starring Red Grange. "Rose of the Golden West" is a colorful romance of the days when the Spanish Dons ruled California. No finer performance has been seen on the screen this season than that of Gilbert Roland's as the patriotic young cavalier who is willing to sacrifice his love for what he believes is patriotic justice. Mary Astor, in the feminine lead, has never been seen to better advantage, and her striking beauty is matched only by the note of sincerity and emotion which she brings to her performance. Montague Love and Gustav von Seyffertitz are outstanding in character roles and Flora Finch contributes an unusual characterization.

"The Raging Romeo" is a thrilling comedy of speed and love. In addition to Red Grange the cast includes such outstanding stars as Joleen Ralston, Texie Frenson and Walter Hiers. For the last three days of the week the pictures are "The Rough Riders" and "Madame Pompadour." "The Rough Riders" is a dramatic picture of love and war, with Roosevelt's famous regiment of rough and ready fighters ever in the foreground. Noah Beery, Charles Farrell and George Bancroft are in the cast.

"Madame Pompadour" starring Dorothy Gish and Antonio Moreno is a story of the life and love of history's loveliest charmer, the Cleopatra of the Court of Louis XV.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Batchelder have returned from their summer home at St. Albans, Me.

Captain Applejack Next Week's Show

One of the greatest of English melodramas is "Captain Applejack," which will be presented by the players next week, starting with the matinee Tuesday. It is replete with action from start to finish and the comedy lines which run through it present old truths in an entertaining way. An "Arabian Night" adventure, it smacks of the sea in the time of the bold, piratical buccaners, treasure-bound. It is a gripping story, told in a virile way. At each matinee the ladies present will receive an autographed copy of Miss Goodwin. Note that there will be no Monday evening performance, as the management has donated the theatre to charity for that night. For the week starting, Dec. 12, "Big Bill" Tilden, for six years the ranking tennis player in the United States, will personally star in "The Kid Himself." Tilden was American tennis champion from 1929 to 1935, and winning the English tournament in 1919, was champion of the world that year. He also won the championship of France and New Zealand in 1920, and has been considered the most colorful athlete in international sports.

The look-up between the fire alarm systems of Arlington and Winchester has been completed and the local department has answered its first box under the new regime. Winchester is now answering two of the boxes in Arlington and "covering in" on several others.

THIRD OF PRIZE ESSAY GROT

The following essay by Deborah C. Gilbert of the junior class was awarded third prize in the recent contest held for seniors and juniors at the Winchester High School.

The Aims and Objectives of a High School Education

There are, from my point of view, six big aims of a high school education. Primarily, there is knowledge. We all need knowledge. It is what gives us understanding. We need to have a background of classical languages better to understand English and great writings. We all want to know the great history of our country and to comprehend its problems of today. Ease in future business transactions should be gained through the training. Geometry, Mathematics, and Algebra give us. We want to learn how to speak and write easily and to talk in an interesting manner so that cultured people get pleasure in talking with us.

In the second place there is poise. What a very desirable thing it is to be able to know that we know and have a background to draw upon in our dealings with people in the world! Certainly poise is a fine quality to have.

Again there is preparation for future life. Whether we wish to go to college, to work, or to study one thing intensively, high school should give us good preparation for what is to follow our graduation.

Then fourth, there is participation in activities. In the High School there are and should be many clubs. Such clubs as a debating club, a drama society, a star club, and a school paper, give each individual a chance to work out his own particular side interest in any way he wants.

As a fifth aim there is the aim to develop good athletes. So that we may not be one-sided we are given athletics and a chance to represent our school well. Sports develop in us a sense of sportsmanship and fair play that is essential.

As a sixth aim I give school spirit. It is the last, but in no way the least. In fact it is one of the most important. We all need a spirit of co-operation and teamwork. School spirit is a spirit of loyalty and teamwork which will make us better American citizens in our communities. And after all isn't that aim of making good citizens, what you are doing in giving us an education? You are making for better American citizens which means a better country.

NEW FORD CAR PLANS COMING THIS WEEK

Four-wheel brakes, standard selective gear transmission, extraordinary acceleration, a speed of 50 miles an hour and more, a practically vibrationless engine, and unusual beauty in line and color are among the outstanding features of the new Ford cars the first of which will be shown in many parts of the country next Friday. The new engine, cooling system, steering gear and rear axle are of new Ford design, it is announced. And its 40-horsepower engine has been so designed that it runs at 20 miles an hour on a gallon of gasoline.

The car, which is to succeed the famous Model T line will be shown by Ford dealers in many of the larger cities of the country. In Winchester photographs and descriptive charts of the new cars will be on display at Bonnell Motors showrooms, where the public will be given the complete story of the new Ford. Later various models of the new Ford line will be on display here.

So far the new cars have been examined only by those who will have charge of the new Ford cars. It is certain that Ford dealers and demonstrators are studying charts and diagrams which will be used in explaining the various details of designs, appearance and performance.

Mr. Bonnell, in commenting on the forthcoming show, said his first view of the new Ford car was that of Henry Ford's statement that "there is nothing quite like it in quality and price."

"Mr. Ford's statement had prepared us for a surprise," said Mr. Bonnell, "but the new Ford car is better even than we had hoped for. It is certain to make history in the automotive industry, just as its predecessor, the famous Model T, has made history for 20 years. We are proud of the new car and feel certain that its appearance and performance will attract unprecedented attention among automobile owners."

WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

The next regular monthly meeting will be held Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 2:30 p. m., in Fortnightly Hall.

Mrs. A. J. George, internationally known lecturer on "Affairs at Home and Abroad" will give the second of her series of three addresses before the club. She will also devote the first 10 minutes of the meeting to a review of the political situation of the moment. This is in accordance with the club policy to have this resume a regular feature of every meeting. There will be a social tea at the close of the meeting. During Mrs. George's lectures a small charge for guests will be made.

The Parliamentary law class, (free to members) 80 Church street, will start Monday morning, Jan. 2, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Alfred Radley. It will be under the leadership of Mrs. Elsie Sherman, the well-known instructor, and the course will run eight consecutive weeks. It will meet at the homes of different members. It will be in charge of Mrs. John B. Paul's Society, Boston and those wishing to register my telephone Mrs. Powers, Win. 6615, or as other member of the board.

There will be a hostess party in January under the auspices of the board of directors, Mrs. Edward Mudge, active chairman.

JANET GOLDEN FISH

Janet Golden Fish, wife of Charles E. Fish, died last Saturday evening at her home, "Kroonpine" on Curtis street. Mrs. Fish was 62 years of age and a native of Athens, Ohio, the daughter of William Reed and Katherine Golden. She had made her home in Winchester for the past 18 years. Funeral services were conducted at the late residence Monday morning at 10 o'clock by the Rev. D. Augustine Newton, former pastor of the First Congregational Church. The casket was taken to Athens, Ohio, for interment.

CHILDREN'S CLOISTERS DEDICATED

The Children's Cloisters in memory of George S. Cabot, at the First Congregational Church were dedicated last Sunday afternoon at 4:30 p. m. The address was given by Rev. Morris J. Butler who spoke on "Our Challenge."

On the calendar appeared the following tribute to Mr. Cabot:

George S. Cabot

George S. Cabot was born in Hartland, Vermont, June 18, 1857, the second son of George Dwight and Charlotte M. Cabot. He graduated from Green Mountains Perkins Academy, Woodstock, Vermont, and came to Boston when about 21 years of age. He soon became associated with Paine Furniture Company, with which he continued until his death. He married in 1882, Florence M. Lathrop of South Boston, who died in January 1913. They lived for some time in Readville, and moved to Winchester in 1904. He served as Deacon of the church for 17 years, from 1905 to 1922, and as Superintendent of the Sunday School for 13 years, from 1906 to 1919. He died at his home on Herick street after an illness of several months, on Nov. 14, 1924.

All those who knew Mr. Cabot in his activities as deacon and superintendent of the Sunday School will remember his cheery smile, his gracious manner, and his spiritual devotion. Mr. Cabot was a gentleman of the old school. His influence upon the church and the children was a never-to-be-forgotten impression. When our organization was passing through stormy times his spirit was always to make history in the automotive industry, just as its predecessor, the famous Model T, has made history for 20 years. We are proud of the new car and feel certain that its appearance and performance will attract unprecedented attention among automobile owners.

WILL OF F. J. O'HARA LISTS MANY PUBLIC REQUESTS

The will of ex-Secretary Francis J. O'Hara of Winchester, a pioneer in the wholesale fish business, was filed for probate at Middlesex Court Tuesday and provided approximately $50,000 in specific bequests. The residue of his estate is bequeathed to public charities.

Bequests of $5000 each are made to St. Mary's parish of Winchester, and the Holy Ghost Hospital, Cambridge; $2000 each to the Somerville Little Sisters of the Poor, St. Mary's Infant Asylum, Dorchester; Home for Destitute Catholic Children, Boston; St. Vincent De Paul's Society, Boston and Society of the Sacred Heart. The Catholic Foreign Missionary Society is bequeathed $10,000 and the Carney Hospital and St. Elizabeth's Hospital $2000 each.

The will provides that Mr. O'Hara's son William V. O'Hara shall succeed the deceased as head of the Francis J. O'Hara Company and provision is made for the testator's daughters.

The residue of the estate, the bulk of which is not set forth, is to go to the charities named as beneficiaries in the specific bequests.

Mr. O'Hara died suddenly of heart disease on Saturday evening, Nov. 19.

THE FORTNIGHTLY NOTES

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting of the Fortnightly Club on Monday afternoon, Nov. 28, the occasion being a Fashion Show under the direction of Miss Harriet Jones and the committee of the William Filene's Sons Company.

The President, Dr. Mary T. Maynard, presided and after the Secretary and chairman of the committee had given their reports, it was explained that the scheduled speaker had been found to be unable to attend, but that the Fashion Show would undoubtedly be a very pleasing substitution.

Miss Lucy Wilcox, one of Winchester's real artists, opened the program with a group of piano selections, which she played in her usual finished manner. "The Vell Dance" by Friml was charming. It was followed by the quaint "Irish Tune from the County Derry" arranged by Percy Grainger. A third in the group was the delightful "April Yell" by Charles Reppe.

Miss Answorth was then introduced, and she spoke briefly on the fashion tendency of today, laying great stress on the importance of line, color and design. She said that while the straight-line dress has been worn now for about 14 years, there is a new change developing which we are hardly conscious of, and many towns suggest almost a normal

More than 50 costumes were shown, worn very attractively by members and daughters of members of the club. The first part of the Fashion Show was devoted to evening wear, three-quarter length coats, which Miss Answorth feels are very good, for light weight materials such as the featherweight tweeds, kittens' ear jerseys, wool georgette and the new angora suits with gray scarves. Some of the frocks were original imports and the hats were many of them. Reboyn and Agnes models. These hats were moulded to the head in many instances and were pulled down to the eyebrows. Practically all were of felt.

Curtains were shown in the straight-line coat was advised to be the safest choice. A new color was introduced, a combination of beige and gray, called greige, which was demonstrated several times, and it was promised that purple to be a popular spring shade. A long blue, which appeared to be a greenish blue, and Valencia blue were very lovely.

A particularly attractive riding habit consisting of a light blue breeches, dark blue coat, with scarlet tie was well received.

Printed silks in small geometric designs will be used for summer, also challis for the junior girls. Many black frocks were shown and perhaps those wearing them made the smartest appearance. White sports clothes have been suitable for almost any affair the last few years, the tendency this season more formal dressing for afternoon.

The princess line begins to be used again and the importance of the suggestion of a gown about the hips was stressed.

The evening gowns and wraps were very beautiful, transparent velvet and fringe being used considerably. Chanel crystal jewelry was featured and with touches of metal cloth and the silver and gold slippers, a brilliant effect was created.

The negligees shown were fascinating, also the vivid pajama ensembles.

One smoking set of black satin, broadened with silver fashions was very striking. The array of fashions ended gloriously with a bridal procession, the gown of the bride, Miss Priscilla Maynard, was of white velvet, with tight-fitting basque and long skirt with even hem line. The bridesmaids, Mrs. Winnifred S. Meyer, and the bridesmaid, Miss Frances Denison and Miss Eleanor Greco, wore tiered costumes in the petal shades and presented a lovely picture.

The members participating in the show were: Mrs. Lillian H. Aubler, Mrs. Blanche Bernadine, Gertrude Barnes, Mrs. Helen Bowe, Mrs. Henrietta Boynton, Mrs. Irene D. Clarke, Mrs. Elsie C. Davis, Mrs. Isabel W. Goldin, Mrs. Margaret L. Loftus, Mrs. Winnifred S. Meyer, Mrs. Inez S. Pulsifer, Mrs. Gertrude B. Young.

The club daughters who also served as models were Frances Denison, Eleanor Greco, Helen Chalm, Margaret MacFadden, Priscilla Maynard, Mary Alice Speedie, Marjorie Hayden, Priscilla Jones.

Each was greeted with hearty applause as she appeared before the velvet curtains, then gracefully made her way down from the stage and through the center aisle, giving all opportunity to view the fashions in close range. Popular music was played during the exhibition.

Among the fashions then appeared, captivating in a stunning, Chinese costume, and sang three Chinese songs, the first a Chinese woman's prayer, the second a lullaby and the third a lament. She was very ably accompanied by Mrs. Alice M. Abbott.

These clever little songs, sung so very effectively, proved to be a most artistic way of ending a very enjoyable afternoon.

study each time, but the work will be so planned that those who do not care to spend time outside of class will still be able to enjoy the classes themselves. The meetings will be on Friday nights, and the time of meeting is still to be arranged.

There have been several requests for more classes in German and Spanish. If there are enough applications, these will also be given.

It is very important that the committee should have the names of all those who are interested as soon as possible. Will any Fortnightly members who wish to be enrolled, or who would like further information, please telephone Mrs. C. L. Mitchell, 532-M, or Mrs. P. H. Howard, 644-W, or any other member of the Education Committee.

Literature Committee
The regular meeting of the Literature Group will be held in Fortnightly Hall Monday, Dec. 5 at 2:30 p. m. The subject is, "Russian Literature of the 19th Century and Today," Mrs. Thomas A. Barnard will be in charge of the program. Tea will be served.

Dramatics Committee
The second dramatics afternoon will be held in Fortnightly Hall, Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 2:30 p. m. Two one-act plays, "Neighbors" by Zona Gale and "The Twelve Pound Look" by J. M. Barrie will be given under the direction of Mrs. Winnifred S. Meyer.

The cast of "Neighbors" is as follows: Mrs. Irene D. Clarke, Mrs. A. W. Oppen, Mrs. Dorothy M. Wells, Mrs. Estella Cooper, Mrs. Elizabeth S. Hall, Mrs. Helen Robbins, Mrs. Margaret A. Bostwick and Mrs. Lena Glynn. The four ladies in "The Twelve Pound Look" are Miss Mabel Craig Lyons, Mrs. Helen I. Fessenden, Mrs. Lillian H. Aubler and Mrs. Elizabeth C. Davis.

Tea will be served after the program. All club members are invited to attend this meeting.

THE SCULPTURE OF HERBERT ADAMS

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, who served most efficiently as chairman of our War Memorial Committee, has circulated through the mail a book a reprint from the American Magazine of Art on "The Sculpture of Herbert Adams." Mr. Adams is known to all Winchester people as the sculptor of the beautiful memorial erected by our town on the High School grounds.

The pamphlet circulated by Mr. Parkhurst gives a comprehensive biography and resume of Mr. Adams' work. He is one of the most celebrated of our modern sculptors. He is of much interest in his graphic illustrations as well as in his descriptions of these masterpieces. Included in the illustrations is Mr. Adams' statue of William Ellery Channing in the Boston public gardens, his great busts of Miss DePinto and Miss DePinto, his statue of William Cullen Bryant in the New York Public Library and the beautiful McMillan Fountain at Washington, D. C. Others are the Statue of John Marshall in the Court House at Cleveland, Ohio, and the bas relief of Joseph Rodiere, Choate in the United League Club, New York City.

It is Mr. Parkhurst's desire that every family in town shall receive a copy of this book. If any one fails to secure one and he will let him know, he will be pleased to forward one.

STORY HOUR AT PUBLIC LIBRARY

A new institution in the town is a Story Hour conducted by the Public Library, the object of which is to broaden the literary outlook of the children of grammar school age by introducing to them stories from the sources with which they are, for the most part, unfamiliar, and by giving them to take home copies of the books from which the stories have been told.

Two meetings of the Story Hour have already been held, and it is planned to continue them every Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. They are free, and the library cordially invites all children in the grammar schools to attend.

Judging from the success of the two meetings held, it is felt that it is affording of both entertainment and profit to the children who will attend regularly and further plans to increase the present benefits are under way.

PARENT-TEACHER SUPPER

Will be held in First Congregational Church School, Dec. 7

The success of any church school depends upon the cooperation of the parents with the teachers. This meeting is for the purpose of having a better understanding of our problems dealing with the boys and girls of our church school. For this reason we are attempting to inaugurate a unique feature in our program. Its success depends entirely upon the interest of the parents and teachers.

After all, we are trying to touch the boys and girls the fundamental ends of life, and it is your duty and privilege to have a part in this process. Mr. William Orr, who is one of the editors of the pamphlet on "Youth," and a member of the International Y. M. C. A. will speak on the subject "What Youth is Thinking." An opportunity for discussion will follow the address. Supper will be served at 6:30 in the larger social hall. Tickets may be procured at Mr. Barnes' store, or the money can be sent by the children to the teachers. In order that we may know how many to prepare for please procure these tickets at once.

An Essex coach owned and driven by Daniel P. Day of Church street, Hopkinton, and an Oakland sedan, owned by Walter L. Wilcox of Woburn and operated by William L. Lux of 36 Union street, that city, were in collision Tuesday at the junction of Church, Bacon and Fletcher streets. Both cars were damaged and H. H. Gerry of 15 Church street, Hopkinton, a passenger with Day in the Essex, sustained a cut over the right eye.

THE SALVATION ARMY

General Maintenance Appeal 1927-28

The annual general maintenance appeal of the Salvation Army in Winchester again brings to our attention the wonderful work these faithful and devoted people are carrying on in the metropolitan area of Greater Boston.

But these willing, patient hands of the Army cannot serve unless they have the necessary funds their work to serve as Chairman of the Winchester Citizens' Committee, and we are out to raise $1000 as our share of the Greater Boston Budget of $137,500.

Winchester has staunchly aided the Salvation Army in the past. Surely we cannot afford any diminution of our interest now. Will you not mail in a generous check to Mr. Charles E. Barrett, Treasurer, Winchester Trust Company, or hand your gift to a representative of the Army when he calls on you?

WINCHESTER HOSPITAL

Christmas is coming. The Christmas spirit is at the Winchester Hospital and will be evident in the carols of the nurses and in the spicy green and holly berries and will be much enhanced by the co-operation of the town people.

It is hoped that Winchester will remember the needs of the hospital at this season. Christmas greens, wreaths and garlands of holly are desired. Red and green crepe paper for decorations, candy and fruit for the nurses' holiday—fun, plants for the nurses' Christmas tree, with the freshenants at the party, with the Christmas tree, held by the nurses are most welcome.

Please remember the hospital. November has been a busy month for the hospital. Many maternity cases and several emergency cases of appendicitis, three of them children, have been cared for. The new probationers, after their two months' training, are allowed to carry out certain hospital duties and are engaged in these in a very satisfactory manner. Several patients have expressed themselves pleased with their work.

Miss Leah McIntosh of Winchester of the office force, is on her vacation and Miss Ruth Peterson of Woburn, recently graduated, travelled together to Cleveland early in November to visit friends in that city.

Miss Ethel Knowlton of Winchester, who graduated in October, has taken a position as head nurse, private floor, Lynn Hospital.

Nurse, Alice Gormley, Visiting Nurse, has returned to her duties after her vacation.

Miss Florence H. Crimmins, assistant superintendent, spent Thanksgiving Day at her home in Haverhill. On Thanksgiving, at dinner, the tables for the nurses were decorated with place-cards and flowers and gifts of pop-corn and candy were enjoyed.

The superintendent of the hospital would like old cloth, both linen and cotton for use at the hospital. Donations of old linen are much appreciated at any time.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The members are requested to make note that the regular meeting which would ordinarily be held on next Thursday evening has been postponed until Thursday evening, Dec. 15.

Sister Margaret M. Subre, 6 Mystic avenue, one of our newer members has very kindly announced that she will be hostess for a "blanket whist" to be held at her home on next Thursday evening, Dec. 8. The proceeds of this party will be used in defraying the many demands made upon our branch at the Christmas season, notable among which is the donation made in conjunction with the several other branches throughout the diocese whereby a real tree and real Christmas is afforded the little orphan inmates of the Catholic Home for Destitute Children.

Sullivan's Barber Shop, Robert H. Sullivan, Prop. First class hair cutting, Shave and single hair dressing. Children's work a specialty. Velvet shave, apt-5

MUSICAL

Mystic School Chapter of the Winchester Mothers' Association

The Mystic School Chapter seems to be particularly fortunate in having an unusual amount of musical talent among its own members. And to help defray the expenses of a greatly needed curtain for the stage of its assembly hall, a musicale is to be given at the Mystic School on Tuesday, Dec. 6 at 8 p. m.

As may be seen by the program, which follows, a musical treat is in store for those who come. The tickets may be obtained at the door on that evening.

DAY DREAMS

We all indulge in them sometimes. Have you ever wished in your day dreams that someday someone would build a lovely home with lots of room around it and plenty of shade trees, perhaps on the side of a hill with a distant view, and the house was substantially built of brick and inside you found quartered oak floors, and tinted tile baths, and the man who built it was willing to let you have it for less than it cost to build and only wanted a small amount down—then you woke up to read this ad and found it was really true and you could see this very house by calling Winchester 1100.

Reports were current in the square Wednesday that there was a bad wreck on the railroad north of town. The report was evidently caused by a sight of the wrecking crew passing through the center on its way to the assistance of the shifting engine which jumped the tracks near the Blanchard Coal yard about 12:30. Fortunately the accident occurred on the siding, thus preventing a traffic bump. Much of the afternoon passed before the shifter was back on the rails.

Too Observant

Frequently in restaurants and other places where a certain rule is continually being ignored, we are reminded of an incident related by a friend of ours. While waiting in Spain he finished at the monastery of the Benedictines. After lunch he took out his cigar case. "I don't suppose you object to smoke the 'lones'" he said to the white-robed house attendant. "Yes, sir, we do," was the prompt reply. "There's a law against smoking in the refectory." "Then smoke," said our friend, "do all the clear and cigarette smokes come from the refectory?" "I don't know," she didn't ask about the law," the monk replied, mildly.—Boston Transcript.

Situated on the West Side of Winchester off of Cambridge Street nearly opposite Calumet Road. A tract of 20 lots of land varying in size from 7000 to 12,000 square feet in area. Every lot affords a beautiful panoramic view of the most attractive part of the town. In addition to the four houses already erected thereon, the Fairmount Associates have purchased five uncompleted houses adjoining their property at a mortgage sale. This in order not only to conserve the high type of construction originally planned for this tract, but more particularly to control the disposition of these houses, in order to maintain the high class neighborhood to which we set out to create. These aforesaid five houses are nearing completion and will be offered to satisfactory parties at reasonable prices and possibly one or two of these houses may be obtained for rent.

WOODS OF WINCHESTER

To the Editor of the Star:

I noticed an item in the Star giving me credit for something in which I deserve small credit.

May I say I made my first collection of woods just 45 years ago and fortunately for me it was burned the next day, which obliged me to make a collection on the day following and so on and infinitum.

This seeming hardship of childhood to doubt accounts for the collection you mention which more properly speaking is the beginning of one.

I had but a small part in it as the citizens of Winchester laid the foundations for it years ago; and as the Town grew they delegated their several duties along this line to the Tree Warden.

He in turn could not have made this collection without protest and I surely would not have been allowed to. Along came the ice storm of November and the collection was made whether or no.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

On last evening a most delightful time was accorded the members and their friends at the home of Mrs. Frank Suhre on Mystic Avenue. Whist was enjoyed by all, followed by refreshments. Prayers of the affair will be used by the Charitable Committee in defraying their many Christmas Charity demands, notable among which is a substantial donation to the Home for Destitute Children.

The regular business meeting will be held on next Thursday evening.

MOTHERS' ASSOCIATION

Mystic School Chapter

The expectations of those who attended the musicale given by the Mystic School Chapter of the Mothers' Association were more than fulfilled on Tuesday evening. The program was well chosen and each artist contributed abundantly to the keen pleasure of the large audience. About 200 attended and all were charmed with the very attractive deep red welcome lining across the stage of the assembly hall.

The sum which was hoped for was practically raised, and it is well known that the children of the school are very happy at having this new equipment and are very grateful to the artists, who so cordially gave their services.

A Christmas Message from Wayne B. Wheeler

Two years ago, at the Christmas season, many prohibition workers received from Wayne B. Wheeler, a message which is characteristic of the man. It was sent out "with apologies to Walt Mason" and is as follows:

"One day when I was weary and not a thing right, a quitter, sad and dreary, urged me to leave the field. He painted me a picture of rest and quiet ease, where Wets would never trouble and Drys would never tease. I might have seemed quite tempting if he hadn't made me smile when he asked the foolish question, 'Do you think it worth while?' For I see skulls by millions, now saved from whiskey's curse, and still another million snatched from the open hearse. I see the prisons emptied, the homes content has filled, since down the open sewer John Barleycorn was spilled. Instead of crowded bread lines I look at bulging banks; an army of investors files past in secured ranks. Upon each mile of highway a flock of flivvers pass, as men step off the brass rail and step upon the gas. The mirth of joyous children, the smile of happy wives is worth the congregation of many dreamers' lives. I may have missed some pleasure, I may have known some pain, I have amassed no treasure, but I'd do it again! As at this Christmas season, God shows how to give. I find the truest reason why it's worth while to live. 'Tis in the call of service, the summons of the fight, against the hosts of evil, and for the truth and right, enlisted in such service, how can I help but smile when any ask the question, 'Do you think it worth while?'"

WATERFIELD DRAMATIC CLUB

A new Dramatic Club has been formed by members of Waterfield Lodge, No. 231, and Victoria Rebekah Lodge, No. 168, I. O. O. F., of this town for the purpose of presenting plays and sketches from time to time for the entertainment of members and friends. The receipts from such plays will be used toward the upkeep of the Odd Fellows home on Vine street.

The members are now working on a play under the direction of Mr. Charles Harold the well known coach, which will be presented in the Town Hall on Friday evening, Feb. 3, 1928.

FORMER WINCHESTER RECTOR DEAD

Rev. Murray W. Dewart Ten Years at Church of Epiphany

Word was received in Winchester Monday of the death on Sunday forenoon, Dec. 4, in Baltimore of Rev. Murray Wilder Dewart, rector of Christ Episcopal Church of this city and a former rector of the Church of the Epiphany in this town. He succumbed following a heart attack suffered shortly after he had completed his sermon at the morning service in his Church.

Mr. Dewart was well known in Greater Boston before going to Baltimore he had served for many years as rector of St. James's Church, Roxbury, and for 10 years as rector of the Church of the Epiphany in New York. He also served with the Massachusetts National Guard at the Mexican Border, as a chaplain in 1916, and in the same capacity with the 101st field artillery, Yankee Division, in France during the World War.

He was born in Chardon, O., Feb. 14, 1874, son of the Rev. Dr. James Hartley Dewart and Mary (Day) Dewart. His father was a Methodist preacher, but the son, after living in Minnesota and studying at the University of Minnesota, with two years at Harvard, took up the Episcopal ministry.

He had taught for a while at Pomfret School in Connecticut, completing his ministerial training at the General Theological Seminary in New York and the Episcopal Theological School at Cambridge. He was assistant at St. James Church, Roxbury, in 1901 and 1902, and rector from 1902 to 1912, going from there to Winchester, where he was rector until 1922. He left Winchester at that time to assume his duties at Christ Church, Baltimore.

Mr. Dewart was a brother of the Rev. William H. Dewart, former rector of Christ Church, North End, Boston. On April 30, 1906, he married Miss Submit T. Clarke of Manchester, N. H., and they had three children, Donald Perry, Kenneth and Murray Wilder Dewart.

Christ Church, Baltimore, was crowded to the doors for the funeral services which were conducted on Tuesday by Bishop John Gardner Murray, primate of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, the assisting clergy included Bishop Philip Cook of the Delaware diocese, Rev. Edward R. Nevin, former rector of Christ Church; and Rev. Oscar Woodward Zeeher, who was assistant to the deceased. The choir sang requiems and the music of the ritual service for the funeral.

The active pallbearers were Donald Dewart, a son; John M. Nelson, Jr., William F. Cochran, W. Bladen Jones, J. J. Tallafra, and H. H. Governor, Carlyle Barton and Morris Whitridge, most of them men high in the city's financial, business and professional circles.

Interment was in Greenmount Cemetery, Baltimore.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Any man who loses his conscience has nothing left worth keeping.

Don't make the mistake of confusing hot air and enthusiasm; they are widely different. Saving money isn't so much in what you save, as it is the system and organization you introduce into your life.

Some of the men who frequently speak of themselves as "self-made" are often badly in need of alterations and repairs. The things that count in life are not the things we have, but what we use. Not what we see, but what we choose.

UNIVERSITY THRIFTE

The feature pictures at the University for four days beginning Sunday are "College" starring Buster Keaton and "Sally in Alley" with Shirley Mason and Richard Arlen.

"College" offers Buster Keaton in an entirely new setting and presents his famous facial antics against a quickly shifting background of baseball games, track meets, regattas and fraternity celebrations. He is the boy, bright enough, alumnus of a little high school, but not so big a fish in the larger collegiate pond, especially as the little lady of his heart insists that he must be an athletic prowess. The finale of the picture occurs at the annual boat race. Buster hoping to be coxswain of his college crew, "colleges" even to persons who have not seen it, has two cardinal and unusual virtues: It was made by professional humorists and it was made with college men and college athletes appearing in a college story.

In "Sally in Alley" Shirley Mason, feminine lead, has a role that is similar in spirit to that of her greatest success of the past year for the same company, "Sweet Rosie O'Grady." Appearing opposite Mason is Richard Arlen, who has earned commendation through his portrayals in "The Blood Ship," "Rolled Stockings" and "White Lies." For the last several days of the week the pictures are "Tell It to Sweeney" with Chester Conklin and Geo. Bancroft and "The Loves of Ricardo" with Geo. Bancroft and Beatrice Lillie. Comedy adorn the railroad story, "Tell It to Sweeney." Chester Conklin and George Bancroft make their point as a comedy team in this lively, enjoyable vehicle. Doris Hill has the leading feminine role, while the handsome Jack Lubin is the clever, romantic, Doris's Jack. Conklin and Bancroft supply the comedy of which there is no end.

"The Loves of Ricardo" is one of the most human stories that have ever come to the screen. It is the tale of the love of a little fruit merchant for his ward, a pretty girl who does not love him. Ricardo is a classic content with and shares his secrets with his old horse, Muscadine. He has his more than just a horse, who understands his little fruit merchant. He is the actor's only friend and confidant. Later his old friend friend is worked into a climax which comes as an immense surprise, ending a delightful story in a dash of romantic action. As an added attraction for the week, beginning Monday, Dec. 12, Jimmie Gallagher, "still hanging on."

MYSTIC LEAGUE NAMES WADE L. GRINDLE

At a meeting of the Mystic Valley Football League held Wednesday at Melrose High School Principal Wade L. Grindle of the Winchester High School was elected president of the organization for next season. Orel Bean, principal of Woburn High, was elected secretary. In consideration of the fact that Winchester, Arlington and Melrose finished the past season in a triple tie for first place in the league, it was decided to award no championship cup, but rather to award a trophy to the school a handsome plaque. Sentiment among those attending the meeting was that the 1927 season had been the best of the league has had since its inception. The schedule for 1928 was discussed but not definitely decided upon.

AND STILL THEY COME

Two permits to erect gas-line filling stations in the square were granted by the Board of Health Monday evening. One was granted to Clotilde E. Jones of Winthrop, station to be erected at 579-581 Main street; and the other to the Melrose branch of Arlington at 509-601 Main street. The stations are to replace the one story block of stores formerly occupied by the automobile garage, a grocery, laundry and restaurant, the whole of recent construction; and the former Cogswell property, at present occupied by the Blue Bird Laundry. It is said that two Winchester men, Francis Mallin of 336 Main street and P. T. Foley of 780 Main street, are respectively behind the individual projects.

CALUMNET NOTES

A close match on Tuesday night was that between teams 19 and 20, and although the former got away with all four points it was by a narrow margin throughout. Team 15 suffered another defeat, team 11 tying all four. Team 7 got three from 13 in a well fought game also. Brown led in the individual work with a total of 311 on 118 for his team. Gendron rolled 295 with 113, Emory 114, Hildreth 112, Davidson and Chapin 107 each, Chambers 106 and Cameron 105.

A. L. A. SUGGESTS UNIFORM PARKING CODE

The dockets of municipal district courts of New England cities and towns have been crowded for the past few months with cases which show a clear and unmistakable need of the clearing of the foggy atmosphere surrounding the city traffic and parking laws.

At no previous time have there been so many cases cluttering the courts as those now being tried for minor traffic offenses. A careful and complete survey of the situation has been made by the officials of the Automobile Local Association and they are the authority for the following facts and figures:

Of the many defendants interviewed recently only two per cent knew that they had no right to park, but took a chance.

Of the remaining 98 per cent the majority said that they looked for signs, but misunderstood because the signs were poorly placed.

Many of the streets are poorly marked. Lack of uniformity in placing signs results in confusion.

When a person is convicted for parking in violation of the law and where no proper warning signs are placed to the person feels that he is the victim of unjust prosecution.

Following a diagnosis of the situation in New England, the Automobile Local Association offers the many and practical suggestion of a universal curb-stone-painting color scheme which shall tell beyond the slightest possibility of doubt the exact classification of the parking law under which each street comes. The advantage is readily understood. The motorist traveling through various cities would not be confused over time limits but would know at a glance the limit of parking allowed.

There is no general law governing the marking of parking spaces and so it is hoped that a suggestion from an organization which is in a position to see all sides of the situation, will be of help in establishing a universally agreed upon scheme. Some of the cities and towns are already beginning to adopt a color scheme relative to parking time. It is believed that a uniformity in this will be of distinct advantage to all concerned as lack of uniformity adds to the confusion.

The painting of the curb-stones need not be an expensive proposition. Strips 12 inches long and three inches wide could be made at distances of three feet apart. It is the color which would tell the story.

From earliest childhood everyone has been trained to recognize the National colors and in testing out a color scheme they have proven the easiest to remember. The suggestion is made after careful study that red be used to designate no parking, white to signify not over one half hour of parking, and blue shall mean not over one hour parking.

The advantages of this uniform color scheme that it would enable the traveling motorist to know at a glance what parking privileges are allowed in every city through which he may pass.

HULL: A CENTER OF WHALING AND LEARNING

Hull, England, has recently completed plans for the building of a new university. This thriving North Sea port has a special interest to Americans because of its connection with early larger fishing vessels, a building from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. From a creek opposite the city of Hull, the British whaler, the River Humber, carries the fish to the river, and the fish are then carried to the city of Hull in Massachusetts.

English Gateway to Scandinavia

The English city of Hull is in East Yorkshire and has more than a quarter of a million people. It is a port of departure for travelers from England to Norway and Sweden. Tourists, traffic is especially heavy in summer when holiday makers seek "the Land of the Midnight Sun." Returning steamers bring heavy cargoes of Norwegian lumber and Swedish grain. Grain from Russia and the United States, and butter from Holland and Denmark are imported for the dense population crowded in near-by manufacturing towns.

Ships sail for the continent loaded with coal from Yorkshire's mines, and cotton goods, seed oil, iron-ware and chemicals from her factories. Laid Aberdeenshire, Scotland, Hull is a home port of the great North Sea fishing fleet, whose armed trawlers performed signal service as mine sweepers during the World War. From the landing of Englishmen on the soil of the New World to the time of America's Civil War, Hull was a port of the British whaling industry, and it set out the first steam-whaler. When petroleum supplanted whale oil for lighting, however, the fleet could not pay profits and the picturesque vessels have vanished from the seas.

A SEAPORT BUILT BY A KING

Hull is the only city in the British Isles deliberately founded by a king as a shipping center. Edward I was attracted by the favorable location of the medieval village of Wicks at the junction of the River Hull with the Humber, about 22 miles from open sea. He granted the citizens a charter and changed the name of the new port to Kingston-upon-Hull, which is still the official designation of the city. Edward offered land to settlers and later monarchs granted further charters and permits to hold fairs. In later centuries burghers of Hull do not appear to have been particularly loyal. In 1536, for example, they refused to admit Charles I within its gates in consideration of the opening acts of the English Civil War. Andrew Marvell, secretary to Oliver Cromwell and colleague of the poet Milton, was one of Hull's first visitors. In 1643, after a three-year another native of the Yorkshire port, William Winifred, led the movement for abolition of slavery in the British colonies. Winifred, a merchant is one of the striking features of the modern city.

The older portion of Hull is an is-

METHODIST BAZAAR VERY SUCCESSFUL

The bad weather of last Friday failed to keep good sized crowds from patronizing the Christmas Bazaar, held during the entire day in the Town Hall under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church with Mrs. J. Walter Moran, general chairman in charge of arrangements.

The many booths displaying a variety of seasonal merchandise were most attractive in decorations suggestive of the Christmas season while the stage was decorated with small and large potted ferns.

A luncheon was served from 12 until 1 o'clock by the Young Women's Club of the church under the leadership of Miss Molly Hodge.

Featuring the talent during the afternoon was the appearance of a group of local Girl Scouts, including the popular Bugle and Drum Corps who played under the direction of their splendid Drum-Major, Marie Dresser.

The assisting scouts were the group of Capt. Irene Clark and Capt. Helen Moran. Their spirited singing under the direction of Miss Moran, of "The Girl Scout," "Follow the Gleam," "America" and the "Star Spangled Banner" was greatly enjoyed. Miss Barbara Ritchie accompanied her sister scouts upon the piano.

More than 800 tickets were sold in advance for the motion picture performance which took place during the evening under the supervision of Mrs. Anna M. Dunning. By starting time every seat in the hall had been sold to an enthusiastic audience. Vincent P. Clarke served as head usher. The motion picture program included Pathe News, a Comedy reel and the popular "Country Doctor." All three were much enjoyed.

Strictly speaking the bazaar did not close until last night when the articles remaining from last Friday were sold at a supper held in the Church vestry under the direction of Mrs. Frank Roberts.

Mrs. J. Walter Moran, general chairman of the bazaar, was assisted by a group of chairmen and sub-chairmen in direct charge of the various booths. They were as follows: Mrs. Jane Dodge and Mrs. A. B. Bent, apron table; Mrs. A. P. Wellborn and Mrs. Vincent P. Clarke, candy; Mrs. Edward Dunning and Mrs. F. G. H. Finmore, food table; Mrs. Oscar Billings and Mrs. George F. Davidson, fund articles; Mrs. G. Raymond Bancroft and Mrs. B. F. Miner, miscellaneous articles; Mrs. G. Henry McMillan and Mrs. Norman Osborne, table and chairs; Mrs. Frank W. Roberts and Mrs. Herbert Sells, white elephant table.

The bazaar was voted socially a great success and advance information indicates that it was equally successful financially.

ELKS HELD ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICE

Despite the inclement weather there was a good attendance at the memorial service held last Sunday evening in Lyceum Hall by Winchester Lodge of Elks.

The ritualistic memorial service was conducted by Exalted Ruler George H. Lohman who was assisted by the officers of the lodge, including Thomas F. Fallon, E.L.K.; Bernard F. Cullen, E.L.K.; John F. Donahue, E.L.K.; Dr. James H. O'Connor, Sec.; John P. Cullen, Treasurer; Andrew P. Harrold, Tilg; Timothy J. Connors, Esquire and J. Irvine Johnson, Chaplain.

Dr. James H. O'Connor, Secretary, read the list of those Winchester Elks who have passed on since the inception of the Lodge 3 years ago. The memorial address was this year delivered by Rev. Truman Hemenway, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, who held the attention of his hearers closely throughout his discourse. Mr. T. Parker Clarke, tenor, sang Sullivan's "The Lost Chord" and "Beside Still Waters" by Hamblen.

Instrumental music upon the violin, cello and piano was played in the arrangement by Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Trudeau and Mrs. George H. Lohman. Their program included the "Cajun Animant" from Rossini's "Cavaleria Rusticana" by Rossini and "Love Song" by Fleigler. The keynote of the entire service was simplicity, yet the whole was most impressive. Many thought one of the best the local Lodge has yet sponsored.

ENTERTAIN BLIND

Mr. and Mrs. T. Parker Clarke and Miss Amy Bridgeman Give Interesting Program

On Saturday afternoon, Dec. 3 an entertainment was given at the Perkins Institute for the Blind, Watertown, for the older boys, under the auspices of the Boston Committee for the Blind.

Miss Amy Bridgeman of Winchester read some of her own poems, which were very beautiful and much appreciated.

Mr. T. Parker Clarke of 127 Mt. Vernon street sang a number of songs and Mrs. Clarke accompanied him at the piano. Mr. Clarke also explained the mechanism of the trombone to the boys and then played selections on it.

Mrs. Benjamin Tishler of Chestnut Hill is chairman of the Boston Committee for the Blind and Mrs. Naumburg of Winchester is in charge of entertainments.

Whole Alphabet in Name

Here is a simple way to learn the letters of the Hawaiian alphabet. A son was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Alohiha of Honolulu. And the child was named:

Joseph Keohokahikamikanikahoe Alohiha.

The youngster's middle name contains all the letters of the Hawaiian alphabet with the exception of "w." Literally translated the name means "the hair of the king is like the wind of Kahoehoe." Kahoehoe is a settlement on the island of Maui.

SEVERAL AUTO ACCIDENTS OVER PAST WEEK-END

Several automobile accidents involving some property damaged were reported in Winchester over the past week-end.

At 1 o'clock on Friday afternoon a Ford truck owned by the London Dye Company of 1911 Revere Beach Parkway and operated by Abraham Handelman of 33 Holyoke street, Malden, was in collision with Washington street at the junction of Mt. Vernon street with a second Ford truck owned by Grace S. Garbino of 718 Main street and driven by her son, Amedeo Garbino. Handelman was headed south on Washington street while Garbino was turning left from Mt. Vernon street to go north on Washington street. Both trucks were damaged.

The same evening, at 1:15 Frederick J. Holland of 12 Hancock street operating a Ford truck, the property of the Economy Stores of 205 A. street, South Boston, while driving out of a yard at 460 Main street was in collision with a Ford sedan which was going south on Main street and which was owned and operated by Harry A. Kaplan of 69 Washington street, Dorchester. Both machines were damaged.

One hour later the Auburn sedan of Charles MacDonald of 6 Breed Square, Lynn, in going east through the center, struck the large beam on the railroad crossing. The latter convincingly demonstrated its sturdy construction at the expense of Mr. MacDonald's car.

Saturday evening at 6:30 on Edward P. Norris of 10 Fairmount street was driving a Dodge sedan south on Main street and was turning to enter the Colonial Filling Station north of the square, his machine was in collision with a Buick sedan owned and operated by Mrs. H. M. Savage of 15 Fletcher street. The damage to both cars was slight.

DRESS ACCORDING TO THE WEATHER

"Dress according to the weather, not according to the calendar," says Mr. M. E. Champion, Director of the Division of Hygiene of the State Department of Public Health. The recent variations in weather have made the question of the proper thickness of dress very much of a problem. "I am desperately warm, but now that I have started to wear this coat I don't dare change to a lighter one," says the adult who adheres to the old conception of calendar regulation of dress.

The small child is the greatest sufferer from this malady of good intentions. His mother realizes that with the passing of Thanksgiving that winter has most surely set in and proceeds to dress him in the wintry blasts—absolutely regardless of the warm day. He sweaters indoors in his long-sleeved and long-legged woollen covered over with other under-garments and topped off with a heavy suit. His hope of comfort out of doors is shattered as he is huddled into the new woollen leggings suit with a cap to match! Remember the woollen underwear feels as bad to the child as to the grown-up and also it shrinks wickedly. The long-sleeved, long-legged variety is hard to change when the legs get wet. Short-sleeved and short-legged two piece cotton is better. Dress him for the moderately heated home and then on the very cold days put on the heavier outside clothing for the out of doors.

Over-heating lowers the vitality and the resistance to cold. Instead of giving protection, the heavy clothing is often responsible for the winter cold. So rely upon your thermometer and not your calendar to determine the amount and thickness of your clothing.

WINCHESTER MOTORISTS INJURED IN ARRLINGTON

Automobiles operated by Joseph W. DeRosa of 16 High street, this town and Frederick F. Davis of 35 Lincoln street, Winchendon, were in collision on Summer street, near Washington street, Arlington, Sunday afternoon. Two occupants of the DeRosa car were taken to the Symmes Arlington Hospital for treatment.

With Mr. DeRosa were Mrs. Agnes Wilson of 522 Geneva street, Dorchester; Mrs. J. J. Hurley of 43 Dudley street, Arlington; and Mrs. Mary E. DeRosa. The DeRosa car was forced off the roadway, and tipped over. The driver was cut quite badly and Mrs. Wilson had a bruise on her forehead. Mrs. Hurley and Miss DeRosa were removed to Mrs. Hurley's home, having sustained a shaking up and bruises. No one in the Davis car was injured.

ONE HUNDRED ELKS WENT TO BROOKLINE

Over 2000 Elks assembled at the Brookline Town Hall on Monday night to do honor to District Deputy Thomas Brady of Massachusetts Central. Delegations attended from Rhode Island, New Hampshire and Connecticut as well as from every one of the 55 lodges of this State, and all officers of the 15 lodges in the Central District turned out. Over 100 local Elks left Winchester to attend the visitation. Fred H. Scholl, P. E. R., acted as Esquire for the Winchester delegation, and Fred D. Clement, P.E.R., and Maurice Dintona, P.E.R., acted as honorary escort to E.R. George H. Lohman and his officers.

THE HESSES AND THE HESSIANS

The German State of Hesse, which is reported to have abolished capital punishment, lies in the middle reaches of the Rhine Valley and is slightly larger than Delaware, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic Society.

Though small in area Hesse is ancient in history and important in its position at the junction of the River Main with Rhine. The modern state was formed from the Grand Duchy of Hesse-Darmstadt, so called to distinguish it from its neighbor Hesse-Cassel.

The two Hesses were formerly one, but the duchies were separated in the 16th century. It was from Hesse-Cassel, now a part of Prussia, and not from the modern state of Hesse that George III of England secured his mercenary troops for use against the American revolutionists. After the incorporation of Hesse-Cassel into Prussia in 1866, Hesse-Darmstadt was known as the Grand Duchy of Hesse and later became a state of the German Republic, called simply Hesse.

State Cut in Half by Prussia
As at present constituted Hesse consists of three provinces, Rhine-Hessen and Starkenburg, the one on either side of the Rhine. Ober-Hessen, cut off from these by a narrow strip of Prussia, is situated in a region of low hills which separate the valleys of the Rhine and the Weser. The whole state has the shape of a dumb-bell from which the connecting rail has been removed. Rhein-Hessen and Starkenburg form one half and the other Hesse the other. The district surrounding the Prussian city of Frankfurt separates the two.

Ober-Hessen is an interesting country with its hills rich in iron and manganese and its fields of waving rye and barley. Gießen is the capital and chief city of this isolated province. The pride of the town of Gießen is its university, founded in 1527. In the main, however, Ober-Hessen is an agricultural and industrial region.

Land of Historic Cities
For romance the traveler must seek the river provinces of Rhein-Hessen and Starkenburg, where are vineyards world famous for their sparkling wines and cities which date back to the days when the Rhine was northward of the Roman Empire.

Such a city is Mainz near the junction of Main and Rhine Rivers, formerly one of the strongest fortifications in the Rhine Valley. Here the Roman general Drusus, stepson of the Emperor Augustus, established a camp, around which gathered German and Roman traders. This grew up a city which later became the capital of a Roman province and the base of Roman operations. Christian religion was introduced and after the fall of the Roman Empire the city was for centuries ruled by its bishops. After the formation of the German Empire, Mainz was strongly fortified, but these fortifications were demolished in 1926. In recent years the city has served as headquarters of the Commander-in-Chief of the French Army of Occupation.

Another historic city of Hesse is Worms where Martin Luther defended his doctrines before the Emperor Charles V. One of the most distinguished audiences ever assembled gathered to witness the occasion. The ancient episcopal palace in which the historic scene took place has been demolished, but a modern memorial now marks the spot. Worms boasts a 300-year-old cathedral that is considered one of the finest examples of Romanesque architecture in Germany.

Revolutionary Hessians From Modern Prussia

Darmstadt, capital of the modern state of Hesse, is an industrial town of about 30,000 inhabitants, situated in the middle of a flat country of little interest to tourists. It is noted for its iron foundries, machine shops, and chemical works. The city has pleasant residential sections and a dual palace dating from the 14th century. It was residence here that gave the rulers of this region the title of Landgraves of Hesse-Darmstadt to distinguish them from their neighbors the Landgraves of Hesse-Cassel who lived in the city of Cassel further to the north. It was from Cassel that Hessian mercenaries departed for America in Revolutionary times. Frederick of Prussia is said to have so disapproved of the proceedings that he levied a cattle tax on the little army when it passed through his dominions, saying that they were hired out like animals. In 1866 Hesse-Cassel was annexed to Prussia because that duchy had sided with Austria in the war between these two great German states.

Thus it is that the American student of history must look to modern Prussia instead of modern Hesse for the home of the Hessians of Revolutionary fame. But he will find in modern Hesse, the old Hesse-Darmstadt, a Rhine country full of scenic charm and historic splendor, teeming alike with romantic legend and up-to-date industrial enterprise.

Loose's Attributes

"When one is in love," says Rudyard Kipling, the English writer, in an article in Liberty, "one's vision is limited and concentrated. When one begins to realize quite ordinary, everyday things again, it's a sign one is no longer in love."

Hid Surplus Coin in

Jars of Baked Clay

One of the most interesting finds in a coin bank collection is an ancient "adultera" or baked clay jar about a foot high obtained from San Juan, Porto Rico. It is round in shape and with an opening of about two or three inches in diameter. It was brought to Porto Rico from Saville and Cadiz during the colonization period of the island and served for a long time for the carrying of olive oil. Later, they were used by families in the homes of the poor to carry water from the brooklets and rivers, and in the homes of the rich to store money. When filled with gold and silver coins, a cork or wooden stopper was put in the top and then sealed with sealing wax. After this they buried the "adultera" in the ground or hid them in the ceilings of their homes.

The custom was brought over from Spain, where money was also buried in the ground. The use of the "adultera" in Porto Rico started about the middle of the sixteenth century, when the first settlers began to realize profits from their farms and from the sale of fruits. Exchange.

Cats Alike Fond of ## Traveling and Home

The glare of limelight that recently fell upon Fluffy, the London Victoria station cat, who boards the 10-15 train to Lower every morning, hardly opens new ground, at the hotel there, and returns to town by the afternoon train, is a reminder of a curious fact about cats; they are at once the greatest travelers and the greatest "home-bodies" of all householded animals. Other cats in England, and indeed, in most countries, regularly journey long distances on trains, usually in the restaurant car, but sometimes with the train crew. As for seafaring cats, there must be hundreds of thousands of them, from North cape to the Horn, Southampton water to Nagasaki bay. Most liners carry quite a number; there are White Star vessels with five and twenty aboard. There was an amusing incident not long ago when one of the Adriatic's cats, that had failed to turn up when the ship sailed, appeared for the next voyage with its tail proudly waving in the breeze and five little kittens trotting along behind. ## Normal Span of Life

May Yet Be Century

One of the greatest advantages of the modern civilization is the way in which the span of human life has been increased, points out Brenda Ueland in an article in Liberty.

"The span of useful life used to be only forty-five years," the writer explains. "Now people are living until seventy in full brightness and vigor. In the future they will be living until eighty or ninety or a hundred. And the result is that the center point of humanity has shifted from the twenties to near the fifties."
"At the court of Louis XV," the writer continues, "a man's prime was twenty-five. After that the downward slope. Today a man of twenty-five is one whose father is wondering whether to send him to a law or a medical school, or set him at work. Formerly a woman of twenty was an old maid; a woman of thirty-five often was a grandmother."

FOUR MOTORISTS HURT WHEN MACHINE STRIKES TREE

The four occupants of a Ford touring car, driven by William J. McMahon of 29 Park street, Somerville, were injured last Sunday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock when their machine struck a tree on Cambridge street near the Boat Club, following a collision with a Studebaker sedan, owned and operated by John Robinson of 10 Hancock street, Boston. Both cars were going in a northerly direction and the Studebaker was passing the Ford when the collision occurred, the smaller car running headlong into a tree, following the crash.

The four occupants of the car, Mrs. Florence Quinn of 29 Park street, Somerville, the owner, John J. Quinn of the same address, William J. McMahon, also of 29 Park street, Somerville, and Anna Gettis of 96 Holmes street, Dorchester, were taken by Lawrence J. White of 121 Forest street, Milford, to the office of Dr. Allen Cunningham where they were treated for their injuries.

Mrs. Quinn sustained cuts upon the hands and legs and Miss Gettis, injuries to her chest. Mr. Quinn had both legs injured and Mr. McMahon was cut about the legs. The Ford was badly wrecked and was towed to the Central Garage. The occupants of the Studebaker were uninjured and the car was only slightly damaged.

The police were notified last Friday that the glass door knobs and brass locks had been stolen from two doors of a house in process of construction on Woodside road.

How To Get The Most From Radio

Few owners of radios are familiar enough with the true capabilities of their equipment to get from it more than a small part of its usefulness. When purchasing new accessories, they, more often than not, are dependent upon the sometimes misleading manufacturers' advertising.

To purchase effectively one need not be a radio engineer. Certain definite principles govern radio design. These are explained in a non-technical, pocket-size, radio owner's handbook, which shows how to compare socket-power devices, how to determine the range of tone of a radio, gives simple remedies for common troubles, and tells what features to look for when purchasing equipment, etc.

Whether you have a radio, or may later purchase one, "How to Get the Most from Radio" will help you. Send fifteen cents, addressing L. D. Treffy, 21 Eastman Road, Somerville, Mass., and a copy will be mailed to you.

MISS MARGARET SLATTERY

MARGARET SLATTERY TO SPEAK IN WINCHESTER

Union Service for Young People In Methodist Church Next Sunday at 4:30 P. M.

Miss Margaret Slattery, one of the finest speakers to youth, and in great demand throughout the country, has been secured for the Annual Union Young People's Service, under the auspices of the Inter-Church Forum at the Methodist Church next Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

At 19 years of age, Margaret Slattery was a teacher in the grammar school of Fitchburg. Her influence over her pupils was remarkable and her pioneer work in educational methods soon attracted the attention of the principal of the State Normal School located in that city, and he asked her to become a member of the faculty of the School of Observation and Practice.

In 1912 the Governor of Massachusetts appointed Miss Slattery on the State Board of Education, of which she was a member until her resignation because of long periods of necessary absence from the State.

Some of her best-known books are "The Highway to Leadership," "New Paths Through Old Palestine," "The American Girl and Her Community," "The Girl and Her Religion," "He Took It Upon Himself," "The Charm of the Impossible," and "Just Over the Hill." Some of these books have been translated into Japanese, Chinese, French and Spanish.

Press comments on Miss Slattery's addresses give her high praise as a speaker.

"It is hard to believe that anyone could hear her and not be impressed by her convincing logic, her sincerity and enthusiasm. She has perfect poise, she hardly makes a gesture and her remarkable voice is used to great advantage. Her narrative is simple and forceful and when she indulges in description, the effect is most impressive. Miss Slattery makes a direct appeal to the best in human nature and cannot fail to awaken the conscience of any listener who has yielded to the temptation to lower his standards of personal or community life."

An audience that crowded the hall to the doors and overflowed to the ante-rooms greeted Miss Slattery to-night as she rose to speak on "The Three Passes." Miss Slattery is a sincere and forceful speaker with a message that convinces the mind and reaches the heart."

Margaret Slattery on the platform is an interesting, fascinating speaker who, without apparent effort, holds the unflinching attention of her audience. She is spirited in manner, possesses a keen sense of humor and deep sympathy. Homely truth, plain facts, and stirring incidents illustrate her points in such a way that the listener goes away determined to make more of his life and give more service to his community.

"Margaret Slattery is a friend of youth. She believes in them, challenges them and they respond to a remarkable degree. It is doubtful if anyone on the platform today has a more far-reaching influence on this generation."

Some Testimonies of Youth

"For the first time in my life, I have realized my responsibilities for the making of good citizenship in our country. You have given me an entirely new idea of the term 'law and order' and its meaning in preserving it."

"It was great to hear your words of confidence and trust in this much criticized generation. Our sins are just what you said—cheap and vulgar. You hit it straight on our ideals too. I do not believe we shall fall altogether short of your expectations. Thank you for your first challenge."

"Every word you spoke showed how well you know us. Our contribution to the present day did not look very good to us, believe me. Our president said you put two new words into his vocabulary—can and must. I had heard you two or three years ago."

Young People of High School age and over are urged to hear Miss Slattery Sunday afternoon and par-

President's Day at the Fortnightly on Monday afternoon was an enjoyable occasion. The guests of honor were Mrs. Frederick Glazier Smith, General Federation Director for Massachusetts; Mrs. A. A. Packard, First Vice-President of the State Federation; and Mrs. Philip H. Tirrell, Eighth District Director. Many visiting Presidents and others representing outside clubs were also in attendance.
A reception was held from 2 to 2:30 during which much pleasure was given by the music furnished by the High School Orchestra under the leadership of Miss Knightly.

The meeting was called to order at 2:30, the business was omitted and the President extended a welcome to the guests. The club was fortunate in having representative from the General Federation, the State Federation and the local District. Speaking briefly, Mrs. Packard called to attention the motto of the General Federation, "Unity in Diversity."
Mrs. Smith reminded club members that it was individual responsibility and individual service which makes the Federation what it is; Mrs. Tir-rell reviewed the conference at Reading and recommended that as many as possible attend the conferences.
The program of the afternoon was in the hands of Mrs. Christine E.
Hayden and Mrs. Annette S. Hughes.
Mr. Merlyn Morse, the tenor soloist, accompanied by Miss Lucy Wilson, sang "Passing By" by Purcell; "The Songs My Mother Taught Me" by Dvorak and "Morning" by Pley Speaker. He was well received as the applause indicated. He sang as an encore "Pale Moon."

The lecturer of the afternoon was Mrs. Nina Schumann who, as a representative of 5,000,000 American women, toured Europe to make a survey of the political activities of the woman there. Speaking on the subject, "International Obligations of American Women" she traced the development of women as she has acquired the several obligations that have been laid upon her—the domestic,
the economic, and political obligations and declared that the fourth and most important obligation, and the supreme one not only for women but for the whole world. After reviewing the costs of the Great War she said that in America, perhaps the greatest tragedy of the war is that we have so quickly forgotten it.
It is not even certain that we learned these four lessons of the war:

1. That we are not too civilized to fight.
2. That to be prepared does not prevent war.
3. That war settles nothing.
4. That the United States cannot stay out.

She urged that American women learn these lessons and realize the spiritual weight of their own organizations and then they will be in a fair way to take steps towards the realization of their dream of world peace.
She did not counsel any violent political action but the simple device of talking peace. If each one of the 10,000,000 organized women would talk peace for five minutes a day a mighty weight of spiritual force would be built up. She declared that if women will, they can make the world over into the right kind of a world. The meeting adjourned for a social hour. Tea was served most efficiently under the direction of the social committee, Mrs. Winifred A.
Bennett, Chairman.

Since the Christmas holiday falls upon the regular club day, the next meeting will come one week earlier than usual—Monday, Dec. 19 at 2:30 p. m. in the Town Hall. "A Speaking Acquaintance with Story Book People" is the subject chosen by the chairman of the Literature and Music Committees, Mrs. Marion P. Gale and Mrs. Annette S. Hughes for the Home Talent program which they are planning for this meeting. There will be brief synopses of five net-worthy works of fiction: "The Show Boat" by Edna Ferber; "The Conquest" by Anne Douglas Sedgwick; "The Exquisite Perita" by E.
Barrington; "Tristram" by Edwin Arlington Robinson and "The Aristocrat" by Mrs. Broderick by Joseph Lincoln. Colorful tableaux will introduce the chief characters of each book.
Music will be furnished by "The Cotton Blossom Trio."

Conservation Committee
On Christmas Eve at 7:30 there will be singing around the Community Christmas Tree on the Common.
Everyone is invited to come and sing or at least make a joyful noise. All hands of singers are asked to stop at the Community Tree before starting on their visits about town.
The Fortnightly, since it is responsible for this tree on the Common, wishes to preserve the custom of singing carols around it on Christmas Eve.

Come, everybody, and with true community spirit celebrate the Eve to our Holy Day.
The first two stanzas of the following songs will be used:
"O Come, All Ye Faithful,"
"O Come, Thou True Messiah,"
"Hark! The Herald Angels Sing," "Silent Night,"
"The Wonderful Tree."
If copies of these songs are wanted
call Winchester 0606.
American Home Committee
In spite of the bad weather conflicting engagements and the rush of the Christmas season, many members appeared at Fortnightly Hall on Tuesday afternoon to hear Mrs.
A. Barnham, Chairman, Division of Home-making in the General Federation, whose subject was, "The Pillars of the Home."
The American Home Committee, Mrs. Florence P. Wright, Chairman, was in charge of the afternoon.

BOSTON PARKING SPACE?*Widest Down Town Street

To find space in which to leave the car while one does Christmas shopping is a very serious problem in Boston these days. The widest downtown street in Boston is Franklin street opposite Tharp & Martin's stationery store at 60 Franklin street.
One hour's parking is permitted by the Street Commissioners at this point, and there are three other important advantages to the motor shopper. First, there are no street cars.
Second, the parking space is only one block from Washington street, and the heart of the shopping district, and third, the traffic signal furnishes police supervision almost constantly on the block so that the cars are reasonably free from the possibility of theft.

One of the best features of this wide street is that, although right on the edge of the shopping center of Boston, it is free from the almost impassable automobile traffic of the downtown section of the city. This is not only true of automobiles, but foot traffic is comfortable even in the middle of the Christmas shopping season.
The stores are less crowded and for Christmas cards, stationery and gift shop novelties, one can stand with quicker service and more comfort than anywhere else in down town Boston.

Mrs. Barnham was a very clear speaker, convincing in that she is the mother of a family and has been a home-maker for many years, and apparently has made a deep study of her subject. Her quotations were very much to the point and showed that she appreciates the subtle, in-tangible values of home life. There were many inspiring suggestions and many of the fathers would have profited by hearing some of them.

Some of the points touched upon are briefly: that there should be some standard for girls who expect to become home-makers, and while it is done, a young man should be entitled to know how well prepared his future wife is to make a home and handle money.

Women must ask themselves three questions:
"What are you doing?"
"Why are you doing it?"
"Why are you doing it that way?"
Have a part in view and sail for that port. Joy may be found in the everyday tasks if one has the courage of the commonplace.
We must also have the courage of our citizenship and use our voting privileges intelligently. It has been said that women are the custodians of the nations' morals. Therefore we must have the courage of our convictions in spiritual matters. Courtesy in the home is another important factor making for a happy atmosphere.

At the close of the talk, a rising vote of thanks was given the speaker and the ladies then grouped themselves about an attractively decorated tea table presided over by Doctor Maynard.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

A rare wife attempting to shoot her husband and his able secretary, a thrilling rescue of that secretary from a treacherous surf, a tender love scene in which suspicious circumstances are explained, all these are pictured in "Figures Don't Lie," starring Esther Ralston, which is showing at the University for four days beginning Sunday. Miss Ralston takes the part of a private secretary who carries on the business of her employer, Ford Sterling. While doing so she wins the love of Richard Arlen. On the same program is,
"The Main Event" with Vera Reynolds and Charles Delaney.
For the last three days of the week the pictures are "Shanghai Bound," starring Richard Dix and "The Small Bachelor" with Hilarion Kretzschmar.
"Shanghai Bound," an original screen story by Edward S. (Tex) O'Reilly, is laid along the Yangtze River in China, and follows the adventures of a Chinese during its making. More than 150 were used in the fight scenes in the picture. The Chinese atmosphere was carefully maintained in producing "Shanghai Bound" which is the story of a river boat captain's rescue of a party of American tourists from a horde of buccannier pirates.
Dix plays the lucky captain, with Miss Brian cast as an American heiress. It is said to be Dix's most thrilling picture.

"The Small Bachelor" is a screen version of the short story of the same name by P. G. Wodehouse which appeared recently in Liberty Magazine.
The story created a bombshell of laughter throughout the country and the picture is said to be even more laughable than the written version.

FOOTBALL TEAM FETED

Annual Sports Banquet Held at High School

Forty-five members of this season's football squad were present with Coach Wendell D. Mansfield, Assistant Coach R. V. Hayward and Manager Robert Livingston at the annual Fall Sports banquet held last Saturday evening at the Winchester High School. The 13 letter players of the 1927 championship field hockey team Coach Priscilla Wheeler and Manager Ruth Woodbury were also guests. The banquet was prepared and served by girls of the school's domestic science department under the direction of Miss Gladys Nixon. In honor of the football team the fees were served in the shape of individual footballs resting upon a green gridiron of spun sugar.

It was a grateful party primarily, the hockey squad having been tendered a banquet at the conclusion of its successful season. Seated at the head table were Principal Wade L. Grindle of the high school and Robert M. Stone, Chairman of the School Committee. Arthur G. Sampson, coach of the unbeaten, untied Tuffs eleven; James J. "Happy" Fitzgerald, former Manchester star and All-American Tuff tackle; Kearz Nichols, President of the W. H. S. Athletic Association; Captain Henry Knowlton of the 1927 squad, Captain-elect Kenneth Ames, Manager Robert Livingston and Assistant Manager Alfred Cobble, Coach Mansfield, Assistant Coach Hayward and Coach Wheeler sat at the heads of the three long tables with the members of their teams.

Principal Grindle served as toastmaster in his usual gracious manner. In reviewing the past football season he felt that the team had achieved a notable success.

He called first upon Mr. Stone who stressed the fact that the School Committee wanted more boys to play football rather than a crack team of individual stars. A letter of congratulation to both team and Coach was read by Mr. Grindle for Mr. Quinn who was unable to be present. Coach Sampson was the principal speaker of the evening and as the head of the past season's only Eastern undefeated, untied eleven remarks were of much interest. He stated that an occasional defeat was a good thing for any team, relieving the tension which is sure to accompany a long stretch of winning. The habitual winner soon gets to a place where a defeat is demoralizing as Mr. Sampson felt was the case with the famous Brown "iron men" this year. The speaker congratulated the members of this year's high school eleven and felt that the Melrose game was after all a good example of the athletic maxim that "you can't win all the time." In closing Mr. Sampson paid high tribute to the ability of "Jim" Fitzgerald and Frank McElroy, referring to them not only as sterling football players but as gentlemen, on and off the field.

"Jim" Fitzgerald who followed Mr. Sampson received an ovation. He spoke of the latter's ability to get the very most out of his men and of his own pleasure in following the success of this season's high school eleven. Captain Marie Merrill of the hockey team likewise her club's appreciation of the invitation to be present at the banquet.

In introducing Captain "Henry" Knowlton, Principal Grindle warmly commended him upon his leadership and wonderful ability as a player. "Henry" spoke briefly, thanking the members of his team for the splendid spirit of co-operation which he felt had been the chief factor in the season's success.

Captain-elect "Nasty" Ames proved himself quite an orator following a brief "warm-up" period. He spoke of the inspiration which the team had derived from Knowlton's leadership and hoped to be as worthy of his own team's co-operation and respect as "Henry" had been. In conclusion he promised a real football team to represent the school in 1928.

Assistant Coach Hayward proved an entertaining speaker with a humorous resume of the past season including many really funny anecdotes which had come to his attention in his capacity of mentor to the far-famed "Hedger" boys.

Coach Mansfield, the final speaker, characterized the season of 1927 as the most pleasant he had experienced since coming to Winchester. Everlasting in any way connected with football which had come to his attention in his capacity of mentor to the far-famed "Hedger" boys.

Coach Mansfield, the final speaker, characterized the season of 1927 as the most pleasant he had experienced since coming to Winchester. Everlasting in any way connected with football which had come to his attention in his capacity of mentor to the far-famed "Hedger" boys. In closing he hoped that the boys who had been with him during the past three years had gotten something besides knowledge of football from his teaching, stressing the fact that the game was after all only a means to the end of making those who played it better able to meet the problems of the life following graduation.

In backing out of Winchester place about 41 o'clock last Saturday morning the Hudson brougham of Mrs. Wyna Walker of 4 Lakewood terrace slipped back and collided with a White truck, the property of the Standard Oil Company of Stoneham and driven by John N. Bohert of 197 Lexington street, Woburn. The rear end of the brougham was damaged in the collision.

EPIPHANY MEN HONORED MEMORY OF REV. MR. DEWART

Resolutions upon the death of Rev. Murray W. Dewart, formerly for 10 years rector of the Church of the Epiphany, were adopted at a meeting of the Epiphany Men's Club held in the parish house, December 14. The resolutions were drawn up by Marcus B. May and read by President Edward S. Larned and unanimously adopted. A copy being ordered sent to Mr. Dewart's family in Baltimore.

During the evening three speakers, President Larned, Marcus B. May and past-President Edward S. Larned, paid high tribute to Mr. Dewart who during his rectorship at the Epiphany did much to mold the Men's Club into the strong organization it is at present.

A proposal that the Men's Club erect a memorial to its former rector was approved and a committee was appointed to consider the matter and to report at a subsequent meeting. The committee comprises E. S. Larned, M. B. May, E. Larned, Rev. Truman Hemmway, T. L. Freeborn and L. G. Holden.

The supper which preceded the business session of the club was under the direction of Mrs. Alton B. Johnson, Mrs. Harry Y. Nutt, Mrs. William Little, Mrs. Ralph Warner and Mrs. George P. Arnold. Mrs. John Taylor, Mrs. Rufus Clark, Mrs. Robert Black, Mrs. Elvin Deal and Mrs. Harry Kelley. Mrs. A. B. Corfield was at the piano.

A most interesting illustrated lecture was given, following the business session, by Mr. John M. Corfield, editorial staff of the Boston Transcript who took as his subject, a trip through Spain and French Morocco.

He presented a most interesting speaker, thoroughly versed in his subject, while his slides were unusually beautiful. The next meeting of the club will be held on the evening of Monday, Jan. 9.

INTER-CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE'S FEDERATION NOTES

The Young People's Federation of Protestant churches will hold the second meeting Sunday afternoon, Dec. 18 at 1:30 p. m. in the Methodist Church. The speaker will be Miss Margaret Slattery, who is a very well known woman. Everyone is invited and you should avail yourself of the opportunity of hearing such a widely known speaker. There was a good attendance last month, but we hope for even better this time. The church will unite in singing Christmas carols this year and the young people are asked to meet after the community tree, on the 18th at 1:30 p. m. in the Congregational Church. We will proceed from there to the home for the aged and the Hospital.

A committee is at work on a social program for New Year's Eve.

"FOR CHRISTMAS DELIVERY"

Dec. 14, 1927

To the Editor of the Star:

We offer our humble apologies to a citizen of Winchester, who in a laudable endeavor to lighten the Christmas burden at the local Postoffice, got his Christmas cards ready and brought them to the office Dec. 10, labelled "for Christmas delivery." In some manner the label was accidentally detached, and the cards were immediately sent out. The citizen quite naturally feels that Dec. 10 was altogether too early for "Christmas delivery" and we agree with him. We hope this article will be read by all who received his cards at that early date, and thus know that it was our mistake, and not his intention.

Respectfully,
G. H. Luchman,
Postmaster

THE SHRINE OF SHAKESPEARE

Stratford-on-Avon, whose Shakespearean festival which burned several years ago, has been a seasonal subscription was a market town of great antiquity when the town of Stratford was founded in 1564. A bulletin from the Washington Geographic Society. From the large number of Rome, which is due to have a station on a Roman road across Britain. Thus the spot probably was a trading center during the Roman occupation of England, following the famous visit of Julius Caesar in 55 B. C.

Stratford was mentioned in Domesday Book, from which William the Conqueror figured his tax levies in the eleventh century. At that time it was one of the manors of the Bishop of Worcester who had the right to a mill on the Avon which brought a rent of 10 shillings. The town was the city's famous Thursday market dates from the reign of Richard the Lionhearted.

Shakespeare's School and Church Fused Today

Guilford Hall, in which was located the Grammar School where Shakespeare learned his letters, and the Church of St. Andrew's, which was built in the 15th century and in which Stratford youths still receive their early education. The visitor who arrives early in the morning with a sack on his back and "shining morning" faces, creeping like snails unwillingly to school. They may even be seen in the morning, the school and the church, if the visitor peeps through a little window in order not to disturb the classes. 6,000 visitors a year would disrupt any classroom.

Stratford Church, which Shakespeare attended and in which he, his family and his family were buried, was built during the last two decades of the 15th century. The building, however, has been altered on many occasions. Its most characteristic feature was added until the 15th century, long after the poet's death. An unusual case of continuing building is given by the fact that the same church and school which molded Shakespeare's youth are still open to the use of the town people of Stratford, today a prosperous town of some 10,000 people.

The house in which Shakespeare is thought to have been born and the country cottage where tradition says he courted Anne Hathaway, are half-timbered Elizabethan buildings with a half-timbered roof, set in charming gardens. Their authenticity has been established to the satisfaction of scholars, but even if this were not the case, the atmosphere is a true atmosphere of the spacious days of Elizabeth.

Destroyed to Spite Tourists

Unfortunately New Year's the great house which Shakespeare purchased when he returned to Stratford from London in the days of his prosperity, is no longer standing. It is said to have been purposely destroyed by a later owner, a testy lawyer, who was annoyed at so many visitors. The same gentleman cut down a giant mulberry tree planted by the poet's own hands. To New Place Shakespeare retired for his later years, and at his death it passed to his family and the first of whom was Lady Barnard, Shakespeare's grandchild. The house had been built in 1534 and stood until 1720. Among the interesting buildings of Stratford is Harvard House, home of the family of the founder of Harvard University. This quaint structure has been built in the 16th century in Elizabethan style and is now used as a club for visiting Harvard alumni. At the Red Horse Hotel, Washington Irving wrote his well known description of Stratford-on-Avon; the little parlor is kept today exactly as he left it, fireside chair, poker, and all.

Where Homesick Juliet Are Room Numbers

The Shakespeare Inn is an old-time hostelry with up-to-date comforts and a strange way of marking its bedrooms. Names of Shakespearean characters are painted on the doors instead of numbers, the traveler being assigned by name to his room. His night in "Orchello" or "Hamlet." It gives the uninitiated a start to hear an order for hot water to be sent to "Rosolind" and a room to "King Lear." A quiet house on a quiet street was for many years the home of Miss Marie Correll, the novelist, said to have been greatly admired by Queen Victoria.

Interest in Stratford as Shakespeare's town was not awakened in England until the 19th century and a half after the poet's death. The city was made famous, as it were, by the actor, David Garrick, who promoted a Shakespearean jubilee which brought the world to its doors. A century later the memorial theater was built, which it is now planned to replace by a modern structure of suitable design.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

If a man can't see beauty in a sunset or a real tree—it's no use going to an art museum to see pictures of them.
The world knows little of failures, and cares less—only successes are watched.
Don't criticize your neighbors' faults, but just remember that any fool can knock.
Many men are vain enough to think that they have more brains than the average.
Blows with words are often more painful than with a stone.
This is not so bad as it is.
What we give we have.
What we spent we had.
What we left we lost.

A well known lady of our town desires that we tell our residents that a new sidewalk has been laid along the east side of the Common. She states that she was quite surprised to find it there, and doubts if very many Winchester people know of it.
Well, ladies and gentlemen, the sidewalk is there, and is before noted in these columns. Its patronage remains about the same as before its installation. According to one statistician who keeps fairly close tabs on it, at least six persons have used it during the last three weeks. It is a nice sidewalk and undoubtedly cost a lot of money, so each in on it and try it out before they begin to drive the puns over it to dump the snow on the Common.

ANDREW F. CURTIN & SONS PREPARED FOR CHRISTMAS

Once again this year the old established firm of Andrew F. Curtin & Sons at 42-44 High street, Medford, is ready with everything to simplify your problem of choosing just the right gift for many of the names gracing that sometimes troublesome Christmas list. Never before has this the store been so well equipped.
Last year many local shoppers avoided the huge crowds in the Boston stores during the holiday season, availing themselves of the courteous service to be had at Curtin's which may easily be reached via the Winchester-Medford cars which stop directly opposite its hospitable doors. Especially were those taking the little folks Christmas shopping happy with the welcome which awaited them, and the management is attempting this year to make the ladies' visit even more enjoyable.
Santa Claus is of course present in person and the distinctive lighting effects at the store are a never failing source of delight. Christmas carols are to be sung and played from the balcony of the store on Christmas Eve and there are especially selected radio concerts each afternoon and evening. For the benefit of its out-of-town patrons, Andrew F. Curtin & Sons are keeping their establishment open each evening until Christmas. One of the largest and best assortments of toys to be found in Greater Boston is easily accessible at the Medford store which also carries a complete line of hardware, radios, oil, gas and electric appliances.

UNITARIAN MEN'S CLUB

Last Sunday was Laymen's Day. Our church, as well as the Unitarian churches in Greater Boston and throughout the country, observed the day and the Men's Club took charge of affairs. The platform was occupied by Mr. E. H. Kenerson, president of the Men's Club, Mr. T. R. Godwin, vice-president, Mr. G. B. Cummins, secretary-treasurer and Charles H. Watkins, chairman of the standing committee. Rev. Geo. Hale Reed sat in a pew in the body of the church.

Mr. Kenerson presented the sermon and Messrs. Cummins, Godwin and Watkins assisted in the services. Mr. Kenerson opened his address with a few remarks on the Unitarian faith and what it means to our daily living and life itself.
"For the last two or three generations," he said, "religious belief has been going through a transition period, attended with much discussion and much stirring of thought, in short, much that has been inspiring and helpful and much that has been distressing and discouraging. It passes my belief that the religious wars of the past can occur again that nations will arm and wage war in the name of religion; but we are living in an age of warring ideas, which will continue far down the years to come, perhaps as long as the human race continues; yet our idealism or our faith leads us to look forward to the perfection of a living world in harmony in thought and action."

"We believe," he continued, "in salvation by character and service; salvation of the soul, perhaps, but surely salvation of the human race and those forces within which might drag it down to nothing and destroy forever the divine and spiritual side of life to which I believe everyone of us is heir. Jesus is so much greater than his conception of him as a man, with his message of love and service, working, living, suffering and dying as a fellow human being, than he could be as a supreme and infinite power disguised while on earth to perform a certain appointed and destined mission."

"Unless the church," he said, "can reach the thousands who are forsaking the traditional standards of religion and morality and lift them to the higher level of self discipline for character and service to mankind; unless the evolution and growth of the inner side, the spiritual side of human nature, continues, the human race has no destiny greater than the plants and animals that live upon the earth, and what is worse, the forces of greed and cruelty and ignorance will make life degenerate to the point where it destroys itself, and I need not say that this development and evolution are steadily going on and our definite purpose toward the higher standards of living is advancing on a path that leads to the fulfillment of our ideals. I would not stand here today."

"If our church can not exert a real influence upon our civilization to help maintain the very guarantees that are given to us in our political constitution, we are failing in a very vital way."
"If the Christian world were to receive a revelation today that destroyed the faith and beliefs of centuries, out of the darkness of despair and the chaos of the religious beliefs of millions, would arise new churches tomorrow to meet and serve the needs of the hour, the spiritual side of the church, not only as an institution for social service in its civilization, but as an institution in which God's Fatherhood and the co-operative movement the idealism of the race can conceive. Truth is the ideal of education, as it is of religion and mankind would retain the church in order that the search for the fundamental values of life would continue. Men would continue to dedicate their lives to this service and search, and we would well continue to call them ministers and turn to them for help and stimulation and understanding."

—SHOP IN WINCHESTER—

"We all need," he said, "to pause and take account of these values that we may strengthen our resolution and will so to act as to increase each living and square dealing in the world and swell the tide that leads on through to ultimate perfection."

There were 50 members of the club present. Amongst those who noticed E. H. Kenerson, President; T. R. Godwin, Vice-President; G. B. Cummins, Secretary-Treasurer; C. H. Watkins, Chairman Standing Committee; R. F. Wild, A. V. Rogers, F. E. Alexander, W. E. Wood, R. T. Hale, E. J. Rich, C. C. Miller, H. M. Richmond, G. H. Eastis, E. R. Eustis, F. E. Hollins, R. Byford, D. Earle Osgood, James Hale Reed, C. Meyer, Arthur S. Hays, H. Herbert E. Stone, S. W. H. Taylor.

Members were very much alarmed to receive a summons in their mail last week but, on opening the envelope and proceeding with caution, we found it was none other than a practical command from our President to attend the dinner and social evening of the Men's Club last Friday evening. The summons really did succeed in bringing out a large number to the ladies' night. The feast was prepared by "Bill" Wood in his imitable way. Afterwards, we adjourned to the auditorium and listened to a concert by Mr. Ellbridge W. Newton, musical director and Miss Helen F. Leavitt, pianist and composer. The entertainment consisted of a lecture recital on "How to Enjoy Good Music," Professor Newton, in a manner which was at once pleasing and convincing, explained to the audience how musical ideas grew into the classics of music. He showed how every piece has its simple statement which is developed until it gets into the complexities of music which are hard to appreciate only because they are not understood.

At intervals during Professor Newton's lecture, Miss Leavitt illustrated on the piano. Particularly pleasing was her improvising a piece built on a theme of the development suggested by members of the audience.
The speaker at the January meeting will be Rev. John N. Mark of Arlington and the subject will be, "Robert Burns."

Some questions and answers about our Christmas Club

What is the purpose of the Christmas Club?

The purpose is to help you and others to accumulate a sum of money for a definite purpose.

In what manner does the Christmas Club accomplish this purpose?

The Christmas Club meets a popular demand by enabling those who make use of it to lay by small amounts weekly.

Does everybody pay in the same?

No, there are several classes, and the payments are different in each class.

Is there a membership fee or any cost to join?

No.

What shall I do to become a member?

All that is necessary is to go to the bank, ask to be enrolled as a member, and make the first week's payment or more.

Weekly, or in advance for as many weeks as you desire.

What will happen if I cannot keep up my payments?

If for any reason you discontinue your payments you will be paid the amount you have paid in, at the close of the Club term.

When and how can I withdraw?

Under no circumstances will any withdrawal, either in whole or in part, be allowed in advance. What you deposit will be held for you until the close of the Club term.

What form of receipt do I get when I make payments?

Each member is furnished with a pass book containing fifty double coupons, one of which is detached when the deposit is made, the other remaining in the book, both having been stamped paid by the bank.

What would happen if my Coupon Book was lost, stolen or destroyed?

As we have a complete record of the payments of every member, we will pay you whether you have your receipts or not. We will also give you a fresh book to go on with.

Can I become a member of more than one class?

Yes, you can join one or all of the classes.

When are payments due?

Payments are due Monday of each week, or may be made at any time during the calendar week. They may be made for as many weeks in advance as the depositor desires.

WINCHESTER WAR MEMORIAL

OFFERS MEMORIAL AS GIFT OF SCHOOL CHILDREN

Lewis Parkhurst Wishes to Return $12,172.23 Subscribed by Citizens

Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, who has paid over $25,000 of Winchester's $50,000 War Memorial, in a pamphlet distributed about town this week, declares that the beautiful war memorial, erected by the Town on the High School lot, be credited as a gift by the Winchester school children. In this pamphlet, entitled "The Building of the Winchester War Memorial," a history of the efforts and a compilation of the Town in erecting a suitable memorial to its citizens who served and gave their lives in the World War is reviewed.

The various projects for a memorial are reviewed and the final decision of the Town to erect the present monument by popular subscription is given, together with the vote of 882 to 4. It is commonly known through financial statements published from time to time in the Star that the subscriptions failed woefully in approaching the sum necessary. Over twenty-five of the money was advanced by Mr. Parkhurst who himself subscribed $5,000. The school children were very loyal, and their subscriptions reached almost an 80 per cent mark.

As repeated efforts to open the subscriptions for the memorial in town have failed, and as more than sufficient time has elapsed for the Town to make good its vote has passed, and as Mr. Parkhurst has become practically the entire cost of the memorial himself, it appears that it is his desire that the monument be now dedicated as the gift of the school children of Winchester, and the pamphlet makes public a letter, written Oct. 8, 1927, suggesting that the sum of $12,172.23 subscribed by the citizens be returned to the various donors, leaving the school children to complete the memorial. It is his wish that the credit for the erection of the memorial be given to the school children of the town, aided by his assistance.

As has been previously stated in the columns of the Star, it is a pity that the memorial of the Town of Winchester to its war heroes should be erected by one citizen, and probably Mr. Parkhurst had no more desire to bear the whole burden than any one else, but he pleaded himself to see it that a suitable memorial was erected in this town, and during the exciting days of the war was enthusiastically backed by the town at large. He endeavored in every way to aid the Town in fulfilling this pledge, even by advancing his own private funds, not to mention such individual expenses as may have been incurred in aiding the various committees and insuring that Winchester's memorial should be a work of art that shall go down into the ages as something to which every resident may point with pride.

His present attitude is, according to the Star, well taken. The school children of the town have shown a local interest in the memorial and a conviction with the wishes as expressed by the vote of the elders. With this conviction bearing over two-thirds of the town, no one can be faulted for the town's action and it is an enterprise of the town at large, neither would Mr. Parkhurst have it said that he alone erected the monument for his action after the town had voted to erect it themselves.

It appears that Mr. Parkhurst is quite satisfied to be the gift of the Town's school children, and is better suggesting this together with the last financial statement by the treasurer of the committee, follows:

Oct. 8, 1927

Mr. George E. Wilcox, Chairman of the Winchester War Memorial Committee, Winchester, Mass.

Dear Mr. Wilcox: It is now a year since the war memorial was completed. The town voted to meet the expense of its erection by means of a subscription. An appeal by your committee to the citizens of the town did not bring sufficient funds to complete the work, and you decided, I thought very wisely, not to make another appeal until the work was completed and the citizens could see what they were to get for their money.

It was your plan, as I understood it, to make another appeal immediately after the dedication. However, on making inquiries, your judgment was that the necessary sum could not be raised in that way. Nothing further has, therefore, been done about it. If your committee would be willing to return the subscriptions already received (excepting those of the school children) with a statement to each subscriber that you had not been able to carry out the vote of the town, but were now prepared to defray the expense in another way, I shall be pleased to send you a check sufficient to enable you to do this. After this has been done, then you can fairly say that the memorial was erected by the school children of the town with my assistance.

Will your committee kindly give this matter your immediate attention?

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Lewis Parkhurst

nessed to create power; already plans are under way for the construction of tidal power stations.

How does the moon decrease weight? In the same way that the earth creates it. The law of gravitation formulated by Newton states that every body in existence in the universe attracts every other body. Any two bodies are drawn together, however, with a greater or less force depending on whether they are big (more accurately, have a "great mass") or whether they are little (have a "small mass"); and also depending on whether they are close together or far apart.

Weight in Terms of Gravity. When you, an adult, say that you weigh 150 pounds, you really mean that your "mass" is attracted by the huge earth, when you are on its surface, with the same force with which it attracts 150 lb. of brass or iron units which we arbitrarily call pounds. Because a baby has much less mass than you, it is drawn toward the center of the earth with a smaller force, and we say that it weighs eight or 10 or 15 pounds.

But the moon attracts your mass in exactly the same way that the earth does. It is, however, 239,000 miles away, 50 times as far away as the center of the earth—and it has only one-eightieth as much mass as the earth. So its attraction for you is less than that of the earth. Its pull on you is tremendously less than might appear at first consideration, because any gravitational pull is reduced in proportion to the square of its distance. It figures out that the moon's pull at the earth's surface is only one ten-millionth that of the earth. When the moon exerts its greatest lifting force on you, therefore, when it floats directly overhead, it only succeeds in reducing your weight by an amount less than a fifth that of a drop of water.

MILK CHART FOR MONTH OF NOVEMBER 1927

Published by the Winchester Board of Health

The bacteria count in this chart gives the number of bacteria found in one c. c. taken from the center of the sample after it had been well shaken. It should be remembered that another c. c. taken from the same sample might give a somewhat different count, but the difference would rarely, if ever, exceed 10 per cent.

THE PULL OF THE MOON

The great steamship Leviathan weighs some 10 or 12 pounds less when the moon is directly over it than when it is near the horizon.

Similarly Bill Smith and his automobile, little Willie Smith's teddy bear, and Mrs. Smith's dainty pearl earrings all lose weight under the moon's tide-raising force.

So says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society dealing with the moon's tide-raising force.

But the tide is high

As a matter of fact, continues the bulletin, everywhere on which the moon shines directly down loses a certain amount of its weight. But there need be no fear that we will ever be carried away by the downward pull of gravity which Lewis objects on the basis of the "lifting power" of the moon. In other words, the greatest force of the moon on a given object is not away from it, but toward it.

As a matter of fact, like the moon, this fraction of the total is negligible. But even the

FISHERMAN'S SUNDAY

Fifth Annual Observance Held at First Congregational Church

For the fifth consecutive time Rev. Howard J. Chilly, the pastor, preached the sermon for Winchester's Fisherman's Sunday at the First Congregational Church on Sunday morning, and as usual this annual event was largely attended, not only by the large group of fishermen and parishioners of the church, but by many outside visitors desiring to hear and see this unique observance.

A special sermon was preached by Dr. Chilly, himself a member of this band of disciples of Isaac Walton. The church, as usual, was decorated with a profusion of beautiful flowers, the gifts of the attending fishermen, and as is customary, were distributed to the sick and shut-ins about town after the service.

This unique service was started five years ago by the group of Winchester men who annually attended the sporting camp on Moose River as members of Mr. Charles A. Lane's fishing party. At that time they requested Doctor Chilly, one of their members, to set aside a certain Sunday on which they could attend his church in a body. This was done, and the success of the innovation was so great that it is now looked forward to by the fishermen as one of the most important dates of the early winter.

The attending fishermen were seated in a reserved section of the church, included in their number were the following:

The sermon preached by Doctor Chilly has attracted such attention that it is reproduced herewith:

The Lure of Rod and Reel
Each Spring when the fishing party is made up and all safely aboard the train pulls out of the North Station my spirits begin to rise. I feel like John Bunyan's pilgrim when he entered the wicket gate and the burden of sin rolled off his shoulders forthwith.

Though in my case I hope the load isn't so big. It's parish cares, for a parish is like a large family, and it's amazing what can happen to 1200 people in a year! Into this multiplicity of experience the minister enters. And though it is a varied and vital experience, there comes a time when he must lay it down, or go stale and useless.

I suspect that my own feeling is duplicated, though from other causes, by other men in the party, whether they be business men or professional men. I call to mind the words of the man who said he could do a year's work in 11 months, but he couldn't do it in 12.

Well, it's April or May again, after the long winter. Spring is coming on light or leaden feet, and the call of the out-of-doors is in our ears, heard only by those who know its lure and answered by them as they sort out their fishing tackle and turn their faces to the open spaces beneath the skies of Maine. As the train winds steadily northward the scenery changes from the far advanced Massachusetts to the far more recently slipped her leath. The country looks barren. The meadows are still brown, with here and there red hds on the maples, and the willows along the brooks brick color at the tips. Patches of timid green grass line the water courses. Cattle and horses, released from the confinement of winter range the fields expectantly for succulent grass. Their coats are shaggy, and patches of loose hair from last winter's coat hang in tattered strands waiting to be rubbed off against some fence or post.

The farm houses look more lonely in this bleak, desolate landscape than when they are cozily warmed in winter's snow.

The country roads are muddy and the brooks and streams brawl along in their courses as if in a desperate rush to reach their destination.

As we climb further we pick up other anglers and guides, and they trundle into the car carrying enough fishing artillery to kill every trout in Maine.

The houses begin to thin out, and signs of human habitation almost disappear entirely as the train rumbles along between the trees that fringe the Maine woods.

As we draw near our destination groups of fishermen drop off at the little way-stations where bar boards or wheezy fords await to take them to their favorite fishing camps. At last we have reached the end of our trip and the end of the road. Beyond the station lies Moosehead Lake, the waves lapping the piles beneath the bridge, and the Spencers lift their shoulders against the sky in the blue distance, and Katadin, in the words of a fisherman of poetic fancy are creative images of our trip and the end of the road.

One comes the suitcases and trunks and fishing-gear, and soon we are on the way to the river where our guides with their canoes await us. The party assumes the characteristics of a grammar school just let loose. The guides come by the allotment of Providence—Providence in this case being the manager of the camp. They are a lively crew. French Canadians mostly.

They have the same human eccentricities as men everywhere, with a few native ones added. Some are fat and lazy, some cheerful and energetic. Some morose and dogged, but they seem to be all alike in this—they can string you along they can delight in stuffing you as full of lies as a pudding with plums.

One of these energetic and versatile brethren was asked what the guides did when all the sportsmen had taken themselves home. "Well," he said, "for the first few weeks we sit around and make fun of the sports we've had here!"

On the whole, they are a good lot, and their best gift to the fisherman is a catch. Human nature is pretty much the same world around, and these guides are no exception.

But one must not picture spring-fishing in Maine as all pleasure.

There is discomfort in the woods, mud and snow and dreary rains, and the cold that sometimes one can scarcely handle his tackle.

Yet when you are once safely stowed in the canoe and your pipe is light for the first aromatic smoke after breakfast, and the guide pushes of the canoe into the singing river you forget all these, draw a long breath of satisfaction, look up at the marching cedars, and across the stream to the building trees and down again at the rushing stream and you are ready to shout joy and praise God for the joy and fact of living.

You start off with great expectations and burning, no matter how poor your luck or how poor the river. You're sure you're going to be a record-breaker as you woe the flicker trout, and you're sure you're going to be a record-breaker as you woe the flicker trout, and you're sure you're going to be a record-breaker as you woe the flicker trout.

Are they superior masters of the culinary art, or is it your woods appetite makes you assert you never eat anything cooking before?

Is there anything more delicious than a fresh-caught trout split in two and broiled in front of a fire out-of-doors, the butter dripping down over it for added flavor?

Coffee was made to be drunk out-of-doors and not in a stuffy drawing room. Then it is the nectar of the Gods. And must not made by a guide in the woods is less better than the best.

When the sun comes over, you sprawl on the warm grass or a shaggy rock and listen to the gurgling stream and odor of exchange accounts of the day's doings. Then you take to the river again.

The day done, and the reels wound up for the night, there is the comfort of the woods in the out-of-doors. By an inexpressible law all the men crowd into one camp for the evening. Through a blue haze of tobacco smoke some play cards, some chat, while others try the impossible task of reading. One might as well try to concentrate in a boiler-factory. But then you don't need to concentrate, so there you are!

One by one the guests struggle off to bed, and the night watchman is left to his lonely vigil in the cottage one can begin to distinguish familiar articles through the less dense smoke.

Then you go to bed, with the night watchman in the giant pines and his singing a crooning lullaby which, with the healthy medicine of tired limbs, will send you to sleep and dream that "Knits up the ravished sleeve of care."

But there is more to a fishing-trip than that. It is not always the expert fisherman who gets the most out of fishing. One can make work out of a visit to an idle place, as planned by a guide. Perhaps the man who does not take any of these too seriously gets more out of them. There is a certain pleasure in the fish. There are the voices of a nature in the wilderness.

The woods along the lake shore and river banks are in their spring-dress. Here are the pale lemons, the grey greens, the darker shades of blue. There are a pine tree here, a maple there, and a spruce. The blue mountains ring the inland sea, and speak of stability and peace.

But you don't know the cedar never got there, or he died within a few months after he penned these lines. The cedar was burned after his funeral.

I was talking to a friend the other day about fishermen's luck. He said, "There are only two kinds of fishermen's luck. Those who go fishing in luck, and those who don't go are out of luck." I'm beginning to think he's right.

Away back in the 30's when Oregon was in the hands of the gold rush, a gold miner to California was on, Horace Greeley wrote to Bayard Rustin urging him to go up into the mountains and explore the sources of the Sacramento River, and add: "You'll find grandeur if not gold."

It's grandeur the fisherman finds in the Maine woods in spring. And he knows how we all need to get out into the open and look up at the stars and wash the grit out of our souls, in these dust-laden, soot-grimed lives of ours.

But one not only finds the healing touch of nature and the robust joy of companionship on these fishing trips, he will also find there, if he keeps his eyes and ears open and his heart attuned to the myriad suggestions that come flooding upon him.

Let me quote a letter from a man to a friend only last month.

Let me quote a letter from a man to a friend only last month. You will see he has been hard hit, and for that reason what he says about the voices of nature is of special interest to me. "It must be a wonderful thing, to find the things that he tells about in his attendance at church. I also have earnestly sought for the comfort and inspiration by going to church, but with a very few exceptions I have been disappointed."

When I worked my way through college in New York City thirty-five years ago I got that kind of comfort and inspiration from Father Ducey who spoke each Sunday afternoon at the little church near the old Madison Square Gardens. I got it again when I heard that great patrician and Roman patrician, Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore, speak during the war when I went to the little church near the White House that Dolly Madison was reputed to have attended a great service at the church. The last time I got it was one Easter Sunday in Carnegie Hall, New York City, when I heard the great and noble and inspiring sermon on the Life of Christ.

And these are the only time, that I have been deeply moved by God's grace. I have got my religion from Nature, and I do not know anything more comforting and serene than the Al-mighty's voice when I hear the murmuring rattle of the mountain rain that comes itself into Stinson Lake, surrounded by the wonderful organ of the white pine of the 8000-foot breeze through the leafy tree-tops of the birch trees that surround my little cottage.

The men who on the hill tops by the natives of South Africa thrilled me. The ritual of the man-made religion of the Mohammedans disgusted me. When the thunderous voice of Nature spoke to me in the great earthquake of Jamaica, and picked me up like a sheaf of straw, it terrified me.

with the infinite; it spoke to me in gentle whispers through the winds, singing, the sea, the stars, the ripple of the water, the ever-changing values of light and shadow, as they chased each other across the broad breast of the mountains not far distant.

I felt myself in intimate contact with everything that was created and began to feel being, like the atoms, each drifting cloud, each twinkling sunray, harbors the same longing as I did.

A longing for something eternal and unchangeable on the other side of time and space. In such an environment I began a glorious week among the Lakes and Mountains in Maine from which I brought back a multitude of charming memories."

THE GREEN INN

Theodore Garrison

I wakened of men's company—
The crowded hall, the busy street,
When all day long with each and song
So come I out from men and rout
To rest in God's Green Inn.

How none may mock an empty purse,
How none may mock the empty heart,
But silence waits within the gates,
And peace begets the door that waits.
The weary guest is welcomed,
The tired heart is soothed.

The red, high and arched and blue,
The four walls the sunlight falls
To add to the peace and rest,
And soft and rest, on moonless feet
The feet of the weary guest.

Upon my heart they set their store—
Great dreams, great hopes, great plans,
With all the world of force is bent
To drive the world of force is bent
To drive the world of force is bent.

It's a bit in God's Green Inn,
Unseen by man or beast,
Unseen by man or beast,
Unseen by man or beast,
Unseen by man or beast.

To add to the peace and rest.

And when I read of the bickerings and differences between the theologians of all the sects, and when I worship isn't as receptive as a sponge?

Of course you will not expect me to agree with him in toto. If nature can smother, she can smother. She gives back to each man what he brings to her. I defy any man to get a moral philosophy out of the moods of nature.

In your philosophy of nature you must find the same things that I find in the bird's eye view as well as the bird's eye view. And you cannot harmonize the two from the moral standpoint.

But, aside from all that, nature does speak to us of God, if we have the ears to listen, or else Christ Himself would never have pointed men to God by way of the lily of the field and the sparrow, whose fall was noted by the Heavenly Father.

I do not know how it is with others, but thoughts of immortality always come crowding in upon me when I think of the things that I have seen.

The wide horizon speak of greater spaces still. Men speak of "Mother Earth," but it has never been a satisfying thing to me. The things that I have seen as intimate and satisfying as the light in a cottage window. Instead of that, they turn man's insignificance into light and make thought that set us dreaming of another life beyond our mortal years.

I have never seen a great heaven, however, with the picture of heaven as a place of pearls and golden streets. It is too hard and formal, and the things that I have seen are so much more intimate and satisfying as the light in a cottage window. Instead of that, they turn man's insignificance into light and make thought that set us dreaming of another life beyond our mortal years.

A NEW STATE PRISON ON THE WAY

Governor Fuller to the Rescue—The Prisoners are Building the Wall

Immediately after assuming office as Chief Executive of the Commonwealth, Governor Fuller became intensely interested in the proper care of the feeble-minded, the insane, and the prisoners. He determined on a policy of "paying as you go" and of balancing his budget each year, he met about impossible conditions. These unfortunates as fast as the finances of the state would permit without issuing bonds. At the outset he was handicapped by a floating debt of over a million dollars, inherited from the previous administration, and by the necessity of rebuilding from the current funds of the Commonwealth the Bridgewater Normal School. This alone cost $500,000. Not until the autumn of 1926, when $2,750,000 had already been expended for the defectives of the state, was he able to begin on the plans for a new domicile for the prisoners at Charlestown.

A Site Selected Without Cost to the State
In the Legislature of 1926 and 1927, in his annual budget, the Governor called for an appropriation of $100,000 to be expended in constructing a wall around 40 acres of land in the town of Norfolk, about 25 miles from Boston, a portion of 400 acres which the state owns and has owned there for many years. There later, inside this wall, are to be constructed buildings for housing the prisoners. No better location could have been selected anywhere in the State.

The state originally purchased this land for a hospital for diptherians or drunks, but after a time these men were removed to Bridgewater. The buildings remained vacant for a while. Then they were used, temporarily, after the war, as a hospital for shell-shocked veterans; but these were fast going to ruin when, by vote of the Legislature in the spring of 1927, this land, including the buildings, was transferred to the Department of Correction. A small portion of the tract is tillage land but the greater part is cut-over woodland now covered with bushes and small growth of scrub oaks—worth all together perhaps $25 an acre, with a purchaser hard to find. The land is for the most part high and dry with a fairly good soil and a light coating of loam. There is an abundance of water near at hand, a railroad within half a mile, and a town or village within a couple of miles.

Prisoners Doing the Work
The Governor desired that so far as possible the work of constructing this wall and, later, the buildings inside the wall should be done by the prisoners themselves. That plan is now being carried out.

On June 1, 1927, 12 prisoners were transferred from Charlestown to Norfolk. The number has been gradually increased until there are now 61 at work building the wall. Others have been there and were discharged when their term of imprisonment expired. So far not a single man has escaped or attempted to escape. All are working with a vim and enthusiasm that is most commendable. They are carrying out literally their sentence of doing time and hard labor, working with pick and shovel, trundling wheelbarrows loaded with sand or gravel, hugging concrete to the top of a wall is feet high with no elevation or boring machines on the job. Many of them are learning for the first time in their lives what manual labor means. Their prison pallor soon changes to a ruddy hue. They become real experts in concrete work and when they leave there they will be ready not only to take their places among the producers of the country but will be qualified to direct others, thus becoming an asset to society instead of a future liability. These men will go away feeling that they have had a square deal; that they have been taught something worth while; that, weeks after all the time spent in prison has not been entirely wasted. This will encourage them to try to be law-abiding citizens and not a further burden to the state.

I have been to Norfolk about once a month since the work began and I can say without qualification that I have never seen a more workmanlike piece of concrete construction. The amount accomplished, also, will compare favorably with contract work done elsewhere with the same number of men. Inasmuch as about 55 per cent of the cost of concrete construction is labor, the economy program is being very well carried out. They realize that they are placed there upon their honor and that upon their good conduct depends not only their own welfare, but the success of a project which will mean so much to the inmates of the State Prison for years to come.

Men Selected With Great Care
Until the wall is completed these men from the prisoners at Charlestown must be selected with great care. There are many desperate men confined there; it takes courage and firmness to handle such, and they can not be trusted outside the prison walls. But there is also a large number of comparatively young men, serving their first sentence for short terms. Among these are men whose record conduct in prison is excellent. They have been found trustworthy and willing to work.

Some of them are likely soon to be paroled or discharged. There is every reason for such men to do well at Norfolk, and so far they have.

The Wall Will Be a Good One
The wall which will surround this 40 acres is being built of solid concrete with rods of steel embedded in it every few inches. It is 25 feet high, seven feet under ground and 18 above grade; six feet wide at the bottom, tapering to 18 inches at the top; smooth as glass on the inside; well buttressed on the outside. Some 700 feet in length has already been completed. With the opening of spring, with the present number of men or more, it will go forward rapidly.

During the winter months, when it is too cold to work in the concrete, the men will screen sand and gravel from a gravel pit near at hand, excavate for the foundations of the wall, carry forward the rough grading—all of which can be done to good advantage and will expedite the work when warm weather comes again.

Economies in Operation and Management
There would manifestly be many and great economies in operating a mercantile or manufacturing plant built at the present time as compared with one constructed and equipped 12 years ago. The same is true of a prison. I will mention four items which would apply in this case:

The Boston Assessors value the land occupied at Charlestown at $1,192,200.

Value of land to be occupied at Norfolk $1,192,200.
Interest at 4 1/2 per cent on this difference $1,192,200 would amount annually to $53,649.
In the latest published report of the Commissioner of Correction the cost of food for prisoners per day is given at 25 cents.
At Concord, including all charges for operating and maintaining the farm connected with the reformatory, the cost is 10 1/2 cents.
A difference of 14 1/2 cents per day for 1200 men (the number now under sentence at Charlestown) for 365 days would amount annually to $6,270.
In the last year the bonded repairs and renewals at Charlestown was more than $10,000.
In the new prison for the first few years this item would be very small, a reliable saving annually of 10,000.
When the wall is completed, with all buildings, heated well away from the wall, within and without, and a dead line established 15 or 20 feet from the wall, two armed guards in watchtowers on the top of the wall, at diagonally corners, would be all that would be needed.

At Charlestown five are now required. At $2,000 per annum there would be an annual saving here of $10,000.

While these economies and many others will not only pay the interest but will also, together with the sale of the Charlestown property, liquidate the entire cost of this development, the greatest saving to the Commonwealth will be in man power.

Stand by the Governor

Let us all be thankful that we have a Governor with a clear vision of what is needed, with native sagacity and business experience sufficient to carry out his plans vigorously and economically, with courage to go forward where others have hesitated, to the end that we may have no distant day a prison, not expensive in its construction of lavish in its appointments, but fundamentally well equipped for the service it is expected to render to the state, a prison with an abundance of light and air, with modern toilet accommodations, with space enough for a concrete dining-room, a chapel, a hospital, and a school-room on the ground floor—all of which are wanting at Charlestown.

Let the press of whatever party affiliations, let the churches of all denominations, let the chambers of commerce and all fraternal organizations, let all public spirited citizens, especially let the members of the Legislature, uphold the Governor in his determination to carry this work through to completion as rapidly as it can be done with economy and in accordance with sound business principles.

Lewis Parkhurst

Cultivate Good Mind

Worry produces indigestion and dyspepsia; the gastric juices are not formed. Hate thoroughly, and you will be a martyr to neurasthenia. Be violently jealous, and the upset to the glands sows the seeds of cancer. Be malicious and cruel, and you'll get neurasthenia. Be a fault-finder, a niggard, a scold and a snoring snore. It is impossible to disconnect the mind and the body. An ill thought doesn't stay in the mind; it hits the body somewhere. It has been noted that extreme disgust will produce cancer. It is not always possible to ward off external causes of disease, but we ought to be able to control our minds. Poison in the mind means poison in the body—suffering, and a shortening of life. Have a "good" mind, and you'll have good health.—London Tit-Bits.

Plea for Tolerance

You can't get along with other people if you carry old grudges. Bright people must learn to be tolerant and patient with slower people, and you must learn to compare yourself frankly, honestly and fearlessly with other people.—Albert E. Wiggam.

We All Believe In Santa Claus

When Santa Claus visits your home this year, he will not come in his reindeer sled, as he used to do. Maybe he will come in an airplane. But when you sit down to your Christmas Dinner you will see before you a big TURKEY, very like the one that your great great grandfather looked upon when he sat down to partake of his Christmas Feast. Modes of travel have changed a whole lot since Santa first started out on his errands of good will. But, as the piece de resistance of the Christmas Dinner, TURKEY has not been superseded. Good TURKEY is the very best that the gods have to offer us in good eating.

BETTERMENTS

A resident of Thompson street desires to know where the justice in assessing betterments is found. He states that he has been assessed this street, placing his house exactly on the street line, and then assessed him betterments. As his side of the street is turned into a public automobile park and he can rarely if ever reach his own front door without walking up or down the street, he feels that he has been assessed upon in paying the town for the land taken for this purpose. There appears to be some ground for his complaint.

The assessing of betterments and taxes appears to be something which cannot be governed by anyone. Iron-clad rule and one of two individuals receive little sympathy from an unaffected multitude. As an increase in valuation accompanies the betterment assessment, the property owner, especially on the centre of our town, is usually more than willing to part with his holdings to the first customer who appears with a cold money. The merchants who have their cellars flooded by sewage each Christmas season, while having no redress for inconvenience and damage, have at least the satisfaction of knowing that they will not be assessed any betterment tax. In the one instance the public at large needs better convenience and the few individuals who happen to own affected property must pay a larger part for it, in the other the inconvenience is suffered by a few, who likewise pay the larger part. Without doubt the sufferers from the sewage nuisance would be glad to pay a betterment assessment if it could be paid and conditions remedied without continued financial loss. As tax valuations continue to rise under these conditions, there is no doubt but what ground for dissatisfaction exists and one story buildings minus a cellar are the only means of approaching the situation.

VENISON SUPPER AT MYSTIC VALLEY LODGE

Last week, Thursday evening, Mystic Valley Lodge, A. F. & A. M., held an exceptionally interesting meeting. In the first place the members attending were given a surprise supper of "venison." The "venison" was presented in the Maine Woods by Junior Warden Paul Shiverick, and for the first time in the experience of most of the members they actually had sufficient quantity of "venison" placed before them.

Immediately following the supper
Mr. Albert Northrup entertained the lodge by a moving picture film and a most interesting lecture on "Nature's Frozen Credits." This film traced one of the tremendous electrical developments on Feather River, California, right through the Sierra Nevada Mountains into the original snowfall. Following this entertainment the first degree was worked on two candidates.

The constantly increasing attendance at Mystic Valley Lodge meetings is a wonderful endorsement of the good fellowship that is always in evidence.

FORMER WINCHESTER WOMAN WEDS EX-GOVERNOR

According to newspaper reports reported Friday evening, Mrs. Sarah Fultz Goff, widow of the late William S. Goff and a former well known resident of this town, was married on that day to Wilfred Dent Turner, Ex-Governor of North Carolina. The wedding took place at the "Little Church Around the Corner" (Church of the Transfiguration) in New York.
The couple left immediately on a honeymoon trip to Europe. Mrs. Goff who resided on Myrtle street here, was prominent in Winchester society.
She left Winchester a number of years ago. Her first husband, who worked for the late Louis Goldin, was electrocuted at his shop on Madison avenue.

GRANADA ATTRACTIONS

"Sally In Our Alley," a modernized version of the old song, with Shirley Mason in the title role, is the photoplay attraction of the big Granada Theater in Malden will offer the last three days of this week. The story concerns a little tenement waif, who, after her mother's death is adopted by three bachelors. The regular five act bill of Granada vaudeville, which is a permanent feature of this house, will also be presented the last three days of this week.

Florence Vidor whose patrician countenance and mannerisms have won her popularity the world over, is presented in a new and distinctive role in "Honey-moon Hate," which comes to the Granada for a three days run starting next Monday.
"Honey-moon Hate" is an adaptation of the story by Alice M. Williamson which has just run in serial form in one of the national magazines. It has Venice for its locale; Venice with its strumming guitars, soothing wa-toms, and atmosphere of romantic bliss. Most of the action takes place in the Hotel Danelli. As the fiery and impetuous Gail Grant, American heiress, who is used to getting what she wants, Miss Vidor appears to splendid advantage. In addition to the picture and the five act bill of vaudeville, the Granada Symphony Orchestra and Ray Frazee, organist, will offer musical specialties.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

The University Theatre departs from its usual practice the coming week by running special pictures for one day, only on Sunday, the 25th. These features are "East Side, West Side" a thrilling dramatic picture of New York life starring Geo. O'Brien and "Very Confidential" with charming Madge Bellamy.

For Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday the program includes "On Your Toes" with Reginald Denny and "Wild Beauty" with Rex, the King of Wild Horses. "On Your Toes" is a splendid comedy full of speed and action. Denny, as the good natured prize fighter who was made over from a dancing teacher, is delightful all ways and the story injects him into all manner of strange and embarrassing situations. The complications that involve Denny provide more side-splitting laughter than we have seen for some time. Rex, in "Wild Beauty" is without a doubt the most amazing and paradoxical horse in history. He is a real wild horse and was roped out of a wild herd. But now he is trained to a perfection which exceeds that of horses born and trained in captivity. Jane Marlowe gives an appealing performance as the heroine and Hugh Allen makes a dashing hero actually riding this irascible steed in a stirring race.

For the last three days of the week the pictures are, "The Woman on Trial" and "The College Widow." Pola Negri, in a role superbly suited to her exotic temperament, is due to win many plaudits through her finished performance in "The Woman on Trial." She appears as a modern woman of fashion in Paris wedded to a rich husband whom she does not love. A dual theme is carried out, one indicating the star's unquenchable love for an artist, sick and in poverty; the other bearing on love for her child and the extremity—even to murder—to which a woman will go if her child is taken from her through trickery and force. While the picture is one of essential drama in the romantic scale, the fashion element will also interest many women. Miss Negri appears in the latest and most lavish costumes and fairly scintillates with gorgeous gems.

CAROLINE WILSON

Caroline Wilson, widow of Alfred Wilson, died early Wednesday morning at her home on Fells road of her daughter, Mrs. Amos W. Shepard, following a three weeks' illness.

Mrs. Wilson was 87 years of age and a native of Mass town, Colchester County, Nova Scotia, the daughter of Ferguson and Martha (Pearson) McNutt. She came to Massachusetts 30 years ago and for about three years had made her home in Winchester. Surviving are four daughters: Mrs. Amos W. Shepard of Winchester, Miss Harriet Wilson of Boxford, Miss Alma Wilson of Boxford and Mrs. Frederick Gay of Biddeford, N. S., and two sons, Frank Wilson of Hingham and Harry Wilson of Biddeford, Washington.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Shepard residence, 12 Fells road. The remains were taken to Nova Scotia for interment in Glen Holm Cemetery.

Our line of Christmas Stationery was never more complete. Wilson the Stationer. d16-2t

Changed by Earthquake

The series of earthquake shocks felt in the Mississippi valley, lasted from the 15th of December, 1917, during 20 or 30 months, until the year 1918. There is record of but comparatively few deaths, since the country at that time was very thinly populated. The configuration of the territory was much changed and several lakes and islands were created.

Ducal Strawberries

The exact reason why the strawberry leaf is used as the insignia on the English ducal coronet is not known. Various decorative leaves were employed in heraldry and the ducal coronet in its present form was decided upon by Charles II.

WHITE OAK COAL DEMONSTRATION TRUCK

A unique and impressive demonstration of the clean, smokeless, quick firing properties of White Oak Coal has been devised by its producers and is now making the rounds of leading cities of New England.

Upon the back of the truck a specially constructed platform has been provided upon which is installed an ordinary coal range. A brick fire burns within the range and fresh fuel is added from time to time. Frequent stops are made and the further advantages of this excellent fuel are explained in detail, particular emphasis being made of its free burning properties and remarkably low ash waste.

The demonstration travels from city to city and attracts much favorable comment wherever it goes.

MASSONS TO HOLD NEW YEAR'S PARTY

The annual New Year's get-together of Winchester's Masonic bodies will be held this year on Monday, Jan. 2, from 11 until 1 o'clock in the Masonic Apartments. This gathering is always one of the red letter occasions in local Masonry and plans are being made to make the coming party one of the best ever held. There is to be a musical program and refreshments will be served.

Plenty of Christmas boxes for your gifts. Also seals, tags, wrappings and a good assortment of the better grade of Christmas cards at the Star office.

How To Get The Most From Radio

Few owners of radios are familiar enough with the true capabilities of their equipment to get from it more than a small part of its usefulness. When purchasing new accessories, they, more often than not, are dependent upon the sometimes misleading manufacturers' advertising.

To purchase effectively one need not be a radio engineer. Certain definite principles govern radio design. These are explained in a non-technical, pocket-size, radio owner's handbook, which shows how to compare socket-power devices, how to determine the range of tone of a radio, gives simple remedies for common troubles, and tells what features to look for when purchasing equipment, etc.

Whether you have a radio, or may later purchase one, "How to Get the Most from Radio" will help you. Send fifteen cents, addressing L. D. Frost, 21 Eastman Road, Somerville, Mass., and a copy will be mailed to you.

DAILY PHILOSOPHY

Education helps those who haven't much natural intelligence.

There's nothing equal to self-respect that comes from self-support.

A highbrow is a person who can stand boredom without complaining.

In addition to keeping your ankles warm, a pair of gray spats makes you look like an actor.

Most of us are on the verge of revolt a good deal of the time, but we don't do anything because we're too tightly harassed.

Today is good but tomorrow will be better!

No matter what the conclusion of the high Postoffice official who has been visiting Boston investigating the complaints of the city Chamber of Commerce, every user of the mails has his own opinion regarding our parcel post system.

In addition to being known as the town of dogs and filling stations Winchester will soon be easily recognized by its poles. Several years ago the Board of Selectmen spent much time in eliminating a number of poles from the center. It now appears that they are being placed in double the quantity. From the number of poles zoning up at present it would lead one to believe an elevated railway was in process of construction.

The first week under the new regulations affecting dogs has resulted in two animals being shot by the police and some 25 residents being notified that their dogs were at large contrary to law. There seems to be a prevalent misunderstanding of the regulations, many seeming to believe that a dog may roam about, if muzzled. This is not so, and those who continue to allow their pets to roam at large face prosecution. The fine for violation is $25. All dogs found on the street without collars may be shot by the police. Since the new regulations went into effect there has been a no-nonsense lack of uncollared canines square where formerly one could avoid stepping upon a cowerer. Insofar as the law is concerned this welcome change we certainly are for it.

SUNDAY is Christmas Day. The luster of age-old tradition, undimmed by succeeding years, gathers about this Fairday of the King of Kings and bids us do homage to one of the two great occasions in the Christian year. It is a day to be glad in, to be glad in once more with the spirit of the children for whom Christmas has particular significance. It is a day to remember those who face the holidays with a heavy heart, yet whose grief will be less poignant in the light of understanding sympathy. It is a day to rejoice for friendship, firmer knit through yet another year; to gather with family and friends in the warmth of jollity which is founded upon goodwill and fellowship. Finally it is a day in which to get a little closer to our fellow men, to relax the everyday barriers of social and business cleavage and allow our hearts to become leavened with the happy spirit which prompted Dickens' immortal Tiny Tim to pipe on Christmas morn, "God Bless Us Every One."

The new walk on the east side of the Common is being discovered by more and more people daily. If it is a condition in which it is but a question of time when it will be necessary to widen it. The ladies especially are greatly interested in it. One lady informed the STAR that she thought it unnecessary. She visited the center and especially to inspect it, had tried it, and does not appear to be as much as they are. She was surprised to find that she had been informed she was to be in front of her house it would be much more serviceable, sensible and practical. Another lady called to take us to task for our sarcastic comments regarding it. She too had tried it, and found it very smooth and very convenient. She gave it her approval. The best visit to the date was not a bad one. The Common, the States, and why the walkers should have a south walk. The STAR gives her approval. It trusts to the fact that the congested traffic, for with a walk completely encircling the Common, will not the throng using it in the winter months that provided on the East side? Walking is becoming more and more popular in the list of sports, and with lay-out such as is proposed by Winchester would rank first among suburban towns in recognizing the needs of its residents. The STAR approves the scheme—and it especially wants that fellow who walks down the east path every morning and who stops occasionally to throw a dirty look our way, to know it.

A loud and vociferous complaint appears on the horizon regarding the odor and menace to the health of the public from the open sewer now flowing from Winchester to the sea under the eageness of the Abernethy River. Once again the multitude is put-out. The few individuals, mostly Winchester merchants, who have previously suffered not only a greater menace to their health but heavily in a financial way, trust that the public will not close this Abernethy sewer at least not until they may receive assurance that they may be reimbursed for the property damage through the closed sewer entering their cellars. If that can be effected, no doubt they will be glad to aid in financing the art for everyone. It was two years ago that they spent the holiday season salvaging merchandise and pumping out cellars, and while the bills are in part paid they are not forgotten. No doubt those few are sympathetically inclined towards the public at large in its difficult and dangerous problem, but they have already had their taste (and smell), and also realize that when the bill for the remedy comes through they will pay more than any one else. Of course it is not nice to decorate our Parkway with a sewer, and everyone wants to stop it. The only trouble was, years ago, that the sewer entered just a few cellars and that the victims did not constitute the public at large. It was distinctly and emphatically their own individual misfortune. While their problem must not be as serious as that of the public, they have to pay the bill without any outside assistance and with little sympathy, and the STAR for one would like to keep that Abernethy sewer open until such time as the Town and State is willing to include in its bill of costs the expense of these few homes or are threatened with. In the meantime let everyone keep the dogs inside and cover the automobile exhausts and conserve the air, and the River will not seem half so bad.

MY CONTRIBUTION CANNOT BE RETURNED

To Whom It May Concern:

I read in the Winchester Star, articles about our War Memorial, with sorrow and pride mingled with disgust. Sorrow that one man practically owns our beautiful War Memorial to date (without choosing to do so). Pride because I, with 241, voted in a well-attended town meeting, to pay the debt by taxation. This motion was lost. Later I with 881 others voted, to raise the money by popular subscription. Why? Because I wanted to help pay for this beautiful memorial for our boys—insignificant as it is, compared with what they gave for us. Disgusted at the way our people contributed after so large a vote for popular subscription was lost. We have done voters. About $12.50 each would have paid the bill and no doubt some gave much more. I am ashamed of my small contribution toward this worthy cause, but one would think it easy in a rich town like Winchester to raise $50,000. No, fight wads owning and living in ten to twenty thousand dollar houses gave from 100 cents to $5 and the name of each member of the family was printed in the local paper for nothing. There were about 1500 contributors out of 4508 voters and 6908 others whose obligation it was to give contributed $12,722.23. You figure the percentage of the contributors. The school children's per cent was 79 per cent of the entire enrollment.

It appears that if this senior stock were called in, it wouldn't yield much individually; something like a box of cigarettes, a box of cigars, and I wouldn't be surprised if a box of cigarettes would settle some shares. I am proud of my investment and NO ONE can buy it from me. You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink. So it will have to be said that this Memorial was erected by the school children of Winchester, with the assistance of Ex-Senator Parkhurst and Ex-Mayor Laraway, although my contribution was small.

I appeal to the 882 voters in Winchester, who, in 1921, allowed this bill to be submitted to Mr. Parkhurst, to wake up, get together, forget what we have given and raise this $30,000. I know of no man, living or dead who has worked as hard for Winchester's good, since I came here in 1891, than Mr. Lewis Parkhurst, so why impose on him? ENOUGH SAID!

"WILDFLOWER" MUSICAL COMEDY
AT THE SOMERVILLE THEATRE

Somerville Theatre patrons appreciate musical comedies and already this season they have been treated to some fine ones. But "Wildflower" which comes next week is far and away ahead of its predecessors, according to the critics. It is different, and that is what audiences like. "The Sweetest, Most Beautiful Musical Comedy Ever Written," it has been termed. It has a cleverly conceived story, filled with clean, refreshing songs, and its tuneful melodies are delightfully entertaining. The company has proved its adaptability to this form of entertainment and the members are looking forward to this presentation. The show will be augmented by a group of lovely and talented torpichoreen tanzlers. At 12:15 next Monday morning the Somerville Players will present their annual New Year's Eve midnight frolic. Favors and noise-makers will be provided by the management to help enter into the holiday spirit in building old 1927 cheer and welcoming in the infant 1928. Old King Jollity, in all his glory will return supreme on that much looked forward to night at the home of the Somerville Players.

WILL OF F. J. O'HARA RE-QUEATHS $90,000

This will of Francis J. O'Hara of this town, a Boston and Gloucester wholesale fish merchant, who died Nov. 19, was filed for probate in the Middlesex probate court this week. Specific bequests amounting to $90,000 were mentioned in the will. No valuation was made. About $50,000 was given Catholic charities and the rest to members of the family.

Mrs. James J. Dunn of West Philadelphia, one of the legatees named in the will to receive $1000, has filed an appearance through her counsel which indicates the possibility of a litigation. A notation in the will that Mrs. Dunn is already well provided for. Another notation in the will declares that any legatee who contests the provisions of the will forfeits his legacy.

Public bequests include $10,000 for the Catholic Foreign Mission Society; $5000 to St. Mary's Parish, Winchester, and to the Holy Ghost Hospital in Cambridge; $3000 each to the Little Sisters of the Poor in Somerville, St. Mary's Infants' Home, the Home for Destitute Catholic Children, St. Vincent De Paul Society and the Sacred Heart Society; $2000 each to the Farmington Hospital and St. Elizabeth's Hospital; $1000 to Maryknoll Mission, and the director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau.

To his son, Francis Jr., a bequest of $1000 and 99 shares in the Boston Fish Market Corporation. William V., another son, receives $2000 and 98 shares in the Francis J. O'Hara Company. His son John, receives $8000. Mrs. P. Donahue, a daughter, will receive $5000; Agnes, another daughter, gets $12,000; and a third daughter, Honora, $14,000.

Some questions and answers about our Christmas Club

What is the purpose of the Christmas Club?

The purpose is to help you and others to accumulate a sum of money for a definite purpose.

In what manner does the Christmas Club accomplish this purpose?

The Christmas Club meets a popular demand by enabling those who make use of it to lay by small amounts weekly.

Does everybody pay in the same?

No, there are several classes, and the payments are different in each class.

Is there a membership fee or any cost to join?

No.

What shall I do to become a member?

All that is necessary is to go to the bank, ask to be enrolled as a member, and make the first week's payment or more.

How are the payments to be made?

Weekly, or in advance for as many weeks as you desire.

What will happen if I cannot keep up my payments?

If for any reason you discontinue your payments you will be paid the amount you have paid in, at the close of the Club term.

When and how can I withdraw?

Under no circumstances will any withdrawal, either in whole or in part, be allowed in advance. What you deposit will be held for you until the close of the Club term.

What form of receipt do I get when I make payments?

Each member is furnished with a pass book containing fifty double coupons, one of which is detached when the deposit is made, the other remaining in the book, both having been stamped paid by the bank.

What would happen if my Coupon Book was lost, stolen or destroyed?

As we have a complete record of the payments of every member, we will pay you whether you have your receipts or not. We will also give you a fresh book to go on with.

Can I become a member of more than one class?

Yes; you can join one or all of the classes.

When are payments due?

Payments are due Monday of each week, or may be made at any time during the calendar week. They may be made for as many weeks in advance as the depositor desires.

CHRISTMAS CANDY

"A carefully planned Christmas menu will help to overcome that very prevalent tendency to eat excessively on the holidays," says Esther V. Erickson, Chemist in Nutrition, State Department of Public Health. The indiscriminate eating of candy between meals always interferes with the complete enjoyment of the Christmas dinner. Candy when used should be considered as a part of the dessert. Delicious and easy candies are exceedingly simple to prepare. Edging is an old standby. A Peanut Butter variety is as follows:

1. Boil 2 cups sugar with 2 cups milk until soft ball will form in cold water.
2. Add 1 cup of nut meats, peanuts, and beat until creamy.
3. Add 1 tablespoonful vanilla and pour into buttered tin.

The use of dates in candy making presents vast possibilities. They can be filled with nut meats, or confectionery sugar filling, or rolled in sugar. Here is a suggestion for Date Leaf.

1. Stone and cut 1/2 lb. dates into small pieces.
2. Boil 2 cups sugar with 1 cup milk until a soft ball will form in cold water.

3. Add 1 cup of nut meats, peanuts, and beat until creamy.
4. Pour into wet cloth and roll into long loaf.
5. No list of Christmas candy is complete without the mention of Peanut Brittle and Popcorn Balls.

Peanut Brittle
1. Chop 1 cup peanuts.
2. Cook 1 cup sugar with 1/2 cup water with no stirring (after sugar melts) until sugar boils a golden brown (240 degrees F. 126 degrees C.).

3. Quickly add the peanuts to the syrup and allow to cool. Crack with a hammer.

Popcorn Balls
1. Boil 1 cup sugar, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup water, until hard ball will form in water (240 degrees F., 122 degrees C.).
2. Pour over popcorn. Stir your hands and fingers until all popcorn is coated.

If half a day cannot be spared in the Christmas rush for candy making the procedure can usually be carried on with the meal preparation. Candy made at home is less expensive. The wholesomeness of home-made candy is assured. There is no doubt as to the quality and purity of the ingredients. Make no exception to the rule for Christmas candy—candy after meals only!

CHRISTMAS RECITAL

On the evening of Dec. 20, Friday, at 7:45 Mrs. Annie Soule Lewis and her pianoforte pupils held their annual "Christmas holidays" informal social and recital, in the Fortnightly Hall, and they are pleased to welcome former pupils, and other interested friends.

Mrs. Lewis will give interpretive remarks on the music, and, also, a brief account of the two Christmas seasons she celebrated when she lived in Leipzig, Germany.

Uses of Poverty

Poverty has played fairly good-mother to many a man; not by changing him in the twinkling of an eye to something else, but by teaching him slowly and silently the lessons of industry and patience and courage and hope, until he found himself at last only half-realizing how a rich man in all that counts most.—Youth's Companion.

THE RETURN OF MARBLE

Most of us remember the homes of our fathers and mothers, with the marble clocks, marble top tables and even marble top bed room suites. Then time came along and discarded the marble for the later styles of oak, walnut and mahogany. At the present time, however, marble is again making its way into the home. Our home enterprises tell us that in addition to their soda fountain business they are making, although working extra time to fill the orders coming in from all over the country for marble fittings for tables, lamps, etc.

These fittings are made in Onyx, Black and Gold, Black, Green, Pink, White Italian and various other styles of marble. Anyone shopping today in the department or furniture stores will find that these marble top end tables,avenport tables, floor lamps, bridge lamps, book ends, smoking equipment and even bread boards for the newest kitchens are shown as the latest novelties.

They present a very rich appearance, have everlasting life, and we have every reason to believe that the style has returned to stay. Early Americans, of the return to the styles of long ago, is held responsible for the present generation appreciating the beauty of natural coloring in marble, especially Onyx, and have you noticed also in rebuilding, marble is used in the Foyers of the newer theatres, hotels and magnificent apartment houses? Of course marble has always been used but not in the colorful attractive way that precludes the idea of coldness that it has always had.

GRANADA THEATRE

If you like good wholesome entertainment that keeps you laughing throughout the evening and sends you home with a satisfied glow do not fail to visit the big Granada Theatre in Mahlen the last of this week and see Esther Radston's new picture "Figures Don't Lie." It is a type of story there should be more of. It doesn't claim to be an epic or portray history making events. It is just a charming, humorous story that makes you feel good all over.

Aviation, now the greatest popular fancy, has its comedy possibilities exploited for the first time in a new motion picture starring Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton called, "Now We're in the Air," which will be presented at the Granada next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday as a special holiday attraction. Beery and Hatton have been co-starred in four pictures and each of them has been a record-breaker. The picture is replete with thrilling aviation situations, but most of the comedy takes place on the ground. Clever gags punctuate the entire production and the picture may be safely said to be the best and funniest that Hatton and Beery have done yet. Louise Brooks is the leading lady.

Mexico Loses Opportunity

Mexican cigar leaf is excellent but tobacco has never assumed importance as an export. It is said that Mexico might rival Cuba if more attention were given to tobacco culture.

Rice is the very plain housewife—And believe me, when I tell you, that the usual market price of a bag like this in Persia is three beautiful women like yourself.—Boston Transcript.

Hawaiian Island Has

Many Claims to Fame

Maul, one of the islands of the Hawaiian group, has for its motto the phrase "Maul no ka oi," meaning "Maul the First." The island authorities have just cited a number of historical facts in support of their boast. Maul has Haleakala, largest extinct volcano crater in the world, the scene in 1823 of the first Christian funeral of a Hawaiian chieftain. The earliest island newspaper, as well as the first on the Pacific coast, was published there in 1834. The paper was called Ka Lani Hawaii, meaning The Arm of Hawaii.

David Maui, earliest Hawaiian historian, was a Maui man. The island also had the first telegraph line strung between Hailu and Wailuku in 1878. The first Hawaiian wheat was planted at Makawae, Maui, in 1875, and not long afterward the first potato plantation was started at Kula, where tubers were raised for the California gold miners.

Romance and Flowers

in Long Association

In the development of gift making in courteships a certain amount of romance centers around the flower. The flower is the gift of lovers, and in early Greek times a flower was worn as a sign of the engagement, the full-blossoming flower suggesting love awakened. The Polynesian, now, as well as the woman, wear flowers behind their ears when they are in love. The survival of another picturesque medieval custom centering around the flower is found in the bride's flower girls of today. In older times these little girls, usually sisters, dressed exactly alike, carried garlands of wheat before the bride in a marriage procession as a symbol of fruitfulness and plenty. The very old and universally observed custom of throwing rice after the departing bride and bridegroom as a symbol of a fruitful union had its origin with the ancient Persians. Rice has always played an important part in the marriage ceremony of these people, while the wheat, however, expressing the same sentiment, was common among the early Anglo-Saxons, and certain other people employed corn. Another interesting tradition regarding the rice shower of these people, while the wheat, however, expressing the same sentiment, was common among the early Anglo-Saxons, and certain other people employed corn. # BAD EXPLOSION AT SWAN ROAD HOME

Chauffeur Fatally Injured as Hot Water Heater Blows Up

Frederick R. Huntington, 42, of 124 Stevens street, Lowell, was fatally injured shortly after 9 o'clock Monday morning when a hot water heater blew up at the residence of A. J. Donahue, 20 Swan road, where the first named was employed as general man and chauffeur.

It is thought that the heater, a small one situated in the laundry of the house and used to heat a garage, had been rendered unfit for use by the freezing of the pressure tank and pipes, causing a large head of steam to back up, seeking a vent. Huntington was apparently bending over the heater when the explosion occurred and was hurled nearly 15 feet across the laundry against a coal stove at the other side of the room.

The force of the bursting heater was plainly felt upon the upper floors of the house and one of its occupants, Miss C. MacLean, hastened to the basement and discovered Huntington's plight. Pulling the unconscious man away from the stove she succeeded in getting him into the cellar where a call was sent in to the Central Fire Station for assistance.

An alarm was sounded from Box 573 at 9:10, bringing Engine 3, Ladder 1, Combination A and the Chief's car to the scene. Huntington was placed upon a stretcher and rushed by Driver Edward J. Quinn and Deputy Chief J. J. Gorman on Engine 3 to the Winchester Hospital where he was attended by Drs. M. J. Quinn and E. M. Hargrove. He was alive when picked up but was so terribly injured about the head and left side that he was beyond medical aid upon his arrival at the operating room and died soon afterward.

Medical Examiner Vernon R. Stewart of Woburn viewed the body and ordered it removed to the local undertaking rooms of E. P. Sullivan where it was later taken in charge by a Lowell undertaker.

The firemen found that damage had been done to no residence which was seen as the W. S. Forbes hot water heater had been blown to pieces and the laundry badly wrecked. The partition nearest the heater was blown out and all the windows in the laundry were shattered. Two doors at the head of the stairs leading to the basement were split and the range and sink in the kitchen were lifted from their fastenings. In the dining room the furniture was shifted about by the shock of the explosion and some of the china was broken. No estimate of the damage was made public but much of it was confined to the laundry and basement of the house. A fire which started in some sheathing at the rear of the laundry stove was quickly put out by the firemen who remained for some time on the job, until Chief David H. DeCorney ready for any emergency while helping more in H. Rogers with taghey and Ed. the Police Department also aided with the work at the house.

Huntington was a widower and made his home with his daughter, Mary Huntington in Lowell where he was known as the head of the F. W. Huntington Company. He is also survived by one son, Edward Huntington of Hallowell, with whom he spent the weekend previous to his fatal accident.

AUSTRALIA'S QUEER ANIMAL LIFE

To the amateur naturalist, Australia is a veritable wonderland, says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic Society. It is rich in wild life of the most amazing types, chiefly marsupials, which, like its well-known kangaroos, carry their young in pouches on their stomachs.

The spread of farming and livestock production over Australia, has thinned the ranks of the queer animals that once swarmed over the land, but representatives of almost every type can still be found either in the back country, or living a precarious existence under man's heels.

A Fur-bearing, Egg-laying Creature
The queerest of Australia's queer animals, and one of the most astounding creatures in the world, is the duck-billed platypus, one of the most primitive mammals known to science.

This creature is covered with fur like a beaver, has webbed feet and a flat bill like a duck, suckles its young, and lays eggs! Like the beaver, the platypus is so wary that it is seldom seen in a wild state. It burrows into stream banks from below the water line, then digs out apartments in the dry ground higher up. In these burrows it hatches its eggs.

The only other egg-laying mammal, the Echidna, also lives in Australia. This little creature has quills like a porcupine and protects itself by rolling into a ball and exposing its bristly spikes. It digs with amazing rapidity, and in soft ground seems to sink right into the earth.

A Tree-climbing Kangaroo

The kangaroo is the best known of Australia's characteristic animals. The first sight of one by a European occurred in June, 1770 when one of Captain Cook's sailors had a glimpse of a queer beast and described it as "an animal something less than a gravenose, of a mouse color, very slender made, and swift of foot." Where there were hundreds of thousands of these gracefully hopping creatures two centuries ago, there are only thousands now, for they were killed in large numbers by settlers, sportsmen and professional kangaroo-hunters. Still some species continue to exist in limited numbers close to settlements; while "out back," on great sheep and cattle ranches, one may still see large herds or "mobs" of the creatures.

One curious member of the kangaroo family, is the tree-climbing kangaroo, which is sometimes seen about on the ground, it is much more at home among tree branches. These animals move from tree to tree at night, and sleep in the daytime.

Marsupial "Cats" and "Bears"
There is at least a rough parallel among Australia's marsupials and many of the common animals of Europe and America. As a result the names of the queer creatures have in many cases been forced out of use by American and European names that do not exactly apply. The Australian "flying squirrels" are shagwogs—marsupials also. The wombat is called a "badger" because his mode of life is similar to that of the latter animal. There are marsupial mice and rats, and to complete the picture, a marsupial "cat" which preys upon them. These "cats," however, prefer to raid poultry pens.

One of the most attractive animals is the Koala, called "native bear." This animal too, is a marsupial and in the adult state resembles a true bear only superficially. The little koalas, however, look exactly like toy "teddy bears." There is only one baby bear at a time, and after it graduates from the marsupial pouch, it is carried pick-a-back by its mother wherever she goes.

The "Devil" Stands Alone
The "tiger" is confined to Tasmania and owes his name to a striped leopard rather than to any other close resemblance to the great jungle cat of Asia. In reality the animal looks more like a wolf than a tiger, and has super-wolfish traits, being a notorious sheep-killer.

The "Tasmanian Devil" is one animal among the queer creatures of the Antipodes that seems to have a sufficiently characteristic appearance not to be given animal name borrowed from foreign lands—at least earthly lands. He is an ugly, ferocious beast, and is even more notorious as a sheep and poultry killer than the "tiger." He gives a faint suggestion of jackal, wolf, and wild cat rolled into one. He has almost been exterminated, and probably will not last many years longer.

The dingo or dingoo dog of Australia is believed by scientists not to be a native of the continent, but rather to have been introduced ages ago by wanderers from Asia. This is the largest mammal of Australia which is not of the marsupial family.

WHO'S WHO AMONG THE WINDS

According to the National Geographic Society:

A Gale is a strong, straight wind. Whirlwind: An eddy of air which whisks up dust; or stronger whirl of air such as that which strips leaves from a cornfield and sends them hundreds of feet aloft.

Tornado: A violent, powerful whirlwind, covering a small area, that sucks up heavy objects or twists them from their moorings. Its vertical forces are more important than its horizontal ones.

Hurricane: A violent circular system of winds in the tropics and semi-tropics of the Atlantic and Caribbean, covering a considerable area and moving long distances. These are the strongest of the predominantly horizontal winds. One hundred miles an hour is their usual maximum for the winds toward the center of circulation. Typhoon: A hurricane in the tropical waters of the Pacific.

Waterspout: A tornado or violent whirlwind over water. Cyclone: A continually misused term. In popular parlance, any destructive wind is a "cyclone." Properly, a cyclone is a circular system of winds covering a great area (sometimes 1000 miles across, and including gentle breezes as well as stiff winds). Cyclones are beneficial rather than harmful. They give us most of our weather changes. Each "low" on the daily weather map has its cyclonic system of winds circulating around it. When Nature dips her spoon in the weather brew and stirs, the result is a cyclone.

Old Anglo-Saxon Term

Quit rent is a corruption of the old Anglo-Saxon "hwit rent," or white rent, so called because it was paid in silver coins. It was an annual charge paid by a tenant to the lord of the manor in place of certain services which otherwise the tenant had to render, such as plowing in his lord's field.

Light and Sound

The bureau of standards says that light and sound are transmitted by different media, and the speed of travel is determined by the properties of the transmitting medium. Sound is transmitted through air or some liquid or solid matter, but light will pass through a vacuum.

M. C. W. G. NOTES

The annual Christmas social of the club, as announced by President E. A. Schell, is scheduled for next Wednesday evening, Dec. 28, at 8 o'clock in the Lyceum Hall. An invitation to attend has been extended to Winchester Lodge of Elks, officers and members and each "Big Brother" is assured that the litch-string will be out, especially for him on this occasion and that there will be no "tax" attached to the string.

Each sister has the privilege of inviting whom she pleases, providing she furnishes gifts for her invited guests. She is also permitted to bring an "exchange gift" as these are for distribution among the club members. The entertainment committee, headed by Vice-President Anne Hanlon, will present a most attractive program, with the Flood Company's motion pictures, vaudeville sketches by "Pete" Holland, Mrs. Eva Johnson, Mrs. May Trainor and the Misses Elizabeth Fitzgerald and Margaret Sullivan showing film. Also there will be specialty acts by the attractive young misses, Evelyn Gordin, Dorothy and Myrtle Goodwin, and Peggy King, and a character sketch and step-dancing by Mr. James Horn. Some program, we'll say? Then, too, there will be dancing—jazz if you want it, or glide in the old-time waltz if you prefer. Anyway, John "Sonny" Coakley and his orchestra will be right there with the symphony. Christmas cake and candy, with ice cream donated by the Flood Company, will be served by the refreshment committee.

Of course there will be a Christmas tree "all lit up" and a handsome Santa Claus—not so illuminated—to do the honors. As a fitting climax to the welfare work accomplished by both organizations at this season, it is hoped that all will unite in making this a real relaxation time and the best Christmas ever.

The New Year's social, sponsored by the club, will be held Jan. 26, that being the second regular meeting night. Chairman A. M. Hanlon and her committee have plans for a large card party and a progressive report will be submitted at the next meeting, Wednesday evening, Jan. 11, in the Lyceum Hall.

Needs Special Climate

The forage plant, serotonia, is largely grown in Germany, but not used in the United States. It is grown for hay and for soil improvement. It requires cool weather and a great deal of moisture for growing. Experiments in the United States have shown that it will do fairly well in Florida, except during cold spells when it winter kills.

Sirus Was Guide

Long star, Sirus, was a guide for the ancient Egyptians as to the rising of the River Nile.

At this time, the officers extend sincere wishes to the members and their friends for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

On Monday, Dec. 26, Christmas tree exercises will be held at the Home for Destitute Children on Harrison avenue, Boston. This is an annual affair contributed to jointly by all the guilds. A delightful program is presented for the amusement of the little folks followed by the distribution of gifts and refreshments. The members of the several guilds and their friends are invited to attend.

The officers and members of Winchester branch of Massachusetts Catholic Women's Guild extend to Sister Elizabeth Noonan their sincere sympathy on the loss of her brother, Thomas Quigley, Sr., who passed away at Newburyport last Saturday.

First Iron Rails

Although the United States, as everyone knows, is the country with more railroad miles than any other, it is surprising that the first iron rails for the building of the first railroads were imported from Europe. It was in May, 1829, that the ship Alexander arrived at Baltimore from Liverpool with the first iron rails and equipment for the construction of the first railroad in the United States.

Tides Travel Far

The ocean tide may be felt in the Mississippi river as far up as Red River landing, 267 miles above the mouth; in the Delaware river as far up as Trenton, N. J., 131.5 miles above the mouth; and in the Hudson as far up as Troy dam, 153 miles above the mouth.

Canoeing Sport Revived

The old Indian practice of canoeing was slowly but surely dying out when it was brought back to life by the organization of the American Canoe association in 1891. Due to the work of this association canoeing today is one of the most popular of summer sports.

WADLEIGH SCHOOL ANNOUNCES BONORS

The following members of the Wadleigh School have been announced as honor pupils for the first quarter of the school year. (An honor pupil, according to Wadleigh standards is one who has in major subjects at least two A's and the rest B's and in minor subjects A's, B's or C's.)

Grade 8—Caroline Abbott, Henry C. Anderson, Barbara Chulley, Isabel Healey, Margaret Nash, William Abbott, Martha Boyden, Arla Gliden, William Hickey, Stanley Osgood, Anna Wilson.

Grade 7—Virginia Besse, Lucy Fowler, Priscilla Chamlerlain, Elizabeth Packer, Barbara Ritchie, Ruth Stone.

Credit List

(A pupil on the credit list is one who has in major subjects not more than two C's, and the rest A's and B's; in minor subjects, nothing less than C.)

Grade 8—Helen Barry, Anne Claffin, Henry Fitts, Martha Howlett, John Johnson, Sterling Macdonald, Jean Thompson, Dorothy Bidwell, Daniel Daley, Roberta Healey, Carolyn Kellogg, Josephine Macdonald, Margaret Marchant, William Towner, Robert Wagner.

Attendance Honor Roll

The following pupils were neither absent, tardy, nor excused from Sept. 8, 1926, to June 16, 1927: Mason Barksdale, Albert Hale, George Jackson, Margaret O'Connor, Bruce Colson, Martha Howlett, Lewis Latimore, Arla Gliden, Allard Spencer.

Proud of Football Team

Though the Wadleigh football team lost both its games with the high school, the team of the varsity squad the younger boys nevertheless made a fine showing against their more experienced opponents. Many of the Wadleigh players looked sufficiently good to warrant the prediction that they will make valuable additions to the high school teams in years to come.

The list of the Wadleigh players who were coached by Angelo Tofuri follows: Kenneth Campbell, Andrew Diapella, Edward Hieblorn, Andrew Lentine, Harold McElhenny, William Mills, James Rosa, Charles Carroll, Thomas Hammond, Hal Knowlton, John Lynch, Robert McGetters, Daniel Pearson, capt.; William Symmes, Valentino Tarruini.

UNIVERSITY THEATRE

For Sunday only the feature pictures at the University are "A Man's Past" with Conrad Veidt and "The Rawhide Kid" one of Host Gillson's best.

For the remaining six days of the week beginning Monday the feature is "Seven Hours" starring the youthful lovers Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell give interpretations that place them in the very front ranks of cinema stars. Janet Gaynor appears as the winsome, frightened and finally glorified "Diane," and Charles Farrell is the handsome, egotistical, generous and thoroughly lovable "Chicago."

"Seventh Heaven" is the story of love, the love of a Parisian, a worker in the sewers of Paris and a wife of the Paris streets. But because of the glorious doctrine of marriage which it preaches and the marvelous things it does to both of their characters it has been called one of the greatest and one of the most beautiful love stories ever written. The play created a sensation when produced for a record run on Broadway, and the picture is surpassing the reputation established by the play.

Arrests for Drunkenness in Boston Drop

According to statistics given in the annual report of Edward J. Lord, clerk of the Municipal Criminal Court, for the year ending Nov. 1, arrests for drunkenness in the city of Boston dropped nearly 1900 during the past 12 months. The report also gives the information that there was also a decrease in the number of arrests by the Boston police for other offenses frequently associated with intoxication, such as assault and battery, cruelty to animals and disorderliness.

"Prohibition and law enforcement will be an issue in the coming campaign. We ought to be prepared to throw our vote on the affirmative side to make it easy for the Republican party to come out clearly for prohibition," declared Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, first woman representative in the Illinois legislature, in a speech at the recent convention of the Illinois Republican Women's Club in Chicago. "The world expects women to be constructive and that protect the home and the child. Women in high political offices need to come out frankly for the things they believe. Mrs. O'Neill told newspaper reporters that after her speech, "Women came up to her in droves to express their approval. Many women said they were amazed that the subject had not been brought up before."

SANG IN PARIS FOR FATHIE

Christmas Day was made particularly happy for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence A. Warren of Everett avenue, by the receipt on Christmas Eve of a package from Paris containing two "Fathie" records made by the singer, Virginia, who is living there pursuing her musical education. In November Miss Warren sang "By the Waters of Minnetonka" by Legerance and "Anne Laurie" by Lady John Scott, for Fathie, which has a studio in Paris, and she sent records of each home to her family, which, singularly enough, arrived Christmas Eve. Mr. and Mrs. Warren have taken great pleasure in playing the records to their friends and to the many friends of their daughter, who were delighted to hear her sing soprano voice, especially under the unique circumstance of her being so far away.
